Foreword

To members of the student body, faculty, and friends this Pod is presented. Many schools of the East Bay area have deemed it necessary to abolish annuals for the duration of the war, but we of Berkeley High feel that at a time when we are all striving to maintain our present way of living, the best way to reach this end is to continue that way of living.

In the years to come we hope that in turning through this book you find again some of the pleasures that you have experienced at B.H.S. In this year's Pod, you, the students, will find yourselves in pictures of your classes, at play, and in the different activities that make high school what it is. We take you back a generation or so, that you may see what your teachers looked like as babies.

On behalf of the staff, I would like to thank all those who have contributed to the production of this book. Without this aid it would have been impossible.

I wish to thank the members of the staff and Mr. McClusky, faculty advisor, for their constant co-operation and help. The producing of a year book requires the contributions and interest of every member of its staff, and this year's staff has been most generous with both.

NANCY SUTTON, Editor.

Mr. Asturias' 100% Home Room

Out of Berkeley High's 92 home rooms, Mr. Jose Asturias H11 home room was the only one to reach perfection—100 per cent in Pod sales.

But perfection was not easy. For the Burkeleyan had been reading baseball stories, and was holding out.

Bullfinger and Ragweed shunned him; Anesthesia ignored him; Mr. Asturias solemnly said, "Usted es un muchacho muy mal." But the Burker was unabashed. He would not buy a Pod. He hadn't finished reading his grandmother's '98 issue.

When he received threatening notes, the Burkeleyan was not fazed. When he got Anonymous phone calls, he was not fazed. But when some one put arsenic in his Snow Boy, and he had to have his stomach pumped, the Burkeleyan was fazed. With all the strength at his feeble command he delivered his piggy bank to the accountant.

Bullfinger and Ragweed bought him a new Snow Boy; Anesthesia did his geometry home work; Mr. Asturias dedicated a stirring rendition of La Cucaracha to him. And there was joy in room G203 that day, for the mighty Burkeleyan had bought his Pod.

JOHN CATANESI

Yep, he's the tops! Berkeley High's hero for Pod sales, John Catanesi. Johnnie sold 58, (count 'em) Olla Podridas.

In spite of ceaseless questioning, he was exceedingly mum as to the manner in which he convinced those 58 students to part with their hard-earned dollars.

But from some of his victims we learned a little of the truth, the major part of which is to remain a secret forever.

For the most of us, it makes little difference as to how he sold the most Pods.

To one John Catanesi, sportsman and well-liked personality around Berkeley for the past three years, goes thanks and congratulations from the Pod staff.

MR. LeTENDRE,
Principal.

Principal's Message

In planning our program and administrative organization we have taken into consideration the constant demands which are arising on account of the war. We are trying to meet the demands of a world engaged in war, and at the same time we are trying to lay a finer foundation for the world of peace which we hope may follow.

Our students are meeting these demands in an admirable way. Most of them are participating in some course which will make them more efficient in a contribution toward the war effort. Most of them are making some daily contribution in money or service which is helping our government. Most of them are still taking work which will enable them to enter an institution of higher learning.

The reward for this good work and this good citizenship is independence and freedom. We are attempting to give these to our students in the management of their own affairs this semester and they have shown that this responsibility can be accepted.

The morale of the Student Body during 1942-1943 is a source of real satisfaction to the faculty and to me.

ELWIN LeTENDRE
Principal.

MISS KINELL

MR. NEALSON
Dean of Men

Every day we say goodbye to another student who goes off to take his place in the armed forces, prepared, we hope, to do a better job because of the training which he has received here. There is less glory in staying at home; but you know that your work is vital, too; and so each one of you plods along giving what you can, learning what you can, so that you will be better able to render greater service. And the future? It will be just what you, the youth of today, educated to take your places as the leaders of tomorrow, will be able to bring out of our victorious peace.

Cora E. Hampel

It is a pleasure and inspiration to work with you girls of Berkeley High School and to share in your problems, joys, and aspirations. Most of you are proving yourselves worthy of the privileges that you as Americans are enjoying and are availing yourselves of every opportunity to develop in ability and character so that you will be able to take your place in the community life of tomorrow.

Miss Helen Kinell

Priority must now be given to the winning of the war—and winning the war requires the services of young men and women. We are proud of the way each one of you is making your personal contribution toward this end. Even though the Berkeley High School is only one of the 28,000 high schools in the Nation, and you are only one of the 6,500,000 students enrolled, your individual responsibility does not change. Continue to choose wisely, work diligently, stay physically and morally sound, so that you will be ready for war, ready for victory, and ready for peace.

Seniors

Monday, August 26, 1940, 680 young and bewildered children began their high school careers.

During the time that followed new ones joined them. Over a hundred left them. Many are now fighting for them.

As a class they have been represented by five presidents: Jay Teasdel and Reed Stone as Sophomores; Paul O'Driscoll and Stan Johnson as Juniors; and Bob Bonar as a Senior.

Individually and collectively they have done big things and little things. They've starred in shows and changed scenery, played football and carried water, held offices and run errands. They've all done things.

Thursday, June 17, 1943, approximately 550 older and more experienced youth leave . . . leave to do all the big and little things that make America. They'll do good jobs, too; they're used to doing good jobs.

Student Government

SCOT GEORGE
Student Body President

What did we accomplish this semester? We students of Berkeley High did a great deal to create better school spirit. We sold 2170 student body cards, which is a record for the spring semester. We kept the Treasury Flag flying by surpassing our war stamp quota every month. We also stimulated participation in our student government.

The Board of Control planned for a better student government and a program every two weeks. Both aims were accomplished.

For the first time in our history a sample BOC meeting was presented before the entire student body.

All important student body topics were discussed in home room. Many worthwhile suggestions were reported by the homeroom representatives at their monthly meetings. One of the topics discussed was the Campaign Policy. It had already been condensed and revised by the BOC. It allows all candidates free, democratic campaigns.

A new column in the 'Jacket entitled "A Peek at the Minutes" kept the students informed of BOC affairs. The column recorded that the Board was financially generous this term. It bought the swimming team a complete set of suits and sweatclothes. It also gave the 'Jacket more money than ever before.

Rallies were placed in the hands of the Rally Committee. These supplied entertainment and spurred our spring sports teams on to victory.

The Board also contributed to our social season by sponsoring the "Hawaiian Holiday" March fifth.

A successful Clean-Up Campaign was held. This was continued by the new Student Welfare Committee.

All in all this has been a successful semester through the full cooperation of the students and the hard work of the Board. On the Board's behalf, I thank you and wish you good luck in the future, Berkeley High.

Rally Committee

Berkeley High's boys with the red and gold caps are well known to ninety-nine per cent of the student body at BHS, but in case that other one per cent is in doubt as to what they really do, here is the condensed low down.

The Rally Committee is composed of fellows attending Berkeley High who have reached their twelfth year.

Its chairman for the past term was Bob Connolly, one swell guy.

The committee's activities are too numerous to go into in detail, but we can take some of the more important and more noticed ones.

You all know that they keep you from taking the stairs that would get you to your Spanish class two minutes earlier, and that they keep anxious blondes and rushing scholars from crowding too obviously into the library line. On the slope, they are guardians of public health, safety and morale. When Berkeley High went all-out for a certain clean-up campaign, it was the Rally Committee who put teeth in the drive and made it such a success.

At basketball, baseball or football games and at track meets, it is the Rally Boys who keep that Joe who wants to get to the top of the stands from being rolled from top to bottom.

All in all, it is the Rally Boys who keep Berkeley High running as smoothly as it does. They're doing a super job and we hope they keep up the fine work.

Two representatives, one boy and one girl, are elected the first week of the term by each home room to represent them in the class council. The council is presided over by a group of five officers who are elected at the general student body elections the semester previous to their term in office. The officers are president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and social secretary. The president of each class represents his class on the Board of Control.

Class councils meet whenever the officers and faculty sponsors feel it necessary to plan or discuss a class problem or project.

The various home room representatives report to their respective home rooms anything calling for the attention of the entire class. There it is voted on or discussed and the consensus conveyed to the council. Any suggestion concerning the entire student body should also be given to the home room representative, for through him the suggestion can be called to the attention of the class president, who in turn will take it up at a BOC meeting.

BERKELEY HIGH JACKET

Thirty-one years of continued publication is the record of the Berkeley High Jacket. Founded in 1912 under the headpiece of the Weekly News, it is supported by student body funds and distributed free of charge to the entire student body.

Journalism II and III students hold the staff positions, do the makeup, originate the heads, and write most of the copy. The latter part of the term, Journalism I students are given assignments and put out one cub issue.

All printing and linotyping are done by the boys and girls in the print shop, while the art work is done by student photographers and artists.

This term, under the editorship of Nancy Jory, the Jacket has made many advances. Made possible by the B.O.C.'s generous allotment, the publication has returned to its pre-war five-column size, and it has been possible to have from three to four cuts weekly.

Another improvement is the new front and editorial page mats designed by Herb Briggs. The drawing of the ultra-modern Berkeley High building symbolizes a new phase in Berkeley High journalism—the Jacket of 1943.

MR. H. L. WAGENET
Department Head

PRINT

Berkeley High's print shop is one of the more interesting and educational shop courses offered at Berkeley.

Various types of type-setting, press operation and linotype operation are made available for the student who wishes to make printing his vocation.

Most of the printed forms, registration cards, teacher's schedules and other printed material is turned out in the print shop.

The course holds just as many opportunities for girls as it does for boys, and this is shown by the increase of girls enrolled in the printing classes.

With Mr. George McClusky as instructor, and the fine material available for operation, Berkeley High's print shop produces many able boys who may step into a job immediately.

RADIO

The radio shops at Berkeley High are one of the not unimportant vocational studies available.

Under the direction of Mr. Milton Winsby, boys taking radio shop are learning not only to build and repair radios, but also to understand the principles of radio-telephony.

A newly established radio-communications class is teaching the fellows to send and receive the international Morse code. This training is very important, especially for boys and girls who are planning to enter the services at the conclusion of high school.

AUTO

Mr. Hugh Reinecke's classes in auto shop take apart anything that has a motor in it and endeavor to replace parts where they belong. As a rule, the parts usually come out pretty even, and the wreck they tow into the shop comes out running like a clock.

Many a forgotten jalopy has been reconditioned and put back into very active service, complete with dual pipes, Carson top and dual-downdraft pots.

In case the last few words were Greek to you, take a gander at the Berkeley High auto shop someday and maybe you'll be persuaded to take the course and have some fun and learn something about automobiles at the same time.

MACHINE

About the most important shop course during the war emergency is Mr. Chauncey King's machine shop.

Here boys and girls learn what a metal lathe is, what makes it tick and how to operate one skillfully.

All kinds of drill press, shaper, and engine lathe operations are studied during the progress of the course.

The shipyards are urgently in need of trained machinists, and Berkeley High's machine shop is doing a fine job of producing the necessary boys who can take over a vital war job between the time of graduation and when the Army calls them.

Vocational Courses for Victory

The shops at Berkeley High are among the more important and practical activities in which the school engages.

One of the few schools in California that has such a complete shop course for students, Berkeley High is instrumental in turning out freshly trained mechanics, machinists, printers, woodworkers, radio repairmen and boys to be future draftsmen.

WOOD

Boys in the wood shop groups learn to make everything from a small pair of book ends to large doors and small booths for ticket selling.

Mr. John Morrill, instructor of wood shop, and the boys taking the course answered the call of the Army and Navy when they expressed a need for scale model planes.

Our shops came through with a much greater number than their quota called for, and are still producing them steadily.

Besides building various things of wood, the boys learn how to handle carpenter's tools, how to operate the different power tools, and just what type of tool to use on that certain job.

SHEET

The art of working sheet metal into just the desired shape and form is what Mr. Harold Bellus, instructor in sheet metal and mechanical drawing courses, endeavors to teach the aspiring students.

Many kinds of rain spouts, roof vents and other irregular shaped types of fixtures are turned out by the sheet metal classes.

A very necessary trade for a boy who wants to go into a war job and a very interesting one at any rate, is the course in sheet metal working.

DRAWING

The Mechanical drawing and Industrial drawing classes at Berkeley really put out some trained draftsmen. With only high school drawing, a boy or girl can get a job in industry and earn very substantial pay. The field is not limited to boys alone, for a good deal of the drawing classes have a number of girls enrolled.

Mr. Edward Dunkum heads the department, and Mr. Clifford Marker and Mr. Bellus also teach this subject.

The training obtained in taking these courses is very valuable for the war effort and it is also a fine field to enter for a lifetime vocation.

STAGE AND ELECTRIC

All that expert lighting, sound and stage setting at the Berkeley High plays and operettas is the doing of the Electric and Stage crews, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Porter.

Valuable experience in microphone work and public address systems is offered when the boys set up the systems for games, rallies and class meetings.

INDUSTRIAL SCIENCE, PHOTOGRAPHY

Mr. Richard Behrens, teaching both Industrial Science and Photography courses, is the man to see if you are interested in two very educational, interesting and worthwhile courses.

Industrial science gives the student a chance to show what he can do in terms of actual practice. Projects are assigned and carried out.

It's not all building, however, because there is some applied trade physics and a little chemistry added to give the fellows an all around knowledge of the course.

In his photography course, Mr. Behrens teaches the group the art of photography. Taking pictures, developing and printing them are among the items included in the course of study.

GENERAL

Covering nearly all phases of shop work, from casting metal to plumbing, Mr. Fred Flanders' General Shop course gives the boys an all-around knowledge of most shop procedures.

Wood-turning, forging and metal-turning are also among the things the boys and girls are trained to do. As most of the other shop courses, the General Shop is no longer exclusive to boys.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

The A Cappella Choir is one of the well known musical groups at Berkeley High School. This organization under the supervision of Mrs. Eunice Skinner is recognized throughout Berkeley as a splendid choral group and is called upon again and again to entertain at various gatherings around town. To be a member of this class is the goal of most of the students of other vocal divisions, but only pupils with at least a year of glee club experience are eligible to join.

The main project of the group this spring is the choir festival in which numerous high schools in the East Bay participate. This festival is not a competitive event, but if it were, Berkeley High would be sure to come out with some top honors.

PRODUCTION CHORUS

The production chorus is a fairly new group here at Berkeley High. It was formed last year by Mrs. Eunice Skinner, choral director. Since then it has become one of the outstanding organizations of the school. Many of its members are ex-members of the A Cappella Choir, who changed over into the new group when it was first organized. The balance of the class is composed of boys and girls from the glee clubs.

Berkeley High depends upon this group to supply music at assemblies and other school functions requiring a mixed chorus. The production chorus forms a major part of the cast for the operetta. Another important project covered by this group is graduation. Commencement exercises requiring vocal contributions are served by this class along with the A Cappella.

THE BAND

Berkeley High's Band, the blaze of color and noise at the football games, usually leads a quiet life during the spring semester. Late this March, the Band gave a concert. Probably the part you most remember is band leader Mr. Morton's elaborate introduction to "a Scottish Member" which turned out to be "Comin' Thro' the Rye."

The Band, composed of students, represents Berkeley High in many extra curricular activities, and has taken top awards in many competitive events.

THE ORCHESTRA

The Berkeley High orchestra is given its workout of the year, in the spring semester when the annual operetta is presented. This semester "The Fortune Teller" by Victor Herbert was chosen by the music classes and the heads of the department to be this spring's presentation.

Mr. Earl Morton, head of the department, is director of the orchestra, which is considered to be one of the best in the bay area.

THE ORCHESTRA

First Violins: Leonie Logan, Irene Holland, Jean White, Janet Kiteas, Steven Stephanos, Celia Elmore, Helen Skupowski, Jack Morrow. Second Violins: John Taylor, Ruth Chrestenson, Laur Bepler, Toby Plough, Helena Anderson, Hans Beerwald, Pearl Segrist, Marion Lee McIntire, Peggy Cunningham, Sam Bartlett, Betty Pearson, Walter Fisko. Violas: Nancy Jory, Dorothy Eastwood. Cellos: Bernice Bedwell, John Reynolds, Marcia Easton, Carol Smith. Bass: Lois Doran, Mildred Adams. Piano: Betty Suffern, Barbara Francis, Patricia Salter, Marjorie Wierzbicky. Flute: Betty Van Boven, Joan Stewart. First Clarinet: Austin Holt, Don Timm. Second Clarinet: Eric Nelson, Charles Faulders. Bassoon: John Aweka. Trumpet: Ross Taylor, Converse Hunter. Horn: Robert Johnson. Trombones: Jim Turner, William Melnicoe. Tympani: Adeline August. Drums: Phyllis Prindle.

The Operetta

The operetta is an annual spring event and looked forward to by both the school at large and especially by the boys and girls of the music classes. The chorus is composed of students from the Girls' Glee, Boys' Glee, Production Chorus and the A Cappella Choir. Leads are chosen by a committee of teachers at try-outs which are open to anyone wishing to take part in the show. The orchestra handles the musical scores under the direction of Mr. Earl Morton.

Mrs. Eunice Skinner, who usually supervises the choral work, was taken ill shortly before the production went into its last rehearsals, but her pupils did her proud on the two nights of the show by giving splendid performances.

This year's operetta, "The Fortune Teller," was one of the most colorful ever produced at Berkeley High School. Presented in the B.H.S. Social Hall on April 15 and 16, it played to packed houses both nights, and won the acclaim of faculty and students alike.

Taking the leads were Jackie Smyrl, Bob Rice, Eric Hoeg, and Bill Tooley, who, with a supporting cast of sixty boys and girls, really went to town. The acting, under the directorship of Mrs. Florence Schwimley, cannot be overlooked, nor can the gay dance routines worked out by Miss Ingrid Scherini, both of which went to make this an outstanding production of the spring semester.

CAMERA CLUB

The Camera Club meets every other Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Mr. Richard Behrens. At the meeting professional photographers speak to the group on various photographic techniques. Each term the club sponsors a salon and the best prints are exhibited in the lobby of the Academic Building. Several complete darkrooms are put at the disposal of the members, where they are able to develop, print, and enlarge their photographs. The president during this semester has been Jason Day.

PROJECTION CLUB

One of the most important clubs at Berkeley High in the light of service given to the school is the Projection Club. Every time you see a movie in physics or sociology, there is a projection club member behind the projector. Students, who belong to the Club, frequently give up their study and lunch periods in order to run the projecting machine. Mr. Clarence Berwith, faculty sponsor; Harry McCoy, president, and all the boys are due a vote of thanks from the student body.

Basketball

BERKELEY 27, ALBANY 10

Our 1943 cagers got off to a fine start in the ACAL season by taking a surprisingly weak Albany five, 27-10.

The game was ours from the beginning, though Albany showed momentarily in the first quarter by taking the lead, 4-3.

Jim Enos, who was to play a lot of fine basketball for Berkeley in the next few weeks, took top honors with ten markers, while "Buck" Kirby followed with six. This game found all of the "stars to be," playing excellent lead-off ball.

Big Dale Hall and John Catanesi kept all of Albany's stray shots from being rebounded, and at the first look, the 1943 Berkeley quintet seemed to be set for a banner year.

BERKELEY 25, PIEDMONT 19

Even traditional rivals fell before this wonder team of 1943.

BERKELEY 38, ALAMEDA 29

Determined to finish the first round of league play with four victories under their belts, the Berkeley Jackets polished off the Alameda Hornets.

Though the Hornets grabbed an early lead, Berkeley rallied and set a fast pace to keep the game out of hot water from then on.

"Buck" Kirby was "hot," scoring 13 points, with Jim Enos second in scoring with 10 points to his credit.

Keeping up the fast pace set in the previous league encounter and practice games, Berkeley came through in a wild free-for-all to cop the game.

"Chee" Miller, "Buck" Kirby and Jim Enos again showed all that they were to be champions on any court.

Little Joe Stuart of Piedmont, a little mixed as to whether it was football or basketball, made some very nice tackles.

BERKELEY 32, HAYWARD 31

In the first real thriller of the season, Berkeley met its traditional "jinx" team at Hayward and found that even potential champions have their slumps.

In spite of Kirby's, Enos' and Miller's efforts, Hayward kept up Berkeley's pace and even in the final seconds, it seemed as though Hayward would spoil Berkeley's dream of an undefeated season. A last-minute chance, taken by a Hayward guard, was muffed, and maybe a little bit by luck, Berkeley emerged victor and extended its winning streak to three straight.

BERKELEY 34, ALBANY 34

The game with the Cougars started innocently enough with the Jackets going into a comfortable half-time lead.

With little Herb Jotter and "Bugs" Glaser going to town, the Albany five soon pulled up the Jackets and then surged ahead.

From then on it was nip and tuck. Both teams exchanged baskets from all over the floor. In the final seconds, with the gym scoreboard reading 33-32, Herb Jotter dribbled the length of the court and sank a beautiful backhanded shot to put the Cougars in the win column.

But—a mix-up in the score, a fifteen minute argument that prevented an overtime, and more mix-ups in the official scorebooks, resulted in the tie, 34-34.

BERKELEY 33, PIEDMONT 23

After the Albany mix-up it was a pleasure for the Berkeley cagers to settle down to some not-so-complicated basketball.

Meeting Piedmont on our hardwood, in the second round, Berkeley repeated its former victory and again came out on top, 33-23.

Dave Souther came into his own in this game, garnering top scoring honors, trailed by Dale Hall and John Catanesi.

The Piedmont squad was a much improved outfit from its previous tussle with the Jackets.

Berkeley entered the second half trailing by one point, but Souther and company soon found their shooting eyes and from there on in, Berkeley was in control of events to come.

An extremely spirited rooting section attended the game, so spirited that the referees called a technical foul because of excess noise.

BERKELEY 43, HAYWARD 36

Another home game; another victory. The supposed "jinx" of the Hayward Farmers failed to stop our pennant hopeful Jackets, as the boys came through with a clean win, 43-36.

"Buck" Kirby, Jim Enos and Dave Souther were the big guns for our quintet, while Tom Peek and Julio Santucci of the Farmers did their bit.

It's six straight for the Jackets; time for a let-down!

BERKELEY 19, ALAMEDA 39

It must happen to all great teams, experts say, and so it did happen to the great Jacket aggregation.

It was just like taking candy from a baby for the Alameda cagers. Berkeley players just didn't have the get-up and go.

Jim Enos, the only Berkeleyan to make any kind of a showing, scored eight points in the final quarter to almost complete Berkeley's scoring.

BERKELEY 35, ALBANY 32

In a real thriller, and showing their old vim and vigor, the 'Jackets took a close one from the Albany Cougars to put the finishing touches on the 1943 ACAL basketball season.

The game was close all the way, and the "do or die" Cougars almost took victory from the Jackets many times. "Chee" Miller showed his mettle in this contest, taking high point honors and engineering the team through some tough spots.

A slight consolation to our wounded pride was the fact that this win put us in the upper brackets with a co-championship with Alameda for the ACAL crown.

That's all for basketball this year, and it was one of the best seasons ever at Berkeley High.

Track

TRACK TEAM

The track team took the season right in stride by taking the California School for the Deaf in the first meet of the season.

In the first tussle of the ACAL season, they really plastered the Albany tracksters, 91-13.

It must have been the high spirits from the Albany meet that caused the Berkeley squad to suffer at the hands of their traditional rivals, the Piedmont Scots.

With the track season at a close, it's time we reviewed the outstanding trackmen of the year.

The inexhaustible Bill Wilson, 880 king, and no slouch in the mile, tops the list. Fran Farquhar, running the mile, is the other boy in the distance events.

Reed Tolman, and Bud Wilson take care of the 440, while Stan Johnson and Mel Eggett run the 100 and 160 low hurdles, respectively. Mel also competes in the broad jump and Stan runs again in the 160-yard dash.

For the mighty "C" team, "Bullet" Bill Bailey is the shining star. Bill does the 50, 100 yard dashes and also the broad jump. Bill will definitely be back next season to do some more fancy running for the old Alma Mater.

Baseball

In spite of the prevailing war conditions, transportation difficulties and other obstacles in the path of our 1943 baseball nine, they had a very fine spring season.

Many excellent ball players have proved their worth. Jim Enos of basketball fame took over first base and rarely was found off of the number one bag. Bobby Gray, the little man who played such super football, was custodian of the Keystone and Lou Davio was on third a good deal of the time. Sam Lema covered the shortpatch territory very nicely.

In the outfield it was John Evans, Vern Rezendies and Russ Bruzzone. Doug Duncan and Al McCulloch alternated behind the plate.

The pitching duties fell on veteran Leo Woolridge, Tom Curtis, Jim Fish and Bud Coulter.

During the practice season, the Berkeley team met a host of teams including Uni High, Oakland Tech, McClymonds and the Cal Frosh.

The Jackets took both games with Uni High, lost one and won one with Tech, split with McClymonds and lost to the Cal Frosh, 10-0.

All in all, the practice season was good experience for the baseballers.

OAKLAND TECH 5, BERKELEY 7

Starting the practice season with Oakland Tech, the Jacket nine showed what was to be expected of them by dumping the Bulldogs for a 7-5 loss.

Berkeley trailed the game up to the fourth inning, when Vern Rezendies knocked out a triple with the bases loaded to tie the score.

Later the outfield came through again to put the game in the cooler for the Jackets. Bart Bulmore, another promising hitter, came through with a home run with three on to cinch the game.

CAL FROSH 10, BERKELEY 0

Taking their first defeat of the season at the hands of the much superior Cal Frosh team, the Berkeley nine came out of the disaster a more serious and wiser squad.

Though the first four innings went scoreless, the Bear Cubs pulled out in front quickly and kept up the pressure until the final inning.

McCLYMONDS 4, BERKELEY 8

The Jackets really came back in this game to show all what they could really do.

After the first inning the Berkeley nine was never in danger and had the Mackmen at their mercy.

Berkeley scored three runs in the third and four in the first. Doug Duncan homered in the third and brought Davio around in front of him.

The Jackets' last run came in the sixth as Rezendies, after a double, came home on a fly.

BERKELEY 6, UNIVERSITY 2

The Jackets opened hostilities in the third, with a single by Rezendies, who advanced to third on errors, and was singled home by Bruzzone, who in turn was brought in by Bulmore.

The Uni scores were marked up when the Berkeley infield fell apart momentarily in the second, and booted the ball to let the Uni boys walk off with two runs.

The pitching was done by Woolridge, Fish and Coulter, who did very commendable jobs.

McCLYMONDS 8, BERKELEY 5

With the absence of Jim Enos and Bobby Gray, two of Berkeley's key men, the Jacket nine folded slightly and the Macks walked over them, 8-5.

Though the Jackets outhit the Macks, the loss was due mainly to failure to hit in the clutch and an excess of errors.

The Jackets came to life momentarily in the fourth with singles by Rezendies, Davio and Lema. A miraculous catch by a Mack shortstop saved the game for the Uni squad, when Big Leo Woolridge pushed a bat-handle liner just over the shortstop's head.

BERKELEY 9, UNIVERSITY 5

A repetition of the former victory over the Uni nine was this game with the Cubs. The only difference was that each team garnered one more run.

A much improved team took the field at Bushrod Park and really handed the Uni lads a beating.

The University team pulled ahead early in the game, but in the sixth the Jackets pulled out into the lead for keeps. Singles by Rezendies, Guyon, Fish and Gray plus two errors by Uni, put the game on ice for the Jackets.

Jennis

With Coach Al Parker at the helm, the Berkeley High tennis team came through the spring season in fair style.

Though winning only one match out of three in the first round of play, the boys on the ladder got a lot of valuable experience and had some fun giving their all for Berkeley High.

In the league opener at Piedmont, Berkeley just missed victory by one match, the rival Clansmen taking our Jackets, 4-3.

The next match with Albany disclosed the Berkeley team releasing all their power and really mopping up the Cougar netsters.

Though missing their key man, Bob Davis, the Parkermen went ahead and took the Cougars, 5-3.

In the singles matches at Albany Glenn Breur, Bill Abbott and Irl Robinson came through victorious.

The strong Berkeley doubles teams also came through with Albany on the short end of the score.

Meeting the Alameda Hornets the following week, Berkeley suffered a coincidental loss, losing by the same score they had piled up the week before at Albany.

The Hornet netmen were gunning for our boys and it seemed that their sights were sharpened and they really hit their targets.

The doubles teams of John Windersheim and Adrian Cibilich and Bob Levy and Joe Stanislawski, previously unbeaten, fell before the "win or bust" Hornets.

The game ended the first round of net play and put the Hornets out in front. Berkeley was slightly on the down side, having two defeats and one victory.

The second round opened with the Clansmen again meeting our Jackets. Again the mighty rivals put the Berkeley racketmen in the cooler by the same tally as their previous encounter, 4 matches to 3.

The last match possible to get in before the deadline was the Berkeley-Albany tussle.

The Jackets really cut loose their power in this match, drubbing the Cougars, 6-1.

Scot George, number three man and student body president, the victim of a jinx all season, was tripped up by Albany's Serex in the only Berkeley defeat of the day.

The doubles teams showed their old fire by walking away with victories over the Cougar players.

The Alameda match played after deadline if won gave the Jackets an even break in the league games, winning 3 and losing 3. If not, well you know the results.

In spite of the curtailed schedule due to transportation problems and other war-caused obstacles, the Berkeley tennis squad came through the season with much experience gained and an interesting memory of the matches they won and lost.

Swimming Teams

The one sport in which Berkeley High is usually tops, is swimming.

The varsity, as well as the "B" team has made a very impressive record this year, and the varsity squad this year contained many low and high tens.

Waldo Cook, a low ten, does a very fine time in the breast-stroke and when next year rolls around, Coach Frank Gross will have an experienced breast-stroker on hand.

Another tenth grader, Thomas, has distinguished himself in the 50-yard freestyle event. These two boys and other eager and capable tenth graders will be back for more of the same next year, when the experience gathered this year will be of much value.

The varsity was bolstered this year by such outstanding veterans as Tom Bryant, Ken Mork, Don Toussaint, Phil Angell and Phil Sizer. Many other boys, though they have not earned their letters as yet, were back to lend their experience to the team.

It's a sage bet that Berkeley's swimming teams are going to come out on top; the past has proved that they rarely fail.

Let's go back to the fall of 1940, the year that you got your first glimpse of your Alma Mater for the next three years, Berkeley High.

As an extra gift to your already too pleased class, you were to be given the honor of being the first class of Berkeley High students to graduate from a new auditorium that was leaving the drawing boards and becoming a reality in a few short weeks.

And through the following spring and summer the construction was in full swing. First the old science building fell before the wreckers' avalanche of destruction. Most of the old auditorium was torn down and then up went the first beams for the new edifice.

It was really a thrilling sight; watching those girders rise and slowly take the shape of a great round building. Even more spectacular were the workmen, who in their tin helmets, slapped those red hot rivets back and forth as though they were in the ninth inning of an important ball game.

The skeleton was taking shape; it even began to look like a building. Things were really popping and we, the graduating class of June 1943, were right in the midst of the excitement, counting the days 'til the auditorium would be finished and we'd be walking down the aisle to the stage and our diplomas.

Clouds of war ushered in the fall semester of 1941 and these clouds blotted out the plans for a new auditorium and the hopes of the class also sunk to a new low ebb.

The first few weeks after construction was halted most of us felt pretty downhearted. All our plans for an unsurpassed graduation had been blacked out of the picture.

It took a little while to realize what really had happened, but when the idea filtered through all of our heads, it really wasn't so bad that we had been deprived of commencement in the new auditorium. All the steel and manpower that would have gone into the building was being used for a purpose many times as important as a mere new auditorium for an insignificant graduation for the class of June, '43.

So the class once again settled down to sitting on the slope between, and well into, ninth or tenth periods, eating slope slop and having one swell time. Graduation was graduation, in the men's gym or a new auditorium, it didn't matter which now.

What most of us see when we happen to glance in a northerly direction is nothing more than a weak-looking red-boned skeleton standing there; a skeleton of what was to have been part of our graduation.

So to ease everyone's peace of mind, and to pay tribute to something that has become more and more a symbol of the lives of the members of our class, we dedicate this spring Olla Podrida to what was to be and what some day will be, a new Berkeley High Auditorium.
