THE SENIOR CLASS

VOLUME TWO

Foreword

Because we, the faculty and the student body, have stood together with pioneer spirit and with a clear vision to overcome our many difficulties, it is possible for this—the second Surveyor of George Washington High School—to become a reality.

Thinking back over the past term and remembering all those to whom we owe our appreciation and deep gratitude, we must head our list of “thank you’s” with the name of Miss Marie Kirwin, senior advisor, for her helpful and understanding consideration of all the troubles that we have sent her way. Without the assistance in finance and circulation of Miss Eleanor Parsons, the Surveyor could not have reached its final form. A vote of thanks goes equally to Mr. Rufus Balaam and Mr. Thomas Gates, and to their advertising and salesmanship classes, for their invaluable help and cooperation.

Because of all the time and effort spent on photography, which makes this book truly a pictorial survey of George Washington life, we extend our appreciation to Mrs. L. M. Herrick and to Mr. J. H. Ripley. For the beautiful art work appearing throughout the book, we sincerely thank Miss Haidee Tobriner and George Takayama, and with the name of Stanley Gilbert, creator of Zinco, the little surveyor, we end our list of thanks here, though we by no means forget the numerous others without whose friendly help we could not have trod so smooth a path.

Our theme this term is “Surveying Life at George Washington High School,” and because Zinco flits through the following pages in such a carefree, debonair manner, being everywhere at once, we feel that he makes our theme as alive and full as our days at George Washington.

ERNEST J. CUMMINGS

Dedication

To our principal, Mr. Ernest J. Cummings, we dedicate this first June Surveyor, in grateful appreciation of the help and cooperation he has given the book and its staff and in the hope that thus we may make him realize some of the regard his students feel for him as the Chief Surveyor, who has caused this school to give us inspiration as well as knowledge and pleasure.

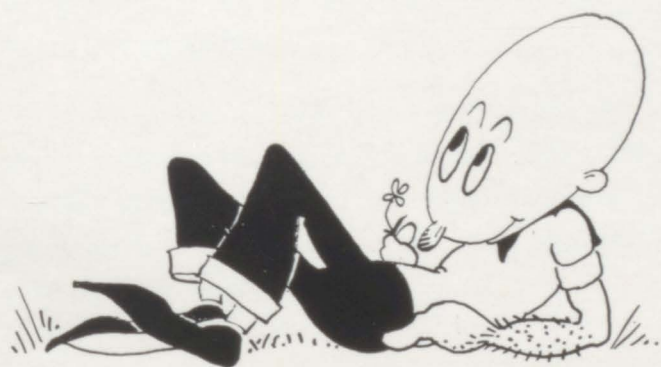

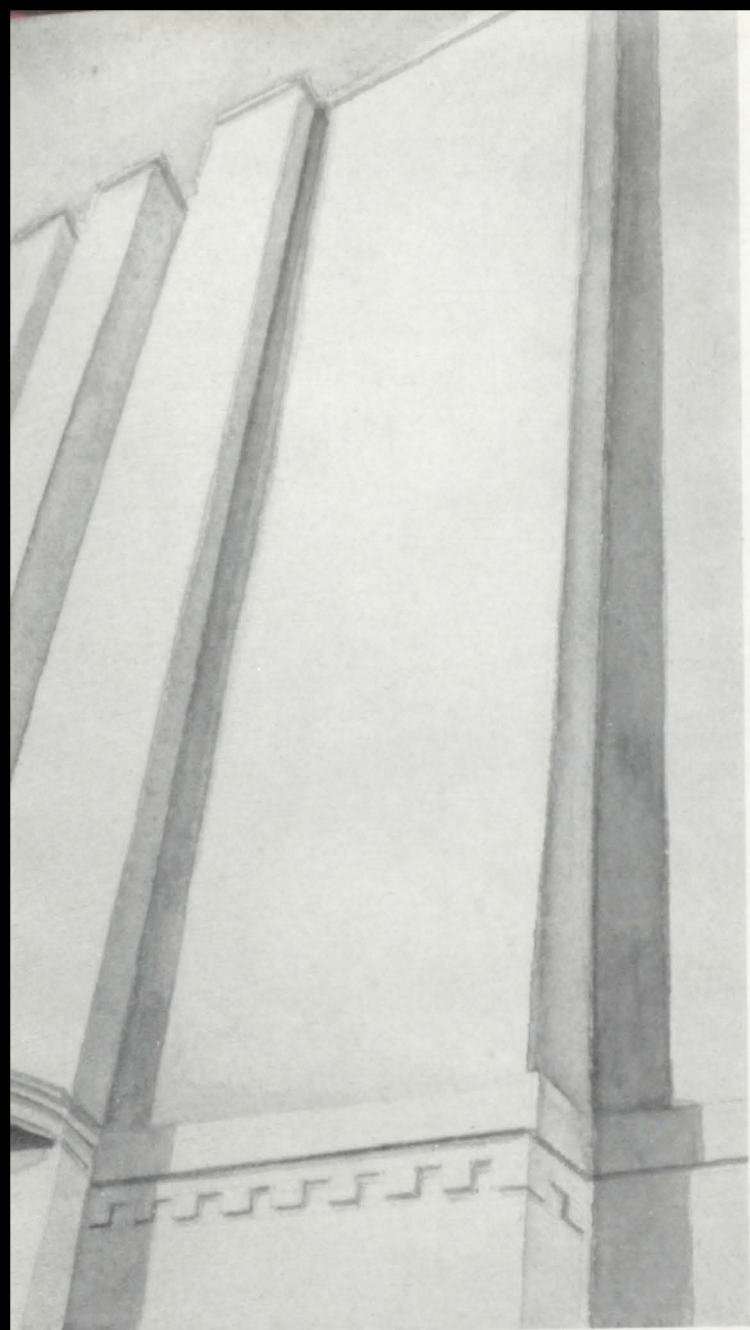

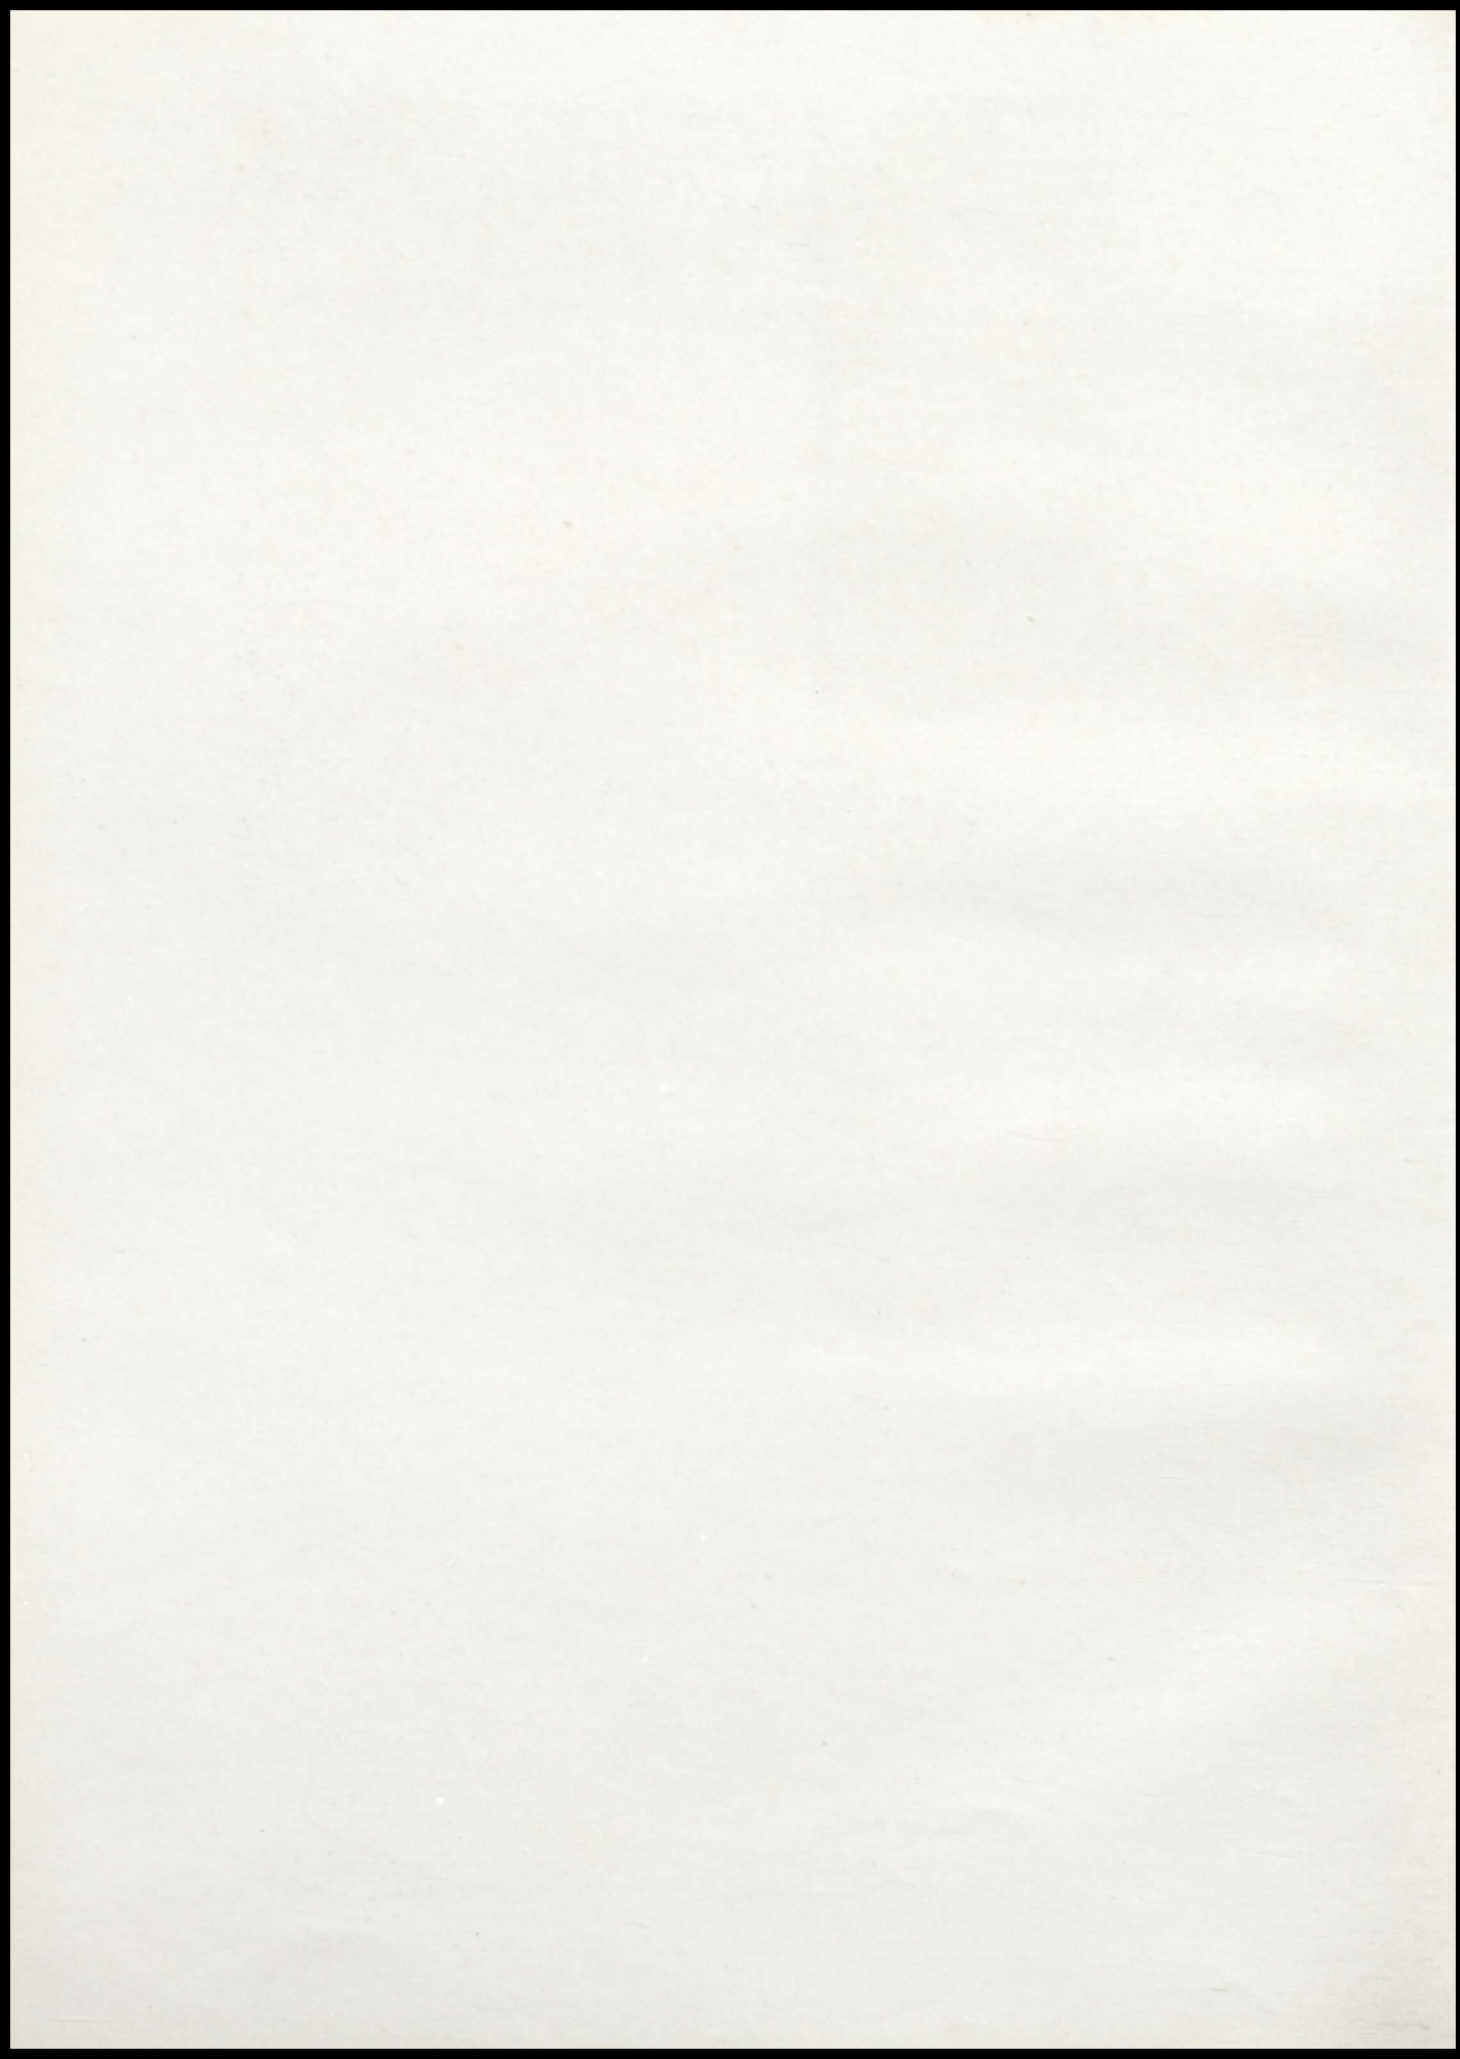

BOOK ONE

Personnel

Little Zinco lies lazily on his back and lingeringly surveys the beautiful front view of George Washington High School, debating whether or not he should go in and congratulate the first June graduates, who are soon to pass through its portals.

Mr. Cummings' Message

Ex Pede Herculem—

Whenever a class graduates there is a feeling of loss to the school. After more than two hundred young people have been building with us term after term with all the energy and optimism of youth, it is not strange that the loss of them is real.

But as these young graduates sweep along the road of life to claim their birthright of citizenship, the school that trained them in the ways of citizenship takes pride even in her loss. She welcomes the challenge that the world flings at her children to test the wisdom of her guidance and measure the soundness of her philosophy.

Stranger, when you open these pages to look upon the record that George Washington High School has made, when you wonder how such gifts worthy of the Hesperides came to be garnered within her walls, reflect that a great class has been here and left an imperishable legacy—know that a Hercules has passed our way.

Mr. Wieland's Message

"Horas non numero nisi serenas" was the legend borne by the old sun-dials. Just as these antique time-keepers boasted that they counted only the sunny hours, so may this second edition of the Surveyor boast that it records only the sunny school days of happy youth.

May this book of golden memories perpetuate the joys and triumphs of school life not only for the class of June, 1938, but for all the students of George Washington High School. It is a record of things your youth has won: good friends, good times, good games, good accomplishments.

Treasure this record of unforgettable days.

Miss Jackson's Message

The publication of the first June issue of the Surveyor is an event that brings deep pleasure to all of us. Congratulations to the Class of J '38! As we delight in this record of the term's activities and happy associations, we acknowledge gratefully the factors that made it possible: the unwavering spirit of an entire class, the devoted work of the staff of students and of teachers, the whole-hearted cooperation of the members of the Student Body. May the faith and the loyalty that has been thus so beautifully expressed during the term be an inspiration to all of us as we continue "building together" the greater school to be.

MARTIN HADERLEIN

Student Body Officers

Martin Haderlein, George Washington's basketball center, ably led the student body this term in the official position of president.

All social activities of the school were handled by Shirley Teall and Jean Steward, vice-president and secretary respectively. Shirley was formerly vice-president of the low senior class and is a Girls' Service Society member. Jean on the other hand has been very active in the G. A. A.

Treasurer Adah Parker had charge of the 1600 student body cards that were sold, while Richard Cohn, custodian, kept all of the school trophies bright and shiny. Robert Shimoff was athletic manager, and Andrew Leros, with his two assistants, Pete Garadis and Bill Cramer, as acting yell leader instilled pep into the student body at the various meetings and rallies.

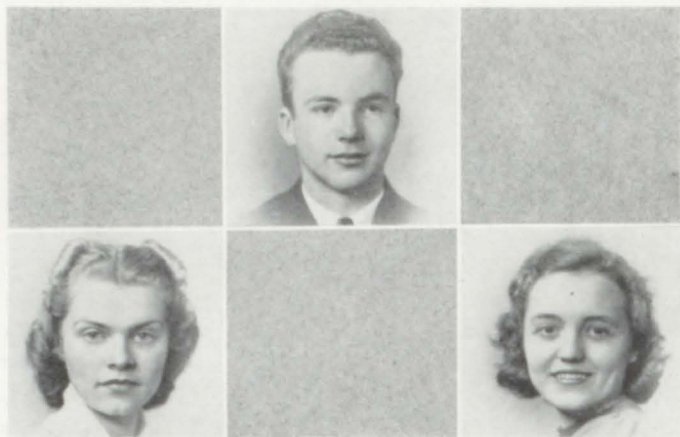

With a committee composed of Audrea Barthol, Erma Everett, Nancy Glazer, Dick DeGraf, and Larry Schapiro, the second "Hello Day" at George Washington turned out to be a great success. Students met many of their classmates whom they had wished to know, and goodwill toward everyone prevailed throughout the day.

Many interesting rallies were held throughout the term. During the basketball season guests from such high schools as Balboa, Galileo, Lowell, and Polytechnic attended. Several free student body dances, which drew large crowds, were presided over by the officers. At least one social affair was planned and given every month.

The most successful function of the year was the annual May Fete, directed by Vice-president Shirley. Many organizations such as the Girls' Service and Eagle Societies were represented at the carnival. Tickets were sold for this event and in the booths were candy, fishing, flowers, and dart throwing. There was dancing later in the library.

The Executive Committee, which handles all school affairs and financial matters, was presided over during the spring semester by President Martin Haderlein, or by the vice-president in the event of his absence. Every registry room in George Washington had a representative on this board, and the secretary of the student body kept an accurate account of everything that was discussed. Mr. W. A. Wieland is the faculty advisor.

Class Officers

HIGH SENIORS

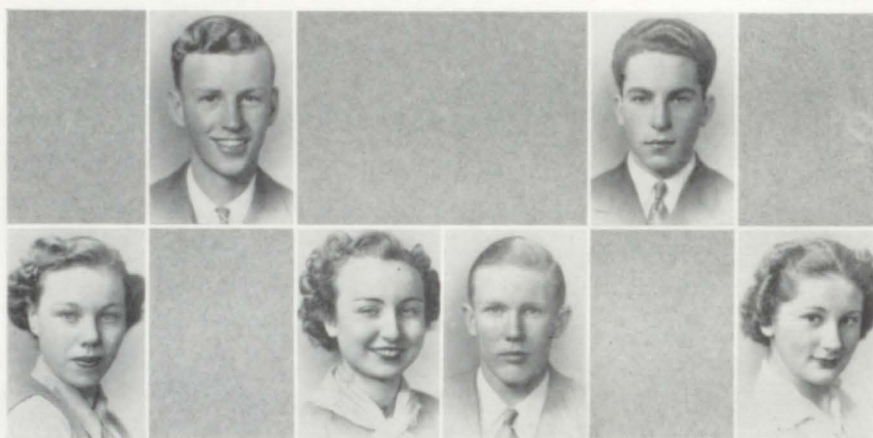

Under the guidance of Don Tobin, president, Fredele Deane, vice-president, and Katherine Wright, secretary, the high seniors had a very successful year.

At the beginning of the semester, a group of seniors known as advisers showed the new low sophomores around the school. Other important functions of the graduates were a senior theater party at the Coliseum, a senior baby day and dance, which was a glorified second childhood, the senior-sophomore reception, the senior luncheon in the cafeteria, and finally the graduation dance at the end of the term.

LOW SENIORS

Prominent in student activities the past term, the Low Senior class, under the direction of Fred Leuenberger, president, Janet Hampton, vice-president, and Jean Giddens, secretary, has perhaps established a record for being the most aggressive class of the past term. The Low Senior day on April 22 was topped by a dance held in the afternoon. A Come As You May day given at the end of the term also featured a dance after school.

The Low Senior class showed their initiative by voting for a completely different senior sweater. They decided on a slip-on sweater for the boys and a sweater of different style for the girls. A formal dance was held late in May.

HIGH JUNIORS

Under the leadership of President Tom Trent, Vice-president Arthur Marwedell, and Secretary Anita Welt, the High Junior class participated in many activities during the spring term.

On March 11 a barn dance was held that turned George Washington into a farm for one day. The entire junior class, including the low elevens, was costumed in farm regalia, and at the dance the library looked like a barn for one hour.

President Trent was directly responsible for the organization of the inter-class baseball league that so many registries took part in. The inter-class competition idea was met with enthusiastic approval.

Class Officers

LOW JUNIORS

The Low Juniors, as led by Harold Hardy, president, Beverlee Peters, vice-president, and Audrey Ramos, secretary, took part in numerous events this term. The low and high juniors cooperated to great extent to make their activities among the best held by any class.

The feature of the term was the barn dance given in conjunction with the high juniors. Costumes featuring farm lore were worn and in order to insure a successful day a rally and a dance were held in the morning and the afternoon respectively, at which everyone had a grand time.

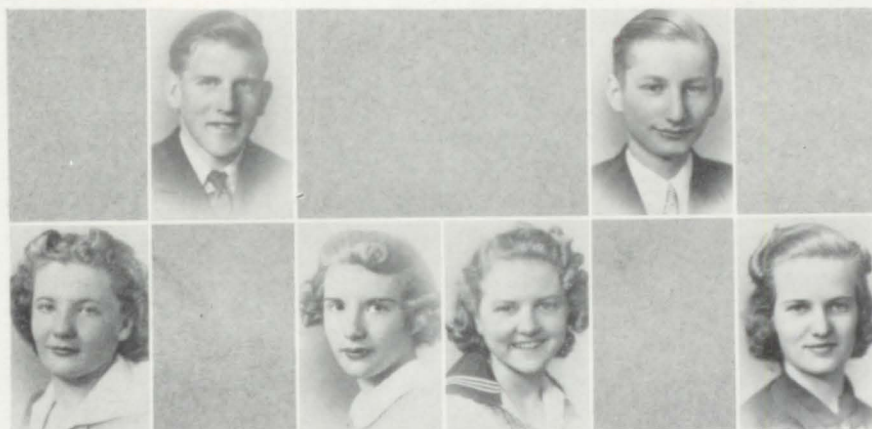

Some of the low junior classes were at the top of the final lists in the inter-class softball league.

HIGH SOPHOMORES

Capably led by their officers, Howard Oser, president, Marjorie Hunter, vice-president, and Jean Hosmer, secretary, the high sophomore class rounded out their first year at George Washington with many activities.

The main duty every term of the sophomores, both low and high, is to hold a clean-up day in order to brighten the school premises. The prize for the registry which cleaned up their assigned section best was free admission to the Balboa Theater that afternoon. Refunds on tickets bought in advance were made to the winners, although any sophomore could go to the show if he paid the admission price.

Outstanding in this class were Richard English, captain of the 130 basketball team, and Barbara Stevens, president of the Music Club.

LOW SOPHOMORES

President Mary Mangan, Vice-president Fred Lear, Secretary Nancy Dougall, and Treasurer Edwin Brownstone led the youngest class in school this term.

Clean-Up Day, which is a semi-annual event held in conjunction with the high sophomore class, was given at the end of the spring semester. The winning registry class was given free admittance to a neighborhood theater as a prize.

The semi-annual Senior-Sophomore reception, with Seniors as hosts, was held with a dance as the main feature.

Eagle Society

The Eagle Society, which is the leading boys' club of George Washington, was quite active during the past spring term.

Under the auspices of Mr. Lloyd Leith, club sponsor, the society completed one of the most successful periods of its existence by having such activities as the April Fool's dance at the Presidio Junior High School gymnasium, and by holding a picnic in conjunction with the Girls' Service Society during the latter part of the term.

The club this semester revised its constitution in such a way as to increase the membership in order to allow post-graduate members to remain on the roster, although not counted among the twenty-two students to which the Eagle Society is limited. The boys are chosen for membership according to high scholastic standing and accomplishment.

Officers of the Spring '38 term were Dave LeBaron, who was responsible for planning most of the club's activities, president; Allen Shatsky, captain of the unlimited basketball team, vice-president; and Laney McConnell, active player of the George Washington baseball team, secretary.

Graduating seniors, who include Richard DeGraf, Roy Frustuk, Martin Haderlein, Robert Kahn, Laney McConnell, Robert Reynolds, Marston Thall, Douglas Willard, and Honore Zabala, will be replaced by new members next term.

Serving the school again in the future will be Robert Barsocchini, Earl Beenfeldt, William Cohn, Joe Compagno, Winston Halley, Norman Hawkins, Clyde LaVerne, Norman Lazarus, Dave LeBaron, Robert LeBaron, Fred Leuenberger, John Phelan and Allen Shatsky.

Girls' Service Society

With service to the school as their everlasting aim, the Girls Service Society took part in many activities during the spring term.

The club, which is under the sponsorship of Miss Eleanor Jackson, vice-principal, gives admittance only to girls showing outstanding service and leadership to the school.

The presiding officers for this past term included Roschelle Paul, who is in charge of all of the school rallies, president; Rita Jorgenson, provisional secretary of the student body when the school was being organized, vice-president; and Luella Hill, editor of the Surveyor, secretary. This term there were only eighteen members in the club, although the maximum membership is twenty.

The activities of the Girls' Service Society during the spring semester were many and varied. One of their first duties this term was carrying on a campaign for a cleaner school. Committees for first floor, lunch room, and traffic were appointed. Besides acting as guides at Open House, the girls helped the P.T.A. serve refreshments later in the cafeteria. Other accomplishments of the society were fixing a girls' rest room and helping the P.T.A. carry on the tinfoil drive.

New members will be added to the society to take the places of the graduating seniors. These graduates are: Zoy Ellis, Nancy Glazer, Luella Hill, Jean Irilarry, Rita Jorgenson, Norman McNeil, Tillie Mieseles, and Shirley Teall.

The remaining members, who will carry on the G. S. S. are: Helen Blum, Jean Cramer, Adele Ohe, Adah Parker, Roschelle Paul, Louise Payne, Bernice Praetzel, Mary Trussel, Janet Wheeler, and Frances Young.

Musical

The main activity of the Music Club, sponsored by Mrs. M. Swanson, was to present a series of Friday morning concerts over the school broadcasting system. Meetings, which were always followed by a program with various members entertaining, were held bi-monthly. The club spent the spring term studying contemporary composers and gave illustrations of individual talent in class.

During the spring semester, the vocal classes sang in the background in the Stephen Foster dramatization, entertained for the P.T.A. and contributed weekly radio programs every Friday.

The instrumental music department played an exceptionally large part in student activities this term. The three divisions of this department, the band, the dance band, and the orchestra, were directed by Mr. Marion Knott.

School spirit was greatly stimulated during the term by the band's tuneful and peppy contributions to George Washington's activities. Besides spending much of their time preparing concert music, this department provided the latest "swing" arrangements for the numerous basketball games and rallies.

We've often heard that it's true that music hath charms . . . but we wonder whether there could be anything in the hitherto unpublished report that musicians also have charms . . . at any rate, many weary students are soothed during the balmy midday hours by melodious voices singing in unison . . . and musical instruments blending in harmony.

Melodies

The dance band, which is composed of student musicians who play in this organization as an extra curricular activity, furnished music for all school dances again this term. Mr. Knott was the band's leader this term, but student leaders are now being developed for next term's organization.

Members of the band were guests at the annual Salesmanship Banquet, and provided music for the event.

Some of the outstanding dance band members include Tillie Mieseles, Rose Gorman, Mary Trussell, Adele Wieback, Bill Gerst, Herbert Messer, Elkan Thoshinsky, Walter Bien, Fern Edelstein, Albert Bagott, and Armand Kirschbaum.

For the first time in the history of George Washington, the school orchestra was able to broadcast directly from the instrumental room, Shop 5. Besides presenting programs to the students during school time, the orchestra broadcast to the school at Open House, took part in Music Week, played at the War Memorial Opera House, and climaxed their various activities by providing orchestral music for the school's second graduation exercises.

Editor

John Mowbray, Associate Editor
Martha McLaughlin, Business Manager

The six issues of "The Eagle" that were published this term were ably handled by Editor Zoy Ellis and Assistant Editor John Mowbray, with Miss Jane Cook as faculty adviser.

Business angles of the paper were in the capable hands of Martha McLaughlin, while Anna Becker and Bob Reynolds assisted Zoy in the position of news editors.

Other staff members are: May Davis, Mary Camaches, Don Whistler, Adele Ohe, Jo Anne Kern, Norma McNeil, Bob Larson, Ray Denegri, Shirley Teall, Virginia Van, Beatrice DuFresne, Claire Koenig, Hal Bobrow, Larry Schapira, Harry Kagan, Roy Barnett, Eugene Malin, Robert Colan, Walter Swagerty, Philip Jenkins, Janet Wheeler, Paul Tissot, Roy Land, Dan Creedon, Albert Shemano, Leo Bisordi, Arthur Blum, Stanley Gilbert, and Betty Goldberg.

The second George Washington Surveyor was edited by Luella Hill, with the aid of Larry Schapiro, assistant editor. Miss Jane Cook was the faculty advisor.

Business Manager Jean Irilarry was greatly aided by the advertising and salesmanship classes. Other staff members included Harry Kagan, Paul Tissot, May Davis, Mary Camaches, Ray Denegri, Norma McNeil, Albert Shemano, Shirley Teall, Beatrice Du Fresne, Clyde LaVerne, Zoy Ellis, John Petersen, Albert Baker, John Mowbray, Claire Koenig, Tillie Mieseles, and Adele Ohe.

Much of the credit for the success of the Surveyor goes to Stanley Gilbert for his creation of Zinco, the little surveyor, who flits with such a carefree air through the pages of the book, and to George Takayama for his beautiful cover and division page designs.

Hi-Y

Organized to give service to the school and the community, the Hi-Y Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. W. A. Wieland and Mr. S. Pearson, participated in many activities this term. Under the leadership of President Jack Polly, the club started inter-class baseball games, participated in an all-city dance conference in conjunction with the Girl Reserves at which Tom Trent, active Hi-Y member, was master of ceremonies, and took an important part in an outside benefit carnival. Members are limited to twenty and are chosen by those already in the club.

Salesmanship

Much of the credit for the success of George Washington's social events goes to Mr. R. Balaam and his splendid Salesmanship Club. This club sold nearly a thousand of the sixteen hundred student body cards in school, accounted for nine hundred and fifty Surveyor pledge cards, and cooperated with the journalism department in the sale of The Eagle throughout the term. The senior party held this term at the Coliseum was made possible by the cooperation of the Sales Club. The receipts from this sale brought fifty dollars into the senior class treasury to help defray graduation expenses.

In addition to its selling activity, the Salesmanship Club has, during its existence, provided approximately fifty volumes for the Business Library. It is continuing that good work by appropriating forty dollars this term for library extension. This will pay for twenty new volumes.

The term banquet for the Sales Club was held on May 11, at which approximately one hundred thirty were present. This was held in the school cafeteria, and was the big social event of the club. Over $100 was collected from salesmanship dues throughout the term. Forty dollars of this was spent in the school library and the remainder was used to finance the banquet. Honor guests included Miss Fraiser, head and coordinator of the Department of Merchandising of S. F. Public Schools, Mr. Wieland, vice principal, and Mr. Burke, faculty treasurer.

Drama

Capably taught and directed by Miss Marie Weller, the Drama Class learned more of the art of becoming great actors and actresses during the spring semester.

Some of the work of the drama students this term was to work on interpretations of modern plays, to give selections from Shakespeare, and to read Ibsen's plays and "You Can't Take It With You." During the class period they also read and enacted parts of "Quality Street" by Barry. Another activity of the class was to put on the term play in conjunction with the Radio Workshop, which is also under the auspices of Miss Weller.

In addition to correct radio manner, script writing and the right usage of radio terms were taught to the Radio Workshop students, during the past term. Active members of this class included William Michaelson, who is George Washington's own radio announcer, Janet Wheeler, Richard Mangan, Jean Giddens, Robert Kahn, Jean Cramer, Herman Stirnus, and Samuel Ware. The Radio Workshop students put on two plays for the National Broadcasting Company on the "Junior Drama Hour."

These plays were entitled "The Fall of the House of Usher" and "The Hoosier School Master."

During Public Schools' Week, the class also dramatized "The Memories of Stephen Foster" at the Opera House, via national hook-up.

Stage Art

The Stage Arts Club, which is under the sponsorship of Miss H. Tobriner, accomplished many things in the art of stage design during the spring term.

With President George Affolter, Vice-President Betty McMichael, and Secretary Marion MacKillop, the club designed all the stage scenery of the term play and also had charge of sound effects.

Club Activities

DEBATING CLUB

Sponsored by Miss P. Haley, the Debating Club, led by President Irving Tragen, won a joint league championship by tying with Girls High School.

RIFLE CLUB

Members of the Rifle Club, coached by Mr. D. Atherton and presided over by Charles Meagher, won many awards of merit for their excellent marksmanship this term.

CAMERA CLUB

Thirty-five members of the Camera Club, under the directorship of Mrs. L. Herrick and Mr. T. Ripley, heard lectures this term from commercial kodak representatives. With President Norman Hawkins, Secretary Francis Lewis, and Treasurer Howard Marg, the club met bi-monthly to determine the best pictures submitted.

MOVIE MACHINE OPERATORS' CLUB

Movie Machine Operators' Club, sponsored by Mr. J. Ripley, is a group of licensed operators who received training at the Civic Auditorium. Science films were shown once a week and the members had charge of operating the projectors. Certificates of service showing work well done were given to the seniors.

RADIO CLUB

During the term the Radio Club spent time in code practice, and in constructing their own short wave receiver. This club is sponsored by Mr. R. Harris and its president is Henry Jacobs.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW CLUB

The objective of the Parliamentary Law Club, sponsored by Mr. R. Roberts, is to teach candidates for student body offices how to become better leaders. A test, which must be passed, is given before each election.

Club Activities

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club made its debut into George Washington society this term, under the watchful sponsorship of Miss R. Rauner and Miss R. Avina.

Led by many competent officers, the club members enjoyed a Mexican dinner and saw Spanish motion pictures.

FRENCH CLUB

"L'Espir du Cercle Francais," first French newspaper edited here, was published by the French Club under the auspices of Mrs. E. J. Torrieri, club sponsor.

Other activities of the French students included a puppet show, and a monthly dinner.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. A. Wilson and Miss D. Reynolds, the main activity of the International Club was to send exhibits of pictures and stamps typifying the United States to a building at the South American Peace Garden.

GERMAN CLUB

With such activities as seeing German films, learning German folk songs, a hike and a party, the German Club, under the direction of Mrs. L. B. Gowan, climaxed the spring term by holding a banquet at the end of the season.

Anna Becker served as president, while Helen Colton and Elfrieda Strahlendorf were vice-president and secretary respectively.

LIBRARY CLUB

Miss Catherine Davis, library instructress, was assisted by thirty-six students this term in keeping the library running smoothly. Some duties of the student librarians, besides checking attendance, were to distribute books and magazines.

Club Activities

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

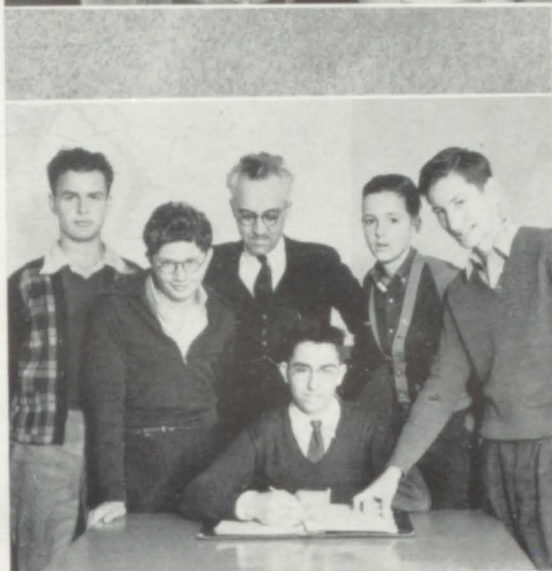

Directed by Mrs. E. Williamson and under the leadership of Anita Welt, the Home Making Club's objective is to develop plans for club work leading to personal growth and a professional spirit in home economics students.

ENGINEERING CLUB

Organized half way through the term, fifteen students, under the sponsorship of Mr. C. Barker, met twice monthly and discussed modern engineering problems.

FLORAL ARTS CLUB

The Floral Arts Club, sponsored by Miss D. McMillan, made decorations for the office, library, and for the dances this term. The main social activity of the club, which consists of fifteen members, was a dinner held in Chinatown.

TRAFFIC CLUB

Under the careful direction of Major D. Atherton, traffic was carried on expertly both inside and outside the building this term. The traffic officers were captained by William Kneebone, and the area in front of school was turned into a "no parking" zone. Indoors, both boys and girls maintained order in the upper corridors during the double lunch periods.

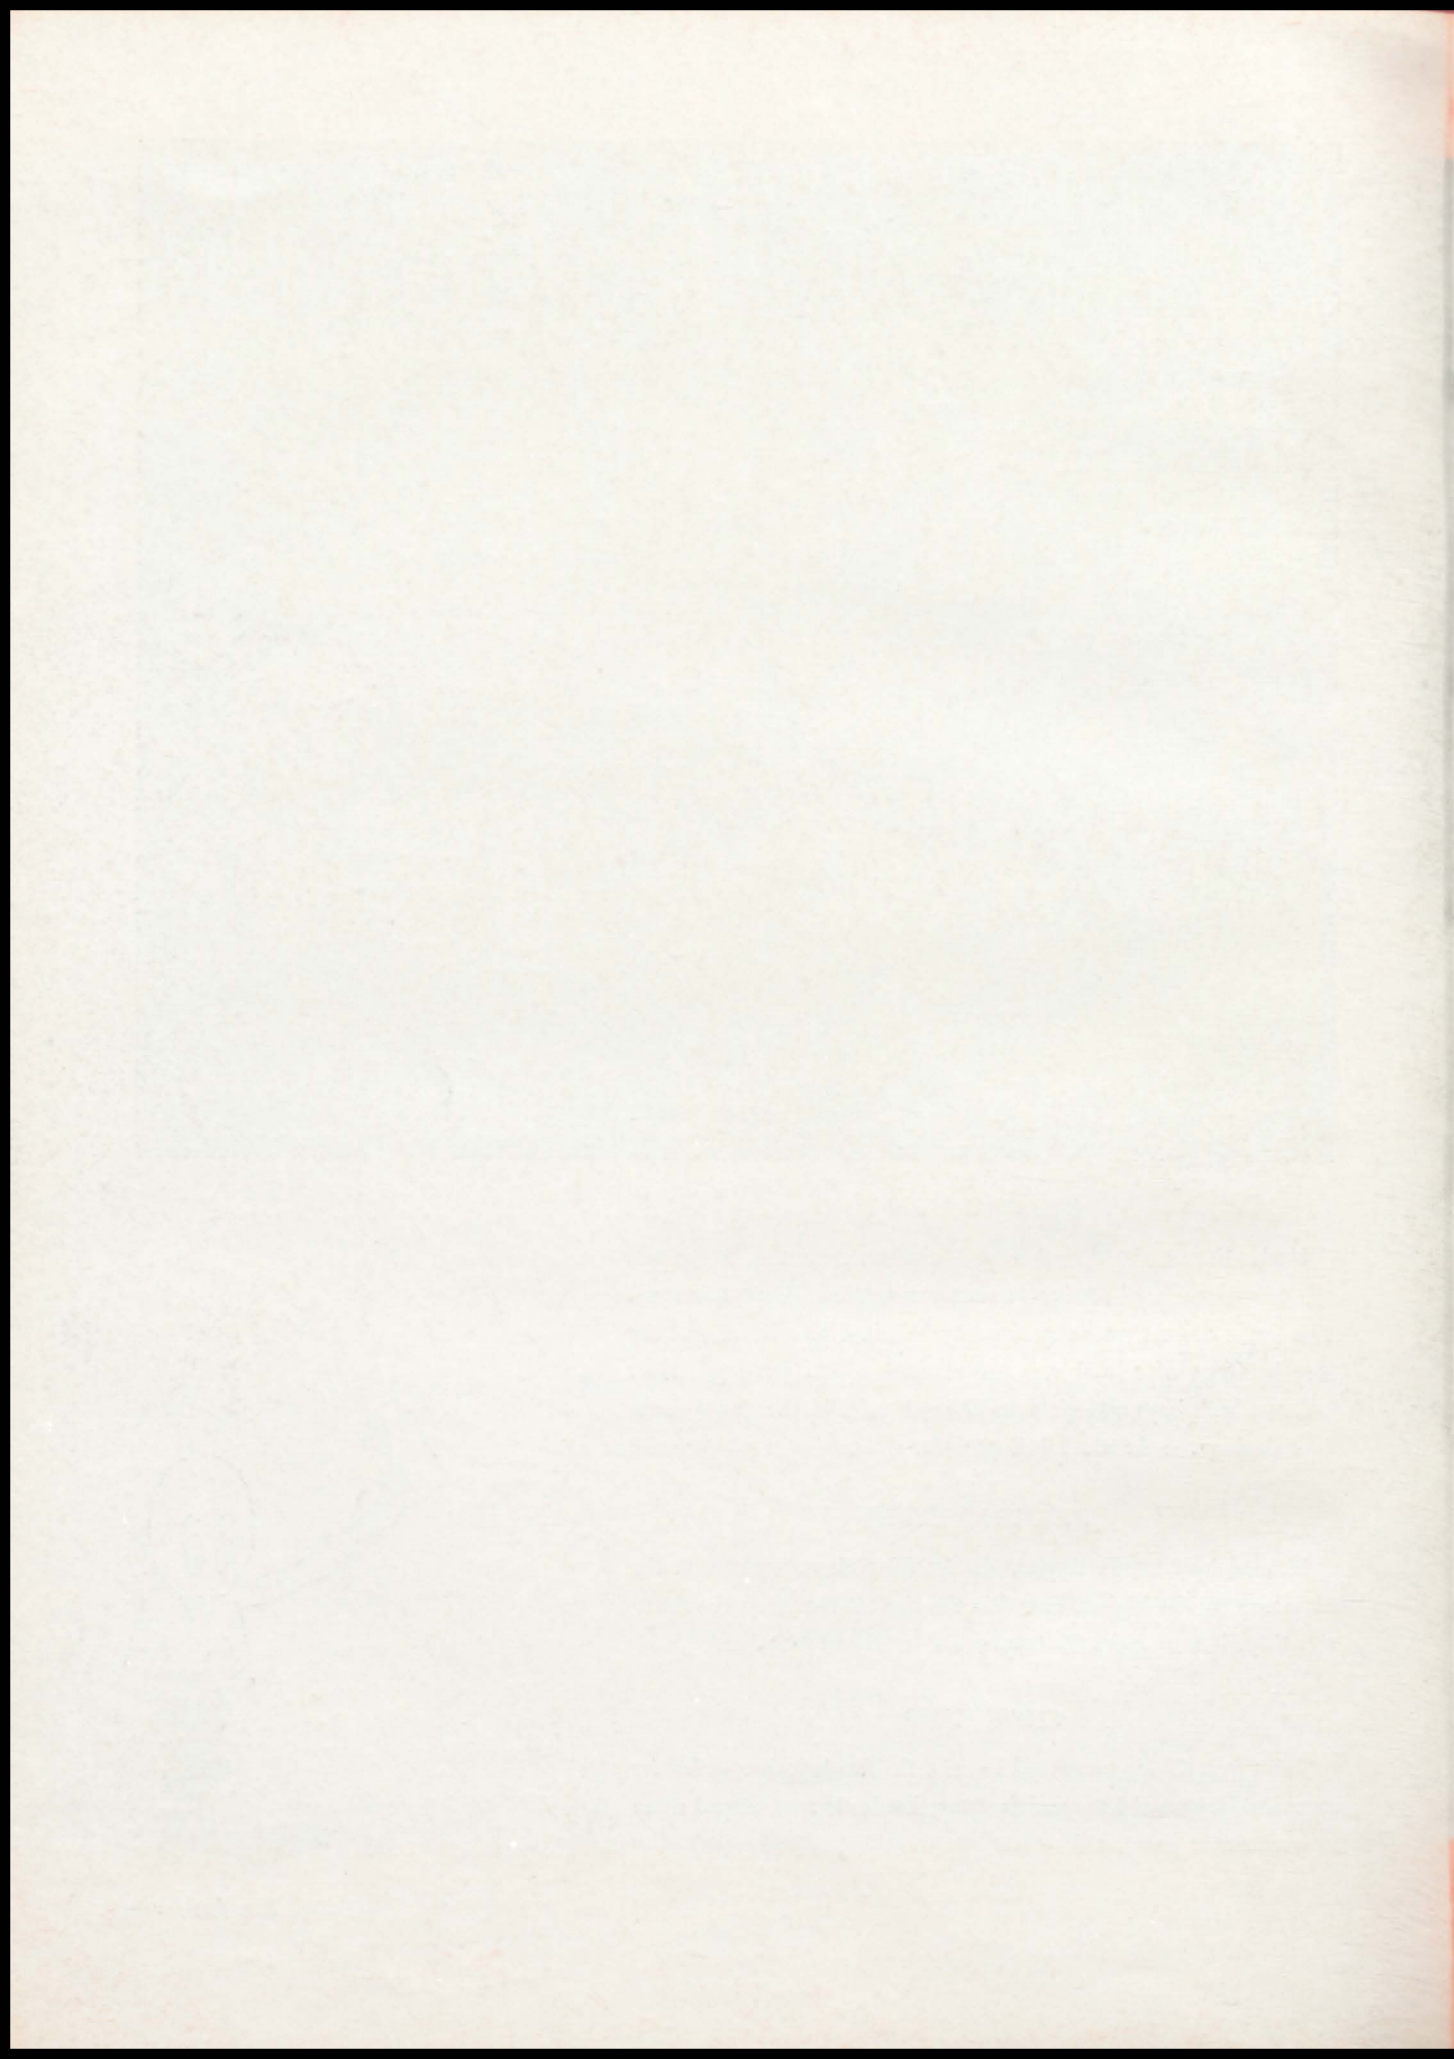

BANKING CLUB

Headed by Mrs. E. Logan, the Banking department won the silver cup for the highest record in the city for the second consecutive time. If won again, the trophy will belong to the school.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club, sponsored by Mr. E. Vanderlaan and led by President Raymond Levy and Secretary Louise Horne, played three interscholastic games this term.

Under the able direction of Sergeant F. Feliciano, the R.O.T.C. is developing into one of the better military precision units in San Francisco.

Fortunately, the school has a principal and a vice-principal in Mr. Cummings and Mr. Wieland who are both veterans of the World War, and with their cooperation and support many improvements have been made in the outfit.

New activities and the improvement of the drum corps have featured the work this term, along with the regular preparation for the Annual Federal Inspection. The drum corps, started last term, has been playing for weekly reviews and is becoming more proficient in taking the place of a band; it now consists of nine drums and twenty buglers, under the direction of Cadet Major Ernest Coccary.

The rifle team, consisting of fifteen members, was entered in the interscholastic meet and was coached by Sergeant Feliciano.

The drill platoon will enter into Civic Auditorium competition this year, determined to improve the showing made last year and to bring home a cup.

A new activity this term was the Saber Club, under the leadership of Capt. Herman Stirnus. The faculty sponsor is Mr. W. Wieland.

Sports Administration

With the long-awaited summer vacation almost upon us, it is with regret that we bid a final adieu to those heroes of the basketball and tennis courts, the cinder path, the baseball diamond, and the swimming pool, who have so ably borne the colors of the Scarlet and Gray.

Although no Eagle team achieved a championship in the A.A.A. competition, each was characterized by a spirit of fair play and honest endeavor, establishing traditions for those teams which will follow.

While all our athletes gave of their best, four were particularly outstanding. Bill Finck won the unlimited 220 yard dash against the city's best competition. Little Maury Shipnuck tied the 120 pound 220 yard dash with a time of 23.2 seconds. Laney McConnell was, without doubt, one of the best baseball players in the league. Martin Haderlein, center on the basketball team for the past two seasons, scored 73 points to take high scoring honors in the league.

On the following pages are accounts and pictures of our athletic activities. Every Washingtonian should be proud of all the members of each and every one of the teams that has represented our school.

Unlimited Basketball

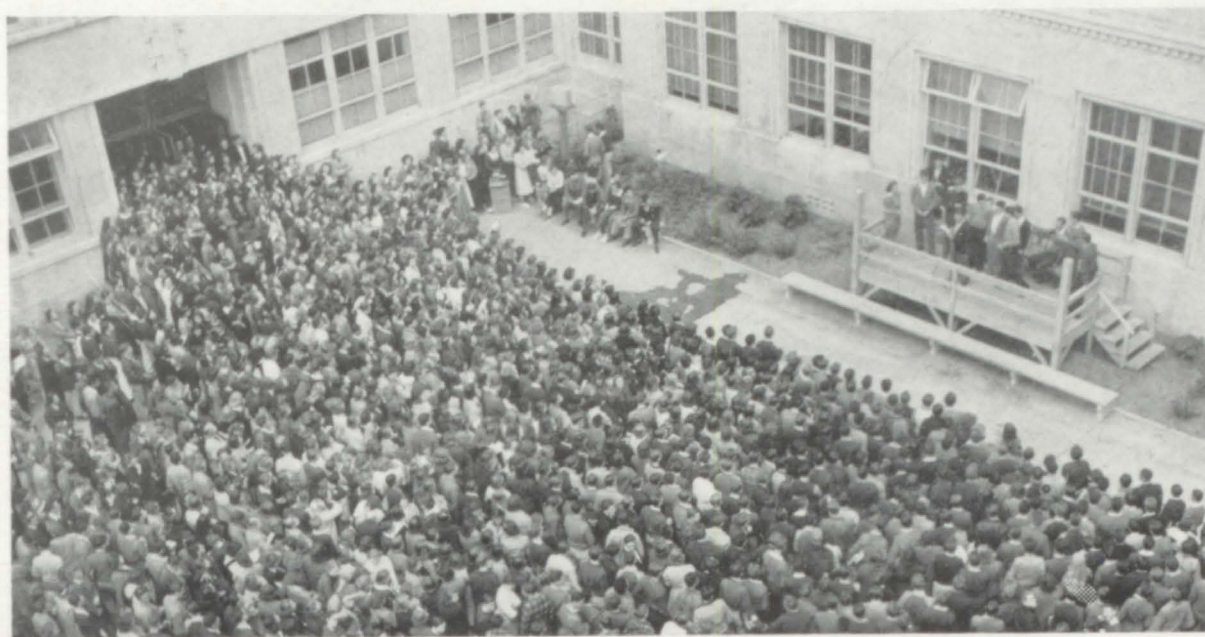

Composed primarily of veterans from the 1937 Vowing Sophomores, George Washington's basketball team, ably coached by Mr. Lloyd Leith, finished second in league standings.

In the opening game with Galileo, Bellanca was high scorer with ten points. The St. Ignatius and Sacred Heart games were nip and tuck affairs. Ingeldew of Commerce broke the league scoring record with 23 points to give the Eagles a rather uncomfortable afternoon. In both the Balboa and Mission games, the Scarlet and Gray had to stave off second-half rallies by their opponents to emerge victorious. The Poly game closed the season.

The highlight of the term was the championship night game with Lowell, which jammed Kezar Pavilion with 7500 screaming fans. The Indians led 10-3 at half-time, but in the closing minutes of the second half the Eagles managed to close the gap, and tied the score at 14-14, a few seconds before the final gun. Amid a perfect bedlam, Lowell's steadiness won for them in the overtime period.

George Washington has reason to be proud of its team for finishing second in its second year of competition.

Varsity Team

Proving himself one of the best captains in the league, Al Shatsky was named on many all-city teams. Earl Beenfeldt broke up more plays than any other guard and will probably be switched to center next year. Marston Thall, combining steadiness and reliability with speed and aggressiveness, was a wonder with his left hand. Phil Bellanca, another popular all-city choice, was extremely fast and a tricky dribbler. Martin Haderlein attained high-scoring honors, largely through his ability to cage tip-ins, and his uncanny accuracy in converting fouls. This combination accounted for his all-city choice by many experts.

All the substitute players acquitted themselves nobly, when given the opportunity.

After witnessing the basketball award rally, pictured above, for the boys who so gallantly bore the colors of the Scarlet and Gray, during the casaba season, little Zinco decided that he'd better get in some practicing if he was going to show those Washington boys a few pointers that Mr. Leith might perhaps have omitted from his expert coaching this term. As he stood watching the awards being passed out a lump came into his concealed little throat when he thought that never again might Washington have as fine a team to stand behind another term. But then he thought that nothing like that could ever happen 'cause they always had him to call on if they were ever in need of a really good player. And with that he skipped merrily off to see the 130 basketball team on the following page.

130 BASKETBALL

Back row: Minner, Phelan, LeBaron, Leddy, Shemano, Halley.

130 Basketball

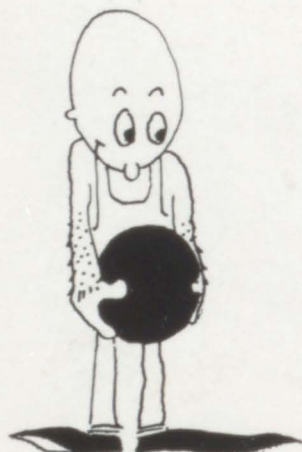

The 130's brought added fame to George Washington by also finishing second in league standings. Captained by Dick English, and under the expert tutelage of Coach Lloyd Leith and Dick Mangan, the team won six of their eight games.

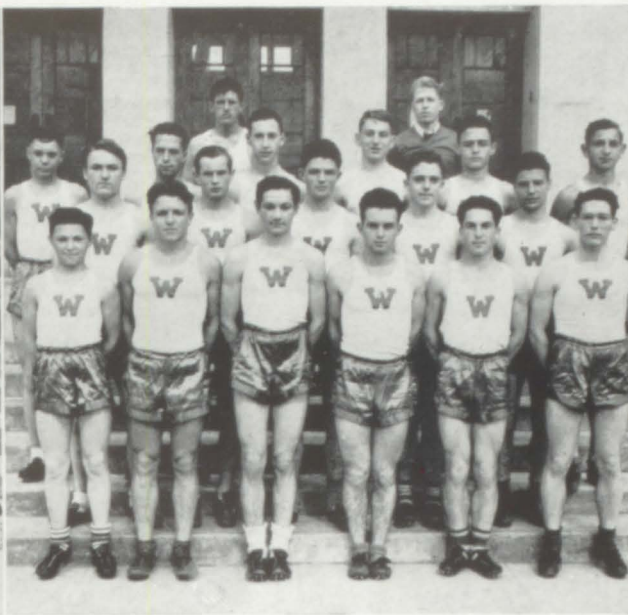

Galileo, St. Ignatius, Sacred Heart, and Commerce bowed to these little giants, before Balboa and Mission succeeded in breaking their winning streak. These games were all closely contested, and proved fitting curtain raisers to the varsity contests which followed them.

In the Lowell game the Eaglets rose to undreamed of heights, and defeated the Papooses, who had already won the championship. George Merriman became the hero of the evening when he broke the 21-all deadlock by sinking a foul shot seconds before the final gun.

The season was closed with a victory over the Polytechnic Parrots.

The first team was composed of Captain Dick English, George Merriman, who was chosen all-city by many experts, John Shaughnessy, Basil Kockos, and Gail Johanson.

Track

For the past seven years Commerce has reigned supreme in track in San Francisco, but a baby Eagle in its short athletic history is gradually becoming a threat.

George Washington has yet to lose a 220 yard dash in the A.A.A. Tom Cussen won the event last year and Bill Finck carried on in this year's competition to win in the very fast time of 22.2. Ernest Shipnuck became co-holder of the 120 pound record, when he won in the time of 23.2. John Spargo was spiked in the first lap of the 880, but kept courageously on to finish a very good fifth, right on the heels of the leaders. Leo Leggett became city champion in the 130 pound 100 yard dash, winning in the fast time of 10.6. Coach Verducci will have excellent material for next year's team with all these champions returning, to be bolstered with men like Hawkins, O'Neil, and Swagerty, who have shown plenty of promise. These men should form the nucleus for a well balanced team, which will offer the best of competition and perhaps threaten the unlimited six man relay record.

UNLIMITED TRACK

Row 2: Moore, Bechtold, Crompton, Bagot, Ribera, Lapkin.

Row 3: Feltzer, Wineroth, Mavor, Jones, Leggett.

Bottom row: Konevich, Gorden, Shipnuck, Hickey, Trent, Reynolds.

Getting up very special early . . . surely no later than 10:30 . . . every morning in the week, little Zinco dashes madly around the track fifty to sixty times . . . at least . . . coming down the home stretch in the magnanimous speedy time of 88.4 seconds.

BASEBALL

Top row: Petievich, Perotti, Denegri, Rirees, Clark, Coach Kelly.

Middle row: Petersen, Friedkin, McConnell, Frustuk, Voris, Rosenberg.

ACTION SHOTS

Upper: Les Rosenberg is safe on a close play at first base in the St. Ignatius game.

Lower: Tom Clark smacks out a clean single to start the scoring against Lowell.

Baseball

After waiting since the first semester for a baseball team, George Washington diamonders were finally rewarded this spring when Mr. Sylvester Kelly took over coaching duties. As we go to press, the Eagles have won two out of five games, and have yet to meet Balboa, Sacred Heart, and St. Ignatius.

The Washington hitting attack has been led by three seniors: catcher Laney McConnell, shortstop Bill Warnock, and first baseman Rube Friedkin. Other boys who have played their first and last year for the Scarlet and Gray, are third sacker Howard Theis, and pitchers Roy Frustuk and Martin Zernicke.

Behind one hit pitching by Frustuk, the team defeated Poly in the opener at Seal Stadium. Scoring all their runs in one wild inning, Galileo defeated the Eagles 7-4 at Harrison Park. Against Lowell, pitcher Zernicke allowed no hits and emerged victorious with a score of 9-5. All Lowell scores were unearned and came in the sixth inning by virtue of four walks and two errors. At Funston Park, Commerce set back the Eagles to the tune of 8-4. Before a gathering of 2500 fans, Mission whipped the Eagles 8-1 at Seals Stadium.

TENNIS

Back row: Henshaw, Doe, Halley, Mowbray, Foster.
Third row: Spornfielder, Morse, Oser, Gross.
Second row: Titlow, Kaffin, Doe, Polly, Reid.
Front row: Doe, Samuel, Kirker, Burton.

Swimming and Tennis

With the completion of the A.A.A. swimming meet, George Washington's unlimited and lightweight divisions took fourth and fifth places, respectively. Qualifying in the meet for the unlimiteds were: Ehrlich, Kahn, Faber, MacKillop, Hosmer, Lazarus, Leuenberger, Portello, Newsham, and Willard. The 130-pound competition was handled by Adams, Bastien, Daly, Jacobs, Kaye, Lamoreaux, Leddy, Michaelsen, E. Parker, Parker, Preston, Richey, Schwartz, Sommer, Tarpey, and VanNuys. Composing the 120-pound team were Brey, Church, Hammarstrom and Willard. Damner, Ehrlich and Wieder were in the 110 class.

Having had only two matches with Poly and Commerce, George Washington was forced to enter the A.A.A. tennis championships with little practice.

Managed by Alan Samuel and coached by Mr. Arthur Fagin, the team was chosen after a month of ladder matches. The team positions were as follows: singles—Kirker, Schapiro, Henshaw, Rice, with alternates—Letsinger and Gershon. The doubles teams consisted of Burton and Kaffin; Halley and Polly; Reid and Shiller; Thomas and Saslow, with alternates—Gross and Grant; and Sinitzen and Foster.

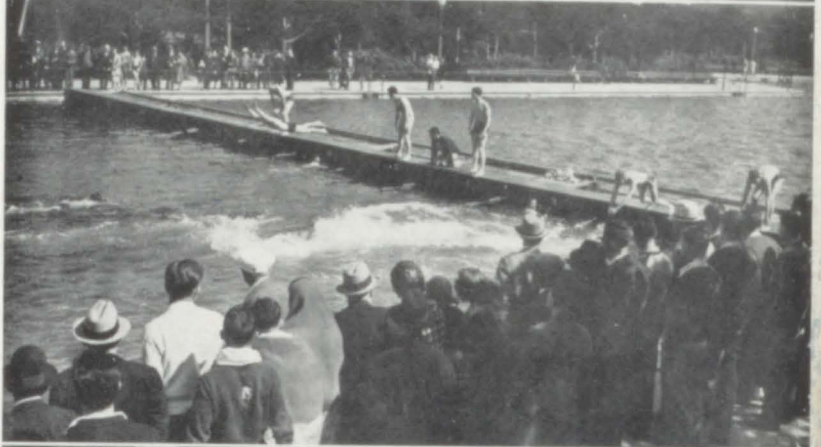

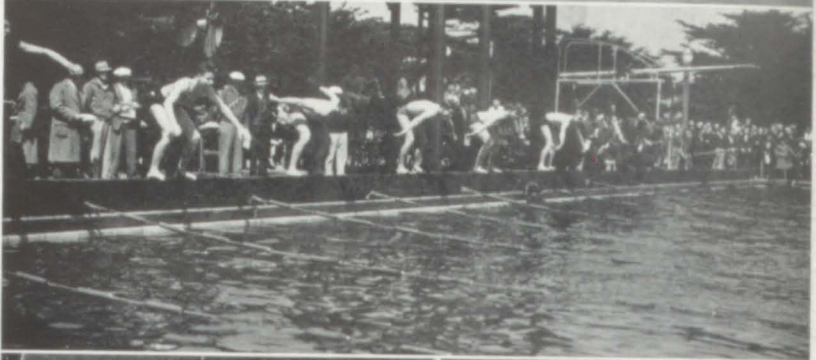

BOYS' SWIMMING

North Burn G. A. A.

The G.A.A., on the whole, was a very successful organization during the spring semester. Under the leadership of Frances Young, president; Zoy Ellis, vice-president; Yolanda Gomez, secretary; Betty Hendy, historian; and Louise Payne, Doris Little and Betty Levy, yell leaders, the sport season was climaxed by Tourney Week and the term banquet. At the G.A.A. playday, which was handled by the Block W committee, representatives from the G.A.A.'s of other high schools joined the sports groups in baseball, volleyball, badminton, and paddle tennis. The tumbling team and dancing groups provided entertainment; refreshments were served later on the front steps.

Amid splash and laughter, eighty very active mermaids started the sports season with a playday, at which the girls played baseball and volleyball in eight feet of water. The swimming meet relay results follow: Beginners—elementary back stroke—J. Moore; final heat—J. Moore; advanced back stroke—B. Dunbar; free style, two lengths—B. Dunbar; free style, one length—B. Hicks.

The tumbling class, managed by Verne Williams, ended the term with a demonstration in which rope jumping and climbing were featured. The tumblers also were entertainers at the G.A.A. playday earlier in the season.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Having the honor of being the largest G.A.A. group in San Francisco, the ice skating class brought their season to a close with a rollicking carnival. After many slips and slides, the would-be skaters did the grand march and the old maid skate. Outstanding in the class were June Lamp and Barbara Miller, figure skaters.

Managed by Adele Kleinhaupt, the five girls out for advanced golf took a lesson every other week and played the course twice a month. The twenty-three beginners were taught ten lessons and went around the course once.

The beginning and advanced groups climaxed their season with a horse-show held early in May. Outstanding riders were: M. Sugarman, B. Stevens, B. Grunauer, A. DeTurk, B. Praetzel, J. Brodie, A. Ohe, L. Schaezlein, and C. Miller.

Captained by J. Brodie, advanced group, and Sophie Ellis, beginners' group, sixty girls were out for baseball this season. The two evenly matched teams each won a game, tied a game, and then played for finals.

Volleyball captains this term included I. Alberigi, D. Behrmann, Y. Gomez, and B. Hendy for the beginners' group, and M. Barger, C. Bell, B. George, and J. Weatherbe for the advanced group. At the end of the season the teams played each other for final results.

Girl sport sponsors this term include Miss Clayton, Mrs. Denny, Miss Forcade, Miss Poole, and Miss Shearer.
