However, I will remember the times of mutual agreement and creativity developed while making our section. I would like to thank the photographers Tim Wong and Wade Sumner. Also, Paul Mica for his wonderful artwork. I wish to congratulate and thank members of the section: Karrie Ramm, for her grin and bare it attitude while making out the quad-packs; Jerome Brohovici for his smuggness, cropping ability, and intelligence which helped me at distressing moments; and Mary Liu for her quick fingers at the typewriter. Finally, I wish to congratulate myself for raising my blood pressure only 3 points and holding our section together during this distressing, nevertheless enjoyable period. Meg and Mrs. Marcus...I DID IT!

The George Washington High School Rifle Team placed second this year after losing to Lowell 1149-1172. Being on of the finest teams in the city, it very rarely places below third, in fact in the last 4 years the lowest it has placed is second. Riflery is a tough, demanding sport that requires discipline, self-control and stamina. Unlike other sports, Riflery is more of a mental strain, than a physical one. Many people try out for the Rifle Team, but few have the qualities to make it. Those who do succeed in this frustrating sport, are the ones who keep the George Washington Rifle Team on top.

The team didn't have a successful season with only one win against Mission, but they kept their spirits up throughout the season. In All-City, we had some winners:

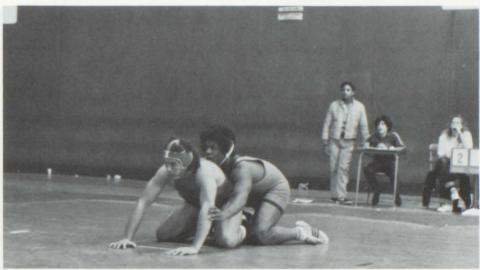

David Fukuda, a novice wrestler, placed 2nd in the 108 lbs., John Fukuda, a second year veteran, placed 2nd in the 140 lbs., Hank Klein, his second year on the team, wrestled great throughout the season: and placed 2nd in the 135 lbs. Senior Charles Ward took All-City in the 203 lbs. It was a great event for him and we wish him the best of luck at the State Meet.

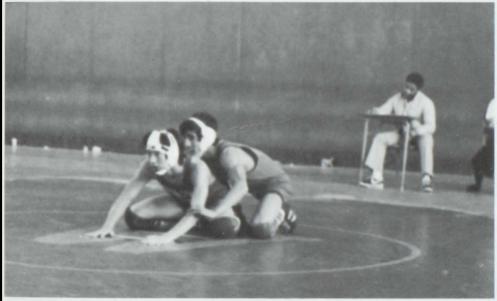

Let us not forget some of the other wrestlers who also did well: Robert Schaezlein — 165 lbs., Melvin Huie — 157 lbs., Matt Wayne — 147 lbs., Edward Yu and Collin Tam — 128 lbs., Doug Murakami, David Nakasu and Bryan Fukuda — 128 lbs., and Nick Dierauf — 100 lbs.

The Washington Eagles' 1981 Varsity Basketball team finished with an impressive 7-1 record in league play and a 20-5 season record going into the play-offs. This year's team had four experienced starters returning. They were led by Junior forward David Boone, Junior center Quentin Stephens, Senior guard Carl Storey, and Senior forward Norman Grant. Other members on the team who had an excellent season were Ken Neely, Eric Robinson, Bill Lassiter, Todd Renfrew, Maurice Robinson, Ricky Myers, and Ernest Robins.

The first league game was against Balboa which Washington won 83-53, led by David Boone with the Eagles coming out on top 80-69. David Boone's career high 41 points and Quentin Stephens 25 points and numerous rebounds helped Washington beat Mission 99-83. The next game was against league leading Wilson. The Eagles had many chances to win, but lost to Wilson 77-69. Norman Grant's 17 points, David Boone's 20 points, and Quentin Stephen's 16 points were enough to lead Washington past McAteer 71-62. The following game the Eagles crushed O'Connell 103-51, behind David Boone's 23 points and Quentin Stephen's 22 points. David Boone's 20 points and Quentin Stephens' defense with Ken Neely's clutch free throws and Carl Storey's great ball handling helped Washington to defeat highly rated Lincoln 81-78 OT. Lowell was the next victim, when the Eagles scalped the Indian 63-48.

The Eagles played Lincoln in the play-offs and beat them with a winning score 79-67. The Eagles earned their championship spot against Wilson to collect the #1 spot!!

The Lady Eagles had a disappointing season. They started with a rough pre-season and ended with only two wins, against Balboa and Lincoln by forfeit. Throughout the season, the girls began to improve and showed a great deal of ability game after game: they played well and gave it all they had. The team is a very young team with only four seniors: Jamie Yamamura, Regina Quilala, Juliet Martin and Lori McLoughlin. The rest is made up of juniors and sophomores, hoping to return next year for a better season.

JR.

In J.V. basketball, Washington was ranked on top. Top scoring players like Cornell Myrick and Bobby Rainey made each game exciting. Credit is also highly given to Daryl Turner — Captain, Shawn Hall, Mike Powell, Aaron Brown, Edward Hunter, Troy Samson, and Mike Kemp. Under great coaching by Coach Firpo, the Eagles were able to beat each team by a 2-3 point margin. The J.V. Eagles' only loss was to Balboa in an overtime. In the play-offs they were able to down Lincoln and earn their championship against Balboa. The sports' staff wants to apologize to the team for not having any J.V. basketball action shots.

My staff and I gave the best of our ability to put this section together. With deadlines to be met, we weren't able to put in all the sports. This year, thanks to the coaches, we were able to put in the swim team, the girls' softball, the baseball team, and track. I want to thank Wade Sumner and Mr. Yee for the photography work, special thanks to Tim Wong for his extra time and effort for making this section possible. Also want to thank Kelly Low for her Garfield artwork, it added a touch of comic. To Meg and Mrs. Marcus, I want to thank them for the support and suggestions. Although this was my first and last time, they are the ones that helped me make this section its best. And last but not least, I want to thank Alan Thomas and Nadine Quick for their assistance and helping me put this section together. Wishing both of you the best in your senior year and take care.

On their way up, the class of '84 held a candy-gram sale, a chow mein sale, and participated in the annual Pot-Luck dinner. On a cold December day, the freshmen successfully raised funds and spirit with a car wash. Looking toward the future, the class began planning activities and fund raisers for the years ahead.

The class of '83 earned funds through two car washes, and sold chow mein, pizza bread and cotton candy. They organized a rally to raise spirit, and to promote their dance, "Together." The class successfully sold tshirts, buttons, and carnations. Said Bettina Poon and Mary Daquioag, "We think our class has a lot of spirit and in the years to come we see even more spirit and unity at Washington."

The juniors had a sales week in which they sold chow mein, and flower and balloon grams also they participated in the May Festival. The class of '82 engaged in a picnic, a pizza night, a skating party, and planned a school dance with the aim of building spirit and increasing their treasury for next year's graduation and prom.

The graduating class of GWHS sold candy, chow mein and stuffed animals. Many senior activities included: A night at Farrell's Ice-Cream Parlor, Senior Activity Day, the Spring Ball, Pizza Night, Prom on May 15 at the St. Francis Hotel, Grad Night at Disneyland and planned grad trips to Hawaii and a Mexican Cruise. Said the senior class president Kevin Broussard, "The class of '81 has shown that they have a great deal of spirit and pride in themselves. They should, for they have faced considerable odds and they have surpassed them. In my opinion, the class of '81 is #1!'

1. Sophomores show off their t-shirts. 2. We do windows, too! 3. Some went all out to show their spirit. 4. Getting "together" at "Togetherness." 5. Chow mein sales are the money-makers. 6. George Washington High School's clubs and organizations were responsible for many of the varied activities held throughout the school year. Some of their projects extended from GWHS into the community and were a benefit not only to students, but to the city of San Francisco.

Chow mein, candy, and flower sales proved to be successful and dependable money-makers in 1980-81. Within the school, original fund raising projects abounded, and each club and organization used creativity in alloting their hard earned funds toward worthwhile projects.

Some of the more successful club activities were: dances, paper recycling, tree planting, parties, refreshment booths at games, an Alumni dinner, vaudeville show, participation in the cerebral palsy telethon, Miss/Mr. Chinatown pageant, cultural nights, tutoring; health fairs, scholarships, and community awareness projects.

The goals of GWHS's diverse clubs and organizations ranged from club unity to school and community awareness, and 1980-81 was a year marked with success in attaining beneficial results for all.

1. GSS pretzel sale. 2. Chow mein stuffers! 3. Spreading newspaper became a pastime for many involved in lunch time food sales. 4. A student proudly displays the flower-grams sent to her. 5. The Eagle Newspaper staff's ice cream sale made this student happy! 6. Mrs. Chandler helps prepare for the lunch hour rush. 7. Surveyor staff members all pitch in together to pack 300 lbs. of chow mein. 8. Being surrounded by candy doesn't seem to bother these hard working club members. 9. The music and drama department of GWHS were very active this year. In the fall, Mrs. DeMatteis directed the comedy. "The Curious Savage" and said, "The experience was wonderful and exciting." Six weeks were spent in rehearsal and the hard work resulted in a highly successful production which received large and warm audiences, good reviews, and a good size profit from ticket sales. Mr. Franklin organized the play's publicity, ticket arrangements, and refreshments, while Mr. Tevenan produced the set. The cast and crew agreed the hard work was well worth it, and "The Curious Savage" proved a profitable venture to all those who participated and attended. In the spring, preparations began for the musical "Auntie Mame."

The school band, under the direction of Mr. Pleasure, performed concerts at several middle schools during the Christmas season. They entertained the public at Union Square and performed for GWHS students at several assemblies. The Chamber Singers and A Cappella choir performed excellently at GWHS and within the Bay Area.

Project S.W.E.E.P., Teachers' Aide, TIES Tutors, and JROTC all proved beneficial to George Washington High School's pride and effectiveness. Four years ago, Mr. Leach's Psychology classes took a student body survey and found students felt that #1 problem on campus was the litter. That was the humble beginnings of Save Washington's Environment and Ecology Please. Four concerned teachers, the late Mrs. Rhine, Mr. Leach, Mr. Jones, and Ms. McKenna organized SWEEP to make a positive change in GWHS's atmosphere. In 1981, Ms. Pandell and Ms. Lupis joined as sponsors of the program, which has become an important and effective facet of student activity. The major goals of SWEEP were student awareness of surroundings and responsibility for school cleanliness; student involvement in keeping the four and a half blocks of GWHS free of litter and vandalism; and to develop a sense of community pride in the campus. Supervised student clean-ups, weekly inspections and special events were held to encourage total student involvement in the program. This year the San Francisco Businessmen's Fund donated $2,890 to SWEEP. The donation was put toward essential supplies, plus promotions such as t-shirts, buttons, and a garbage can painting pro-

JROTC continued their proud services to GWHS throughout the '80-'81 year. They participated in the Rifle Team, Drill Team, Drum Corps, Girls' Drill Team, and Annual Spring Competitions. The Color Guard is prepared to perform at any time on request; JROTC members raise and lower the school American flag, and they aid SWEEP. JROTC also performed impressively at the Safety Patrol Review, and at their annual Formal Inspection.

T.A.'s (Teaching Assistants) and TIES Tutors served both teachers and students during school hours. The students involved in the program devoted time and effort in aiding GWHS teachers and tutoring students at Lafayette Elementary and Presidio Middle School. The TA's and TIES Tutors successfully bolstered educational programs while providing participating students with a memorable learning experience.

The "shops" of GWHS are worthwhile courses for many students. In the 80-81 school year sources were offered in electronics, graphic arts, auto mechanics, and metal and woodworking. The goal of the metal and wood shops is to teach the skills needed and technology required in operating machinery by completing assigned projects. Electronics students agreed the course was fun and exciting. The aim of the class was to prepare students for independent living and future careers in the field. The auto shop classes were taught the basic operations of automobiles and consumer awareness. The course serves as an introduction to mechanics. and plans to teach such basic as car tune-ups, minor repairs, and giving those students with future careers in mechanics a beginning in their training.

The Home Economics department consisted of Clothing 1-5, Child Care 1 and 2, and Foods 1-3. Not only did the classes learn job skills and receive on the job training, but students were taught basic living fundamentals. The basic goal of the art department was the find and enrich talent, while at the same time giving all students some art experience they enjoy. Says Ms. Gadas, "I love teaching art!"

Compiling a creative yearbook takes a tremendous amount of dedication, perseverance, and hard work. Many people have contributed their talents and they should be recognized.

The Surveyor staff would like to thank:

Tom Walker, a representative from Taylor Publishing Co.; Jake Barker of School Productions Inc.; Bob Callister of Kee Coleman Studios; Brooks; Fireside; and Hag camera stores.

If you had dropped by Rm. 8 third period any day this year, you would have noticed many students busily involved in yearbook production. Mimi Tom, Karen Bunton, Tom Poon, Aline Jung, Reed Minkin, Sophie Wong, and Linda Richards put in extra time to make each individual section a success. Other students who were particularly motivated were Mary Liu, Nancy Chan, Karrie Ramm, and Jerome Brohovici.

The photography work was done mainly by Wade Sumner and Tim Wong. The artwork throughout the book was drawn by Tim Wong, Glenn Chu, Guy LaCrosby, Kelly Low, Gary Tom, Paul Mica, Catherine Wong, and Raymond Fu.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all of the teachers and administrators, especially our sponsor, Mrs. Marcus, for their outstanding support and cooperation that made this book possible.

This past year has been a valuable one for me, and I hope that this year's Surveyor was able to capture a few memorable moments in everyone's high school experience.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who took the time to inform me about their specific activities; the teachers who gave up class time to speak with me and the students who so freely shared their thoughts. I also wish to thank the members of the Surveyor staff, because without their helpfulness, this section would not have been possible. A special wish for Sophie, Clarissa, Louisa, Wade, and Tim: May your futures bring as much laughter and good times as you five have given me—good luck, and I'll miss you. I wish to thank Mrs. Marcus and Meg Halsey for your guidance and most of all, your faith.

On September 10, 1980, Eunice Goldberg passed away. Miss Goldberg was born and reared in San Francisco. She attended San Francisco State College and the University of California at U.C. Berkeley, her majors being music and physical education. Miss Goldberg came to George Washington in 1971, after serving many years at Poly Technical High School. Upon the request of our principal, she began instructing Family Life courses. Thus began a warm and fondly remembered relationship with students and faculty alike which lasted for many, many years. Her absence has been a great loss to all of us. George Washington will remember the nine years of dedication Miss Eunice Goldberg gave to us.

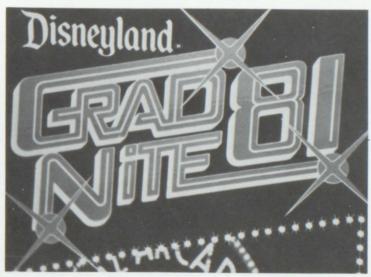

Having the opportunity to be a yearbook photographer I have learned true patience. First, I would like to thank Mrs. Marcus for her patience when she needed pictures that had not even been taken yet. Also thanks to Tim, who without his efforts the photography of this book would not have been completed. Sophie, Tom, Mimi, Reed, Linda, & Aline; thanks for having patience with me in my efforts as photographer. To the Class of '81, I feel this page is for you, and these pictures are a few things we all will remember. Karen; thanks for the times and truth we both have shared. Remember Phil, 1:21.

Special thanks to Mrs. Marcus for the constant guidance and for being the backbone of this section. Thanks to Tim and Wade for all their endless efforts to take pictures for me. Also to Mea, for giving me the faculty section and for having trust in me to complete it. Thank you to the faculty, for having the patience with me through all the time spent taking and retaking pictures. I sincerely hope this section is satisfying. I apologize for any mistakes of department placement.

It's a Song

Memories shared friend — I say we've shared Some these last few years, or has it really been that long?

It's a song.

days flying past parting time at last friends true and fast high school days have passed

Yeah, we had the parties in our day, friend; and remember Prom night?

drunken beer brawling afterward stuper sprawling fun, insane, appalling is that your mother calling?

And those classes were an experience in themselves, weren't they?

How to learn, how to earn,
history past, news today
We studied it all.

workers, scholars, and athletes machine shop, extra books, and dirty cleats don't we do some amazing feats? staying in tune, not missing the beats.

So what's ahead for you, classmates? Colleg ivy and late nights for you? Or basic bread winner stew?

Maybe a few parties along the way?

looking for scholarships, passing the boards we're a special bunch apart from the hoardes setting some goals, striving towards burning some bridges, opening doors.

The river is winding, bending surely onward; the leap, the plunge we're about to take The best is trust when the road is steep:

with friends and family helping along —

it's a test,

a joy,

a trial -
