FOREWORD

Today's Lowell High School is typically twentieth century; it is a complex educational and social institution with as many personalities as it has students and faculty members. Won't you turn the page and meet these friends of yours?

To a great little manager who is all too necessary for the success of our team.
 Bill Miller

The best of everything
all through life.
Hugh Frost

Hope you turn out well as a next year season.

loads of luck and fun in your terms
at Lowell
Janet Caine

The best of everything
always.
Betty W.

To a swell little fellow who helped me in my typing?
Margaret Wilby.

Dear Bill -
I hope you're all together in a fine again soon.

DEDICATION

As a patient and understanding instructor in physics during his twenty-four years at Lowell, the death of Mr. Alvin J. M. Robertson has left a greatly sorrowed faculty and student body. It is to his memory that this, the sixty-eighth edition of the Red and White, is dedicated.

MESSAGE TO THE PRINCIPAL

To Mr. Stephens:

On this page is an invisible message from every Lowell student. It is a genuine "thank you" for being the symbol of an ideal which makes us strive for the highest degree of achievement possible.

*Dear Mr. Stephens,
lots of luck
high praise to a man like you. See you very truly, Sophy*

Best of luck and everything nice to one of the finest fellas I know.
To Cliff —
The very best of luck to a damned nice guy and a hell of a good Mgr.
Always

GOVERNMENT

Government is guidance and service. Student body officers are the pupils' choice for leaders; student councils are the representatives of the hundreds; faculty members, with an understanding hand, guide us along the path of present and future.

With alluring zest and the effervescence of youth, members of Fall '41's graduating class took the lead in Lowell's many activities and services.

One of Lowell's foremost students, Ira Thompson, was president of the student body. Aiding him in his activities for this past term was Vice-President Jane Blair.

Officers for the high senior class were President Thomas Tully, Vice-President Betty Giles, and Secretary Blaine Gardner. The Shield and "L" included members Anita Ames, Jane Blair, Virginia Carpenter, Marion Cocks, Joan Denniss, Millicent Gomperts, Helen Herring, Joan Ireland, Mitzi Russ, Mary Alice Scott, Molly Mae Shepard, Davona Williams, and Bernice Crohare.

The Scroll and "L" included Kenneth Berven, Charles Blake, Bill Christiansen, Hal Holman, Jim Livingston, Stuart McPherson, Ira Thompson, and Jim Weller.

Room representatives elected Mary Alice Scott as president of the Girls' Council. Stuart McPherson was elected president of the Boys' Council. Vera Kreekis held the office of C.S.F. president.

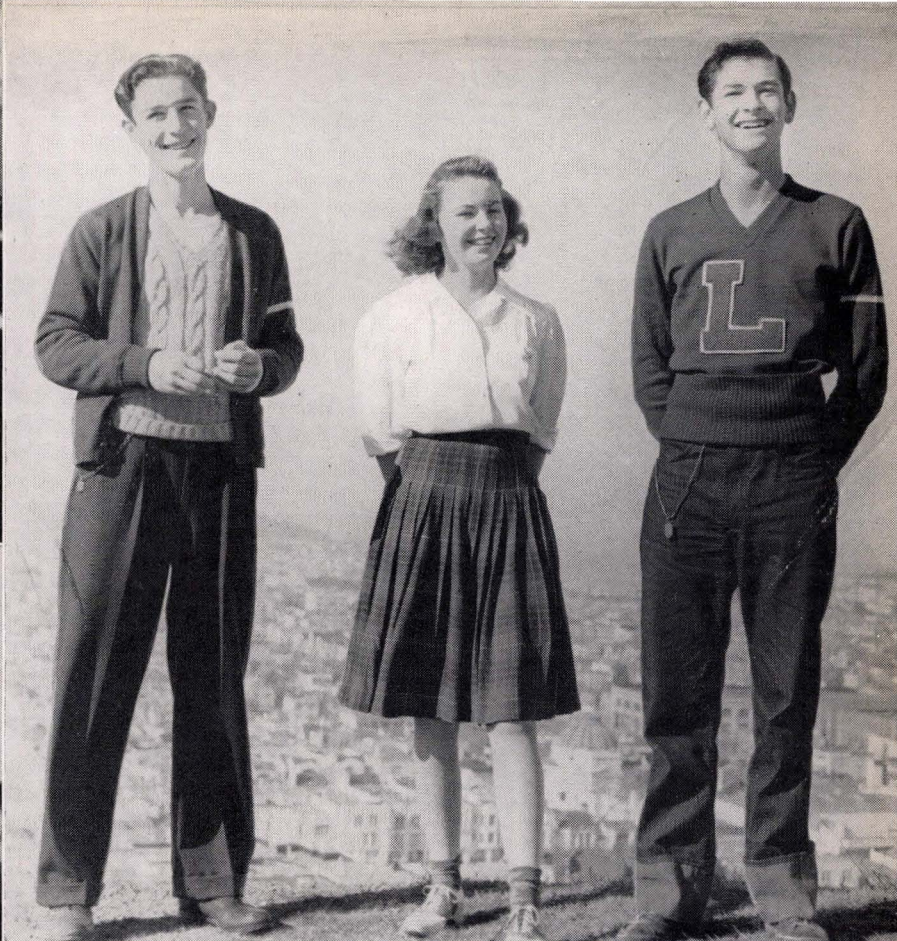

Graduating members of the Red and White staff were Editor Jim Livingston, Senior Editor Anita Ames and Photographic Head Thomas Tully. The Red and White art staff was proud of graduates Martin Kalvelage, Donald Sparrowe, Gary Weinhold, Iris Brown, and Mary Emerson.

sented the H-4's as a debater and Helen Herring, Marion Cocks, Joan Denniss, Mitzi Russ, Charles Blake, and Boris Moranoff were Dramatics Society members.

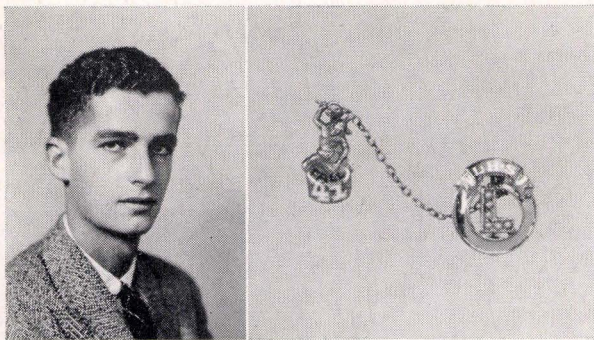

In the music realm John McHugh and Charles Blake were members of the Double Quartet, Joan Ireland was president of the Girls' Glee and members of the Triple Trio were Mattie Jean Gould, Shirley Button, Margaret Leibach, and Joan Ireland.

High seniors had their pulses quickened, their interests sharpened, by Head Girls' Yell Leader Joan Wise. With the responsibility of a club on their shoulders were Millicent Gomperts, Music Club president; Herbert Waechtler, German Club president; Charles Cohen, Debating Club president; and Harvey Rogers, president of the Camera Club.

Foremost in the army of the R.O.T.C. was Lieutenant-Colonel Jack Gibson, assisted by Major Lyle Rhode, and Captains Lloyd Selene, Bob Campbell, and Robert Fye. High seniors who acquired first lieutenant rating were Herbert Waechtler, William Cole, and James Gray. A high senior who attained second lieutenantcy was Earl Sobel.

Millicent Gomperts was secretary of the G.A.A. Leading the Girls' Block 'L' was President Molly Mae Shepard, assisted by Secretary Virginia Carpenter. Badminton sports manager was the lot of Margaret Markarian; Virginia Head was dancing manager; Jean Hodgkinson, swimming manager; Eleanor Mensch, ice skating manager; Marjorie Erickson, volley ball manager; and Margaret Leibach was manager of bowling.

SENIOR HISTORY

As the graduating class of Fall 1941, we stand at the gateway of an unknown future. There has gradually appeared in our consciousness a dark and ominous shadow. Momentarily, it has defined itself as a challenge to our resourcefulness and courage. Henceforth, the main problem in our lives will be to help dispel these oppressing clouds; in this endeavor we can not and will not fail.

Turn back the pages of history. Throughout these past few years much has happened which will affect our lives. Across the Atlantic, a wild, insane, Austrian painter has splashed Europe red with blood. Recently his handiwork has spread across the Pacific, even to our own shores. It is now our heritage to aid in solving the problems which this present state of world affairs places before all democratic nations.

In 1938, the year we enrolled as puzzled freshmen, war clouds were gathering in all parts of the world. However, people were not yet conscious of the threat of the Hitler war machine. In Great Britain, Prime Minister Chamberlain defended his foreign policy before the House of Commons, saying Germany must be taken in as a "partner" to insure Europe's peace and progress. In France, the government went ahead with its three-year mobilization plan; and from Russia came almost absolute silence.

Then the unexpected storm broke upon Europe with all the fury and destruction that only war can bring. Today it has enveloped the world.

While these series of tragic events were taking place, we were going through the ranks of senior high school carelessly-conscious of world conditions.

As Freshmen, our main task was to find our way around Lowell's never-ending halls and, needless to say, looking up to those unapproachables—the High Seniors. As Sophomores, we were becoming gradually accustomed to high school life. As Juniors we were allowed to hold our first class election. Never to be forgotten will be our first class dance.

Then came our Senior year. We were the school leaders. It was up to us to set an example for the rest of the school. This proved to be our most glorious year. Lowell students excelled not only in scholastic fields, but in athletic fields as well. Our football team achieved a signal victory, in one season rising from the lowest to the highest position—thereby bringing to Lowell the coveted city championship, a thrilling climax to our athletic season.

During the distressing period which will immediately confront us, thoughts of our high school days will drift back to us. Amidst these recollections we will recall unfathomable locker-room debates, classroom incidents, assemblies, court dances, looking for one's name in editions of the Lowell, and counting how many times one's picture appears in the Red and White. All these and countless more will surge back to us.

Needless to say, the wise and indispensable guidance of our Principal, Mr. Stephens, together with that of the Faculty, has given to our high school lives a constructive and heart-warming, personal direction whose influence we shall feel throughout the years ahead of us.

We, as graduates of Lowell High School and as individuals, cannot close our class history without an affirmation of ideals.

We are keenly aware of our obligations and duties to our country.

We, the youth of America, do accept the torch of human freedom that generations of resolute Americans have passed on to us.

We will strive to keep alight that flame so that it may continue to emblazon upon the pages of World History the American principle of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

"Smooth" is a one-word description of the Low Four Dance. "Clever" is a one-word description of the dance committee who chose "Chattanooga Choo Choo" for their dance theme. "Leaders" is the most adequate word for the officers, President Dan Miller, Vice-President Willamay Wissing, and Secretary Charles Cooke. In this class many of the goals, set when they were freshmen, are now being reached.

On the Scroll were Charles Cooke, Norman Tierney, Steve Dotur, Joe Eckart, Bob Kesler, Frank Wigmore, Bud Martin, Dave Williams, Bob Knox, John Harvey, Connie Glafkides, and Sidney Brown. Elected to the Shield were Anne Wigle, Ruth Schwedhelm, Willamay Wissing, June Sutton, Connie Wilson, Janet Rico, Rita Wieland, and Philis Ludlum.

The Dramatic stars were Janet Rico, Frank Davis, Jeanette Bravinder, and Veronica Alves. In Debating were Bud Martin, John Harvey, and Shirley McRae.

Working on the Red and White staff were Mary Jean Crenshaw, Frank Cronan, Otis Gravem, Bob Knox, Leslie Galvan, Louis Leithold, Gloria Nichols, June Sutton, financial manager; Claire Weinhold, and Eleanor Moseley. Editor of the Lowell was Mary Fletcher, aided by Barbara Gale, Bette Hinden, Frank Piombo, and Ed McArthur.

Singing in the Triple Trio were Ruby Aaron, Lucille Phipps, Dolores Parodi, Beverly Whitchurch, and Elaine Thibodeau. In the Boys' Glee sang John Moriarity and Jim O'Donnell.

HIGH JUNIORS

"We're going to make this term the biggest in high junior history!" So vowed H3 President Bert Burns, as he and his newly-elected assistants, Jackie Kenfield, vice president, and Corinne Clayton, secretary, began making plans for a season chockful of activities. In a week's time, popular students Bob Busse, Art Hoppe, Henry Nelson, Allan Feder, Joan Caravellas, Jackie Wise, and Sandy Johnston were elected to the dance committee, and embryonic ideas were taking visual shape for the social event of the season, the H3 dance.

Mid-afternoon, November 7: Class members enter an auditorium, converted for a few hours at least, into a native Hawaiian hut. There are green coconut palms on the stage, and you can almost catch the odor of bananas and poi. Boys and girls dance dreamily to the music of a surprise orchestra, "Phil O'Neill and His Music Ideal." The throng roars as dance committee members render, atmospherically, "Hawaiian Holiday," and two delectable native girls (Al Feder and Art Hoppe) in hula skirts and flower leis do a hip-swinging, tantalizing hula. Undisputed fact of the afternoon: the high juniors had concocted the most original dance of the term.

An active class, high juniors are interested in almost every phase of Lowell life. It has its share of club members, thespians, debaters, journalists, gridiron stars, crew men, sports enthusiasts of all kinds. Lowell, proud of these boys and girls, proud of their efforts and enthusiasm, feels sure that their determination will make 1942 a great senior year.

LOW JUNIORS

Lowell's ancient auditorium has seen many strange decorations, but it took the new upper classmen to whip up the skull-cracking idea of using auto posters, stop-go signs, Burma Shave poetry, and a rattle trap Ford as the theme for their October 24 dance, "Jalopy Jig."

"Guiding lights" of the dance were officers Bob Eddy, president; Barbara Leonard, vice-president; Naomi Hewlett, secretary; Mr. M. Peterson, counselor; and eight hard-working members of the dance committee.

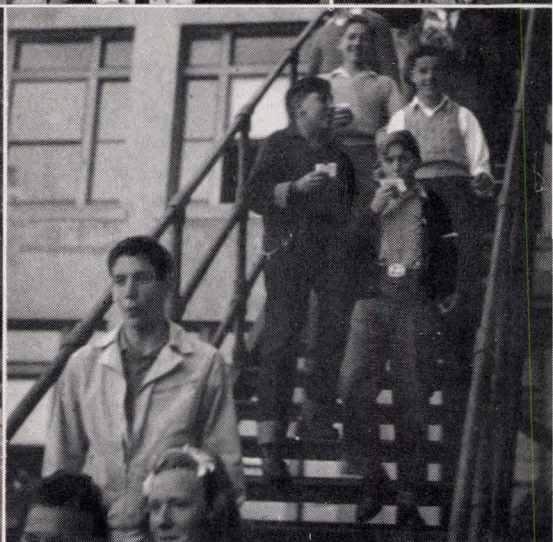

Writing for the "Red and White" were Ila Sullivan, Pat Minaker, and Doris Thompson. The art staff had Betty Calvert, Dorothy Lazenby, Sara Tsuruoka, Nan McMillan, and Violet Vincent. Reporters for the "Lowell" were Dick Rosenthal and Sol Silverman.

Especially active in sports, low junior boys were well represented on the gridiron with Bob Buchanan, Ken McLennen, Herb Fulda, Hank Morris, Ed Pittson, Stan DeForde, Harry Rahlmann, Charlie Mornard, and Ken Larkins. Soccer, track, and basketball also had many participants from this class.

Good athletes, too, many Low 3 girls went out for after-school sports. Shirley Friedrichs and Inga Milling manage tennis and golf, respectively.

Thirty-three low juniors are active members of the C.S.F., and many more are on the library and office staffs.

L O W E R

To banish bewilderment and uncertainty from the perplexed minds of Lowell's three hundred and ninety-one newcomers—that was Number One job on the social calendar of Lowell's honor societies. This term the Shield and "L" and Scroll and "L" launched one of the most brilliant newcomers' receptions ever to be witnessed at Lowell, and formally welcomed freshmen and sophomores from the various junior highs, public, private, and parochial schools into the many activities of the Indians.

Main features of the reception were "The Minstrel Show;" "An Army Physical Examination" skit; a radio broadcast presenting the most famous plays of all time featuring Irene Itch; "The Coach's Pep Talk;" and a scene entitled, "Happy Though Drafted."

Refreshments were served and a dance was held in the girls' gymnasium after the reception.

Basketball claimed the greatest number of lower classmen this term, and many are proving themselves to be desirable prospects. Some of the most outstanding players on the 120's team were, Bill Akard, Henry Hidekawa, Harry Kolsch, Dean Mason, Harold Ong, and Yoshio Takakuwa, and from the 110's Seija Aizawa, Bill Epstein, Roger Fanfelle, Yoshio Fujita, John Gonzales, Merel Moore, Dick Mulready, George Hines, Loren Hartman, and Robert Ray.

CLASSMEN

With a brilliant display of interest and enthusiasm toward school activities, several newcomers have joined the ranks of loyal Lowellites by conscientiously working for the betterment of the school. Only club president among the lower classmen this term was the president of the Tri-Y Society, Delta Peterson. Other lower classmen who displayed their enthusiasm for Lowell's activities were: Joan Levy and Jean Smith, "Red and White" art staff; Ray Anson, Janice Beanston, Billie Ruth Blaney, Rita Cox, Jean Farrell, Eleanor Freed, Barbara Geddes, Betty Lou Hale, Norma Jean Howell, Mary Ellen James, Phyllis Johnson, Noel McKenna, Barbara McGahie, Pat Meier, Gloria Motzer, Rafael Piscitelli, Claire Poor, Margaret Redmond, Ed Sutherland, Colin Tooley, Margery Weiss, Peggy Williams, library staff; Clarence Rubenstein, debating; Bill Lau, Herbert Fulda, Albert Dean, Boys' Glee.

The goof football team made up entirely of lower classmen, under the direction of Mr. Lighty, had one of the biggest and best turnouts for football this term.

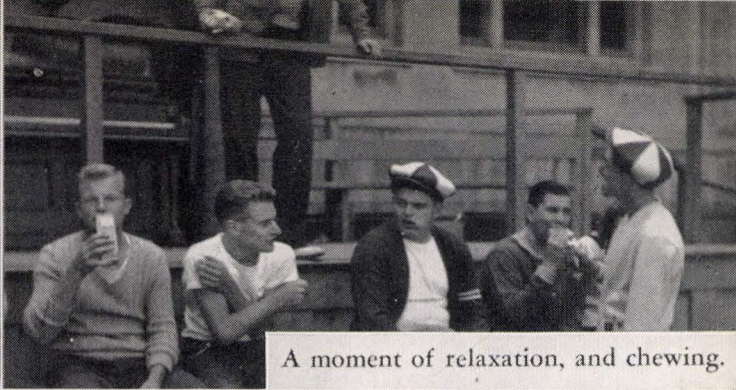

Much credit is also due to the freshmen and sophomore registry teachers and counselors whose untiring efforts have, no doubt, inspired their students to maintain the morale of Lowell, and have helped them to adequately prepare themselves so that they may carry on the duties of the school life successfully.

C. S. F.

Customary mental picture of a scholar: tortoise-rimmed, emaciated book worm. Proof that this is a false impression: Lowell's one hundred and forty-six California Scholarship Federation members.

None has a grade point average of less than ten C.S.F. honor points; yet they are able to star in school athletics, hold student body offices, give coaching assistance to other students, receive outstanding oratory awards at the semi-annual C.S.F. convention held at George Washington High School this term, belong to school clubs, work on various periodicals, assist in the school library, give dinner dances at public hotels, and still present one of the most colorful and eventful dances of the term for their members.

Geniuses? No—just a glorified picture of the average American high school student whose main ambition is to have a good time without jeopardizing his scholastic records.

A "Carnival Dance," gay, exciting theme of their annual fall classic, ended the school whirl for these fun-loving, scholarly Lowellites and drew this term's activities to a close.

Chieftain and ardent supporter of the Indians' scholastic society this term was Vera Kreekis, ably assisted by Naomi Hewlett, vice-president, and Barbara McIntyre, secretary-treasurer. All were under the direction of Mr. S. W. Moore, and Mr. L. B. Barnes, faculty advisors.

RED AND WHITE

Goal of the Red and White staff: a book sparkling with originality, a book that's "different." This was no easy task. Previous journal editors, sixty-seven of them, have striven toward the same goal. Sixty-seven previous editors have worried about division pages, placement of pictures, forceful copy, and possible themes. Sixty-seven previous editors fervently prayed that the students would like the book. So does the sixty-eighth.

"A Day at Lowell" was chosen as the theme. Each page was done with the idea to keep alive Lowell memories. The long hours of cramming for exams, the rallies filled with Lowell spirit, the tense excitement of football games, and the strains of popular orchestrations during those coveted court dances were all expressed candidly and journalistically in the pages of the book. Candid camera shots were stressed. A photographic staff was organized with a director and five photographers who used every opportunity to take snaps of Lowellites at work and play. Shots of debaters, thespians, football players and spectators were shown in action. Two pages were dedicated to "Senior Memories." Student body and class officers' pictures were informal with a background of Lowell atmosphere.

"Vacation Memories" were an added attraction. For the first time those glorious days of summer, which are as much a part of high school life as those spent in the classroom, have a place in the annual. The articles were written with a new idea in mind. Knowing that pictures rather than written material are more interesting, the motto was "Make articles shorter, lively."

The art staff is responsible for the excellent drawings that enliven the book. The staff, composed of outstanding art students, worked under the capable supervision of Miss F. L. Herrmann. This group is also responsible for the decore of our otherwise bleak corridors.

Photography, art work, and write-ups. Together they add up to the Red and White. We hope you like the result.

THE LOWELL

The roaring presses are silent now. The forms and metal are cold. The last "Lowell" has been "put to bed," the newshawks relax.

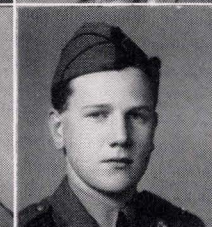

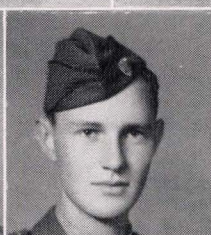

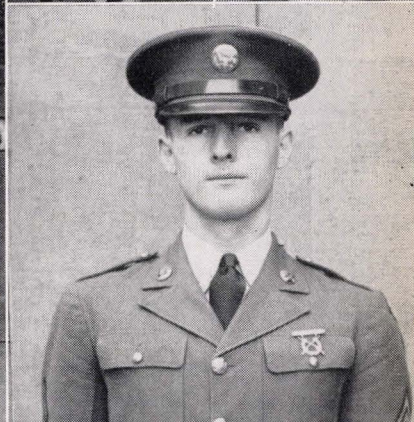

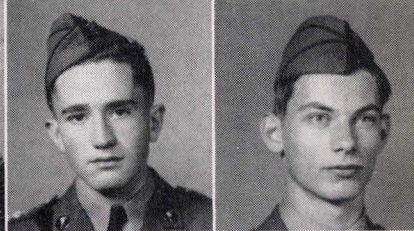

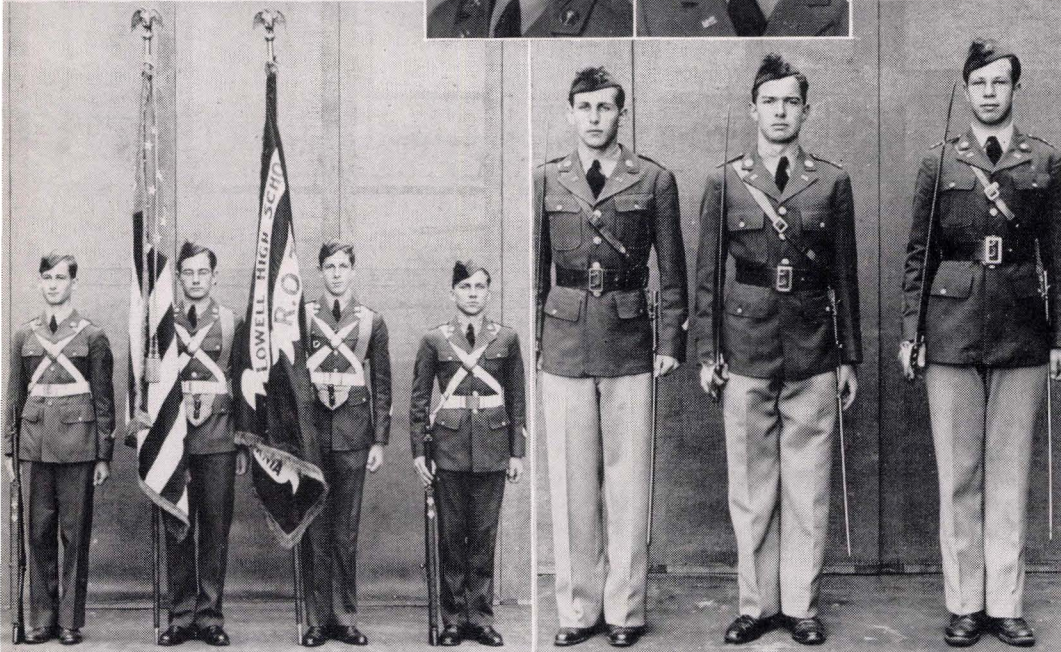

Six editions of the paper have rolled off the presses this term, presenting school news accurately and originally. While the "Lowell" staff wrote news, history was made:

There was the "Cub" edition—when Journalism I classes told Lowell what to expect of its future scribes.

There were the "Victory" and six-page "Senior" editions—when the Magic Eye camera produced two complete picture pages.

Behind each successful edition lay the advice and assistance of Mr. J. W. Patterson and Mr. Albert McKeever, supplementing the combined efforts of Editor Mary Fletcher, Managing Editor Joan Simon and nineteen staff members.

A twenty per cent increase on last term's enrollment, four companies instead of the usual three, a new instructor, two night parades, and the "Officers' Ball" were the highlights of the Lowell R.O.T.C. for the term. A total of 216 members were divided into Companies A, B, C, and D, with William Campbell, Sam Martin, Robert Fye, and William Culpepper as respective captains. Sergeant Rench took over the job of instructor, filling the position left vacant by Sergeant Kallberg, who was transferred to Fort Mason at the beginning of the semester.

Powder and grease paint donned, scenery set, Lowell's Varieties, 1941 style, were ready to go on record that first week in December as the best bagful of tricks that Santa had yet pulled from his red bag.

When Lowell's dramatic guiding-star, Mr. Samuel K. Polland, directs his efforts dramatically, to produce the semi-annual thespian effort, "superlative" is the word. This term was no exception.

With comedy as its motif, "The Christmas Varieties" this year was melage of drama, music, and song in twenty acts.

"Little Birds in Their Nest" presented Lowell's satire on the "going-home-to-mother" theme. "Hang It" described the difficulties of hanging uncle's picture. "Speed Up"—"An Exercise in Brevity," they titled it on the program—was a one-word drama that satirized the male gold-digger. "The Cure" featured John Harvey taking several, all very ineffective. "When the Great Big World Stops Turning" was a neat little travesty on the potentialities of modern science. A boy, a girl, and a movie set formed the chief props of "On the Lot," which took the playgoer behind the scenes of a motion picture production. "Why I Am a Bachelor," perhaps the most humorous selection of the evening, featured Frank Davis in the title role, and Anatole Bratoff and Nancy Traverso demonstrating the "why." "Spot Cash," a melodrama in rhythm, something new to Lowell audiences, presented dialogue entirely in rhyme, all about the travels of a counterfeit $50 bill. One husband and the morning paper, eating breakfast with the wife, and there you have "Breakfast Time," in three rounds, refereed by butler Jim Oliver. The married couple forgot their gloves, missed the clinches, but it was a draw. The most naturally witty piece of the night was "An Advertisement Drama," narrated by John Harvey with the aid of Welch's Grape Juice and an Ingersoll watch.

The play was there on the stage—one could see that. Unseen, but just as vital to the perfection of the performance as the lines spoken on the stage, were the many hours spent by orchestra, art staff, and staging committees. The Varieties were a success; that was the important point.

The official debating season opened October 31 with a practice debate against Modesto High.

The San Francisco Public Day High School League took place November 5. Lowell's clockwise schedule included Poly, Girls' High, Washington, and Lincoln. The Indians' Charles Cohen and Caroline Nahman won a 3-to-0 decision over Poly. Cohen won first speakership and Nahman took second.

Second practice debate of the term was held against the California Frosh debating team November 12. Practice debates are no-decision meetings.

Division entered five teams, three of which passed into the finals, and one won the decision and trophy. The winning team was Dave Teitellbaum and Norman Kramer, both High Two's, and considered promising Senior debaters. Two Senior Division teams passed the preliminaries, but were eliminated in the semi-finals.

Coach George Lorbeer's next objective was the Pacific High School Forensic Championship meet on Friday, December 5, at San Francisco State College. Lowell High won the sweepstakes trophy for having the most points. Clarence Rubenstein took second place in radio announcing and extempore. Charles Cohen won Boys' oratory and Doris Krutmeyer tied for third in the Women's oratory. Rubenstein and Jack Goldberg took first place by winning seven debates, while Mildred Kiefer-Joe Echart and Norman Kramer-Dave Teitellbaum tied for second by winning six and losing only one.

In the midst of this crowded calendar of events the Debating Society finds time each year to give Constitution Day and Armistice Day programs for the student body.

Music, 'tis said, charms the savage beast.

There are no savage beasts to charm at Lowell, but there are students who like to sing, hence, the Girls' Advanced Glee Club. Some of the girls sing better than others. They, nine of them, comprise the Triple Trio.

Sopranos are Shirley Button, Shirley Burke, Mattie Jean Gould; second sopranos are Ruby Aaron, Lucille Phipps, Beverly Whitchurch; altos are Dolores Parodi, Margaret Lelbach, and Joan Ireland who is also president of the club. Two of the hardest workers in the club are pianists Florence Morrison and Grace Hannon, both of whom feverishly read notes to keep up with the singing girls.

Activities of the club this term included singing of the Triple Trio at the Varieties, club singing before the P.T.A. and participation in a nearby church program. An original patriotic song, written by two San Francisco teachers, was presented to the club. Mr. Charles Walsh, Lowell, wrote the lyrics and Mr. C. G. Ingram, Mission, wrote the music.

Variety is the spice of life.

Guided by this philosophy, the Boys' Glee Club selected their songs from a group ranging from early folk songs to modern melodies. Each day at twelve o'clock, the Glee Club begins a period of relaxation and song.

At the beginning of the period, under the direction of their experienced leader, Miss J. Neppert, the boys warm up with a few vocal exercises before going on to the songs. Some of the well-known tunes sung this term were: "Passing By," "Santa Lucia," "Short'nin' Bread," "Love's Old Sweet Song," and several Christmas carols. The entire Glee Club is planning to make some records of these songs later in the year. We will probably hear them sing at graduation again. In the double quartet were: Tenors, Bill Lau, John McHugh; second tenors, Jack Stoll, Al Dean; baritones, Charles Blake, Herb Fulda, and basses, Jim O'Connell and Merl Moore.

Mr. M. Devlin's baton is raised. Stage lights are dimmed. An expectant hush comes over the audience as the first strains of the overture by the Lowell Concert Orchestra fills the auditorium, heralding the approach of the glad Yuletide season, and with it the "Christmas Varieties," for which this talented group supplied all the music. Special musical selections were given by the String Quartet, Eiko Yoshizato, Ruth Gumbrecht, Dorothy Surtees, and Eleanor Hesselberg.

Under the baton of Concert Mistress Eiko Yoshizato, the orchestra also gave brilliant performances for the P.T.A. Fathers' Night Reception, and various other concerts during the term, closing their season by playing at the commencement exercises.

The fifty members of the band played and performed stunts on the gridiron during the half-times of many Lowell games this term, pepping up the spirit of both team and rooters. They also played in the city-wide Preparedness and Armistice Day parades.

It is ten o'clock Thanksgiving morning in San Francisco.

Boys with red and white rooters' caps and girls with pom-poms of the same colors are streaming into Kezar Stadium, finding seats in the sections below the Press Box, below the banner on which is emblazoned one word—"Lowell." Across the worn turf of the stadium they see another group taking their places in the morning sunshine. Above this group is another banner. It reads—"Poly."

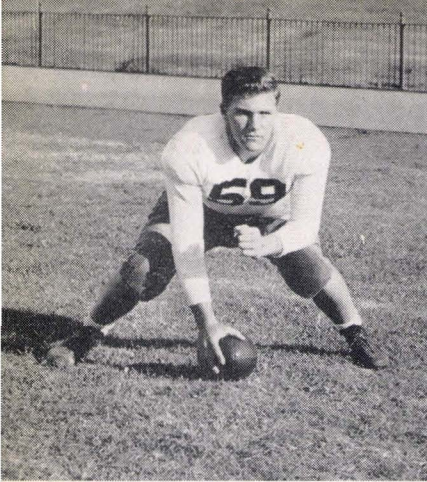

It is eleven o'clock. All but the end-zone seats are filled, filled with some 37,000 San Franciscans, young and old, waiting for the kick-off in the traditional "Big Game" of football between Lowell and Polytechnic, a game that this year will decide the city high school championship. Poly has won six, tied one; Lowell has won six, lost one (to Commerce, 7 to 6).

The game ends about one-thirty. Poly's powerful team, undefeated in twenty straight games, is defeated, defeated by what they call the Lowell "T" formation. Lowell wins the "Big Game." Lowell wins the city championship. Lowell has a score of seven; Poly, poor Poly, has nothing.

LOWELL 35—GEO. WASHINGTON 7

Displaying more finesse and clean, precise blocking than the Eagles could cope with, the Indians completely outclassed their opponents in a contest that was never close at any time. Using all the lightning speed, power, and deception of the system, Lowell showed prep fans more than a semblance of the T formation, made famous last season by the Stanford Indians.

Special Praise Department—Charlie Cooke for five consecutive conversions; Blaine Gardner for smart quarterbacking; Jack Irvine and Dan Miller for vicious line smashing; and Ira Thompson and Pat Simmons for their "super" guard play.

LOWELL 6—COMMERCE 7

Nothing went right for the Indians on September 25, but that didn't stop them from trying until the final gun went off. Scoring on a pass shortly before the first half ended, Sheridan to Orsi, it looked as if Lowell had really found the magic of the "T." But the Bulldogs came back in the second half, an inspired team, and staged a smashing drive which finished with Prevazich going over to score from the one. The all-important try for point was made by Blake, who had previously blocked Lowell's conversion.

Special Praise Department—Frank Cardelli for trying all the time; Billy Sheridan for exceptional bits of aerial strategy; and Paul Orsi for those streaking runs.

LOWELL 8—SACRED HEART 7

Cold and fog-bedraggled fans saw a clearly superior Indian team come woefully close to defeat at the hands of Sacred Heart. Every time the Cards' attack got under way and they got within scoring distance something happened to fizzle it. The Irish didn't show much push at all, and due to sloppy ballhandling on their part and alertness on the part of the left side of our line, we came out of the first half with a safety to our credit. In the third period the Cards showed that their passing attack could work, Sheridan doing the pitching and Orsi catching the last one for a touchdown. The Irish turned the tables in the fourth quarter for their score.

Special Praise Department—Frank Wigmore and Steve Dotur for being alert and getting that safety; Billy Sheridan for hitting his receivers right on the nose; Howie Hill for a lot of swell line-backing; and Bob Thomson for steady end play.

LOWELL 13—MISSION 0

The Cards won this one easily and impressively. The Indians scored two touchdowns in the first half, one on passes by Sheridan, and the other on the longest sustained drive this season—92 yards, Orsi accounting for most of it. After squeezing all the ambition out of their foe the Cards' attack bogged down in the second half.

Special Praise Department—Bill Irwin for his fine defensive play; Bob Thomson and Frank Wigmore for their swell pass receiving; Blaine Gardner for faultless ball-handling; and Paul Orsi for those long gainers.

LOWELL 7—GALILEO 6

Seemingly unable to untie themselves, Lowell's attack was stalled in the first half. Then, after the second period kickoff, Jack Irvine took the Indians in hand and led them on a 60 yard march to a touchdown. The all-important conversion was made by Sheridan.

Special Praise Department—Jack Irvine for an all-around grand ball game; and Frank Cardelli and Ira Thompson for consistent line play.

LOWELL 7—BALBOA 0

After settling absolutely nothing for three-quarters in the mud and slush of Kezar Stadium, Lowell reverted to prayer passes late in the second half. Sheridan let one loose in the direction of Wigmore, but Pallas, Balboa backfield man, jumped high, tipping the ball straight into the air. Orsi, who had been trailing the play, shot forward and grabbed the ball for 13 yards and a touchdown. Sheridan kicked the extra point midst the din of the Lowell cheering section.

Special Praise Department—The entire Lowell line for holding those powerful Bucs; Paul Orsi for being right on the job; and Charlie Cooke for that swell team spirit.

LOWELL 20—ST. IGNATIUS 0

The Indians just had too much for the Wildcats in a game highlighted by spectacular breakaway runs, and a small inter-school riot. Orsi's 89 yard punt return scored one touchdown; Sheridan's 64 yard sprint set up another; and with the help of a pass interception by Buchanan, a third one was made.

Special Praise Department—Those second and third string substitutions for some nice playing; Pat Simmons, Steve Dotur, and Frank Wigmore for the fast charging line play; and Paul Orsi and Billy Sheridan for those long rambles.

LOWELL 7—POLY 0

Lowell's passing and punting told the story as 37,000 prep fans watched the Cards hand the Parrots their first defeat in twenty games. The powerful Poly line valiantly held the Indians throughout the first half, Lowell having twelve scoring chances from within the ten-yard line. Then, after fighting to a standstill during the third quarter, Gardner let lose with a 73-yard punt. The tide of battle turned. Using trickery, Orsi, usually a runner, passed to Sheridan for a 23-yard gain. Reversing the play, Sheridan to Orsi, made 14 and a first down on the ten. After an incomplete forward pass, Sheridan took the ball from the center, faked to Orsi and, with some neat blocking on the part of co-Captain Cooke, passed one to Captain Frank Wigmore, who after cutting in back of two Poly defenders, met the ball perfectly. Sheridan calmly kicked the extra point and Lowell was winner and the new A.A.A. champion!

Special Praise Department—Pat Simmons for far outclassing all other linemen; Billy Sheridan and Frank Wigmore for being real heroes; Howie Hill for standing up bravely under terrific pounding; Blaine Gardner for his superior punting.

Irwin, Simmons, and Glafkides move in on the kill during the Washington game.

LIGHTWEIGHT FOOTBALL

Lowell has many activities—one is Goof football. For years our lightweight teams have been ignored by the majority of the student body, but not in 1941.

Tough breaks and technicalities were responsible for the scoreless deadlock between our team and the Bucs from Balboa. An exciting moment occurred in the second quarter when King passed to Moore, who then lateraled to Vayssie, who reached pay dirt. The play was nullified because the supposed lateral was, in reality, a forward pass.

In the game with St. Ignatius the Lowell eleven had two outstanding thrills. The first was Lowell's recovery of a fumble on the Wildcats' ten-yard line, from which Bandarrae went over on a reverse. The second was King's pass to Moore for a touchdown. The score was 12 to 12 with only 40 seconds to go. S. I. had possession of the ball in Lowell territory. They tossed a pass which was completed and the final score was 12 to 19 in the Wildcats' favor.

The Goofs went to the Beach Chalet to meet the Lincoln Mustangs in a round-up. This game was Lowell's first taste of victory, but Lincoln gave the Goofs plenty to worry about. In the first quarter the Mustangs drove 55 yards to the Card three.

Lowell then tightened, yielded two yards on four plays, and stopped the Mustangs' charge. Quandt snatched a Lincoln pass on their forty and reached the thirty before being grounded. Moore, on an end run, scampered 27 yards. The touchdown play was a run around right end by King. The score at the gun was 6 to 0.

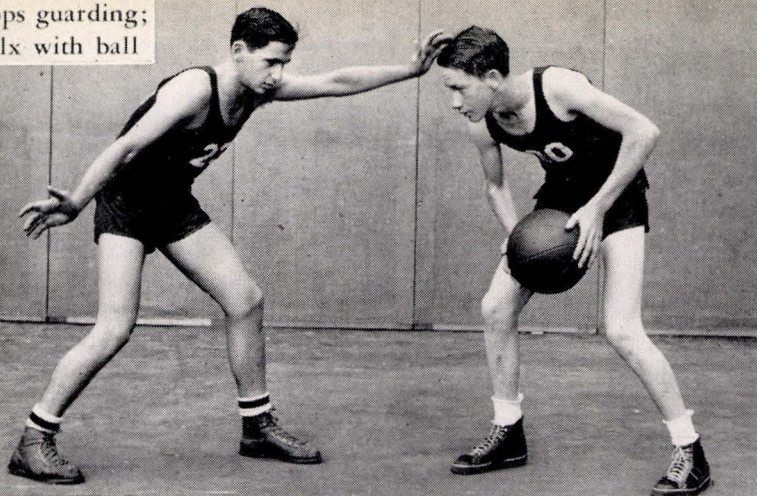

The Goofs scored their second victory when they trounced Sacred Heart, 7 to 0. The game proved to be very even, with occasional wide-open attacks by both participants.

Commerce and Galileo both handed the Goofs the short end of the scores, 6 to 0 and 20 to 7.

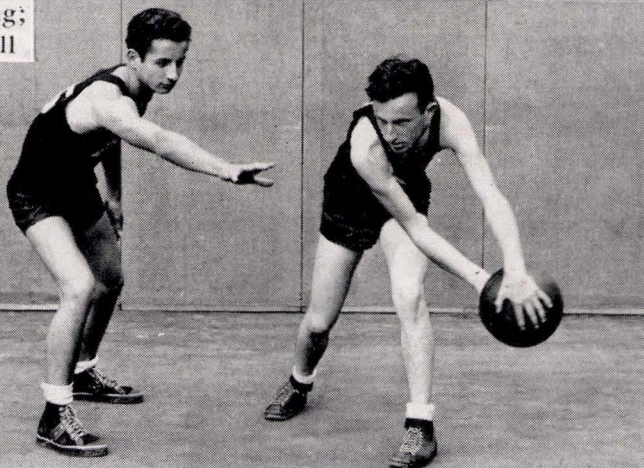

The Poly-Lowell game was the Goofs' last and most exciting. It was in the fourth quarter that the Indian axe took its chunk out of the Poly Parrot. A pass from Moore on Poly's thirty-five to Conn gained twenty yards. On the next play Moore ran wide around the end and fought his way to the three-yard line. No gain was made in three plays. Moore dived over center for six points. With two minutes to go, Poly threw a pass which Quandt intercepted on the fifty and ran to another score. Defeating Poly 12 to 0 seemed to indicate a bright varsity future for Coach Lighty's Goofs of '41.

120'S BASKETBALL

Meet the Champs—champs of the city's 120-pound basketball league—Lowell's Indians. Opening their season inauspiciously by being defeated by the Wildcats, our basketeers recovered and smashed all other opponents. The fighting first string was Proulx and Hidekawa, forwards; Kolsch, center; and Fukui and Takakuwa, guards.

The practice season ended with Lowell's "Little Cards" victorious over South San Francisco, Sequoia, Palo Alto, but defeated by St. James, 26 to 24.

In the first league game the "Little Indians" lost to the St. Ignatius Wildcats, 13 to 12. "Doctor" Neff came forward with a remedy and the "Big-Little Papposes" tamed the Lioncubs and Mustangs, 30 to 18 and 31 to 15, respectively. This was the fourth straight year that both squads have beaten the Galileo Lions.

Next victim of the Cards was the Buccaneers who, though they fought hard, lost, 24 to 19. The Sacred Heart shamrock wilted when the "Neffmen" won, 53 to 19. In the following two games against Commerce Bullpups and the Mission Bears the "Big-Little Cards" were victorious, 27 to 17, and 28 to 22. The Poly Parrot squawked, fought, and lost by one point, 22 to 21. The Indians then defeated the Eagles and ended their season with an 18 to 11 victory.

In only one A.A.A. game did our 20's meet defeat. Result: they share the championship with Mission.

110'S BASKETBALL

November 12. Lowell's 110 pound basketball team is dressing for the Washington game. This is the last game of the season. The 110's have won every game up to now; four straight victories in their pre-season games against South San Francisco, Sequoia, Palo Alto, and St. James.

The first A.A.A. game ended with the "Little Cards" defeating St. Ignatius 30 to 16. After once loosening their tomahawks the "Little Indians" continued on the war path, defeating the newly formed Lincoln Mustangs, 27 to 11, and making the Balboa Buccaneers walk the plank, 28 to 11.

The Irish were the next to suffer the fury of the Papooses when they were handed a 34 to 12 defeat. The "Neffmen" muzzled the Bullpups, 29 to 6. In the eleventh and twelfth games the Cards defeated the Mission Bears and the Poly Parrots, 21 to 15 and 19 to 13.

November 12 and a game to go! A victory in this one would mean the championship. The stage was set; the teams, the Papooses and the Eagles, were on the court. Both played hard, and the score was held low. When the game had ended, Lowell's Papooses had lost to the Eagle lightweights 12 to 10.

In the 10's first line of battle were Fanfelle and Fujita, at forwards; Wong, at center; Hartman and W. Epstein, guards.

Once upon a time, in the late months of 1941, a certain San Francisco school, namely, Lowell, was soccer conscious. That was a long time ago, before blackouts.

As far as we can remember, the "Indians," for that was their nickname, were not excellent, but pretty fair at this game. A league was in process, and they entered upon a seven-game schedule.

They lost a close tilt to Mission High, 1 to 0, and another to Washington. But they won an impressive game from Balboa, 4 to 0. The rest were ties.

Not a championship team, but composed of Stan Charles as an outstanding goalie, George Paulo as center-half, Phil Arnot and John Hardgraves at forward, and Ernie Nackord and Nelson at halves, the team was colorful. And thanks to the training and coaching of Mr. Elmer Harris, not a single member was injured.

FALL TRACK

Over 100 hopeful young speed merchants turned out for this fall sport. Under the admonition of their grey-tinged, knowing-eyed tutor, Coach Elmer Harris, they "jogged it" up to the U.S.F. field to embark on daily athletic programs. The men formed "Six-Day Race Teams," divided into three divisions, A, B, and C. In Class A, Evans, Chalios, and O'Donnell took first place; in Class B, Sturtevant, Noguchi, and Cowell carried away all the honors, and in Class C, Schoonmaker, Broadhead, and Hawley departed with what was left.

The unlimited division was won by Sheppard and Arnot. The 130 lbs. was won in the fifth periods by Sweeney, and in the fourth periods by Waugh. Best 100-yard man was Jack Bresler, who did this strip in 10.4, and the half-mile was won by Mel Evans; time, 2:14. In the low hurdles and 440, Jim Sheppard, one of Lowell's best track men, was the victor. O'Donnell won the mile, while Rogers proved to be Lowell's best high jumper. Rankin, one of the best broad jumpers in the city, took the broad jump title with 21 ft. 7 in.

SPORTS ADMINISTRATION

What could teams do without managers? They are Lowell's unsung heroes, whether they manage football or chess. They are the inspiration to the teams, the custodians of equipment, the assistant coaches. Managers are important factors in victory or defeat, as their responsibility is a vital one. Each manager is carefully selected to handle such tasks. The head manager this term is Ken Berven. The other managers are: for football, Frank and O'Connell; goof football, Daley and Padway; basketball, Berven, Cohen, Monahan, Tanabe, Clifford and Colin Tooley; fall track, Sweeney; crew, Peterson and Marshall; tennis, Chichester; soccer, Grant. Coaches for this term were: football, Mr. M. Voyne, assisted by Mr. W. Feiling; basketball, Mr. B. Neff; track and soccer, Mr. E. Harris; goof football, tennis and crew, Mr. S. Lighty. Girls, too, have been kept busy this term with sports under the direction of Miss R. Adams, with hockey, swimming and tennis; Miss J. Wilson, riding; Mrs. L. B. Smith, ice skating; Miss L. Boehm, dancing; Miss D. Flynn, golf, volleyball, and bowling; and Miss B. Mensing, bicycling.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Meeting successfully the challenge presented by the lack of facilities for girls' sports, physical education instructors this term accommodated 730 girls with a sports roster of eleven different activities.

Handling the largest G.A.A. turnout of any school in the city, Lowell's instructing staff untiringly and generously devoted their time before and after school to lead the girls in the program offered.

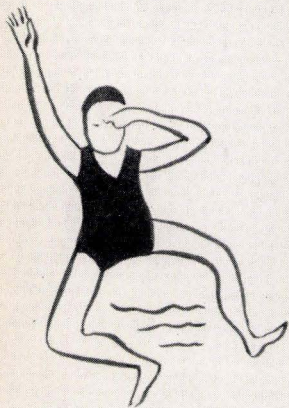

Bowling, presented for the first time in any American high school, was led by Margaret Lebach and filled to capacity. Another popular new sport was bicycling under the student management of Ursula Wolff. The second term of dancing was successfully managed by Virginia Head.

Lowell traditions are the eight remaining sports which have been played here term after term. They are: riding, Betty Robanser; ice skating, Elinor Mensch; hockey, Wanda McKenzie; badminton, Garet Markarian; tennis, Shirley Friederichs; golf, Inga Milling; swimming, Jean Hodgkinson; volleyball, Marjorie Erickson.

The enthusiasm of the girls, along with the experienced leadership of faculty advisors Miss Wilson, Miss Flynn, Miss Adams, Mrs. Smith, and Miss Boehm, made the term one of Lowell's best.

*Dear Cliff—
Well, first of all I want to congratulate you on your wins, and specific I want to wish you future success—
Ernie*

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

In attaining the goal of publication of this, the Fall 1941, Red and White, I pause to think back on months of hard but interesting work; and cannot help but recall the many pleasant associations with the people who have aided us immeasurably in this task. Without their sympathetic assistance, the job could never have been done. I can scarcely express my sincere thanks and deep appreciation . . .

To the Literary, Art, and Financial Staffs who patiently performed the routine tasks.

To Mr. Albert McKeever, Mr. James Patterson, Miss F. L. Herrmann and Mr. O. H. McCord for their patient and understanding advice and cooperation.

To Mr. Stephens, Miss Lacoste, and Mr. Monroe, whose interest and advice prepared us for our work.

To Mr. Kenneth Elder and Mr. Raymond Peterson of the Walter J. Mann Co., photo-engravers, for their fine reproduction of our photographs.

To Mr. Howard Watson and Mr. John Tappendorff of the Lexicon Press for their interest in our work and fine job of printing.

To Mr. and Mrs. John Doherty of the Fisher Studios for maintaining their fine standard in portrait photography.

To Miss Harrison for her generous use of the office files.

To the San Francisco Chronicle, San Francisco Examiner, and the San Francisco Call-Bulletin for their kind-hearted cooperation in the lending of certain football pictures.
