Arcata, Humboldt Co, P O 8 miles n of Eureka by water and 14 by land, is pleasantly situated at the northern extremity of Humboldt Bay, with surroundings most romantic and lovely, and abounding in wealth. The soil is very fertile, and the neighboring forests are grand in the extreme. The California laurel, one of the most beautiful of cabinet woods, grows quite plentifully, and from the immense forests of redwood a vast quantity of lumber is made. Two small steamers make semi-daily trips to Eureka, and sea-going vessels sail direct to outside ports. Some marsh land is in the neighborhood, which, when reclaimed, is found very productive. The principal exports are potatoes, dairy products, wool, tanbark, laurel and redwood lumber.

Arroya Grande, San Luis Obispo Co, P O 13 miles s e of San Luis Obispo, is a pleasant valley, and promises to become a place of considerable importance. Near the town are the White Sulphur Springs, where accommodations have recently been constructed for parties resorting hither for health or pleasure. The water of the springs has a temperature of 115 degrees, and contains sulphur, iron, magnesia, etc., giving it rare medicinal qualities. Wild game, romantic scenery, and a pleasant climate are among the attractions to this healthful resort. The nearest landing to Arroya Grande is the People's Landing, near Point Sal, 9 miles distant.

Auburn, Placer County, P O and County seat, 35 miles n e of Sacramento. The Central Pacific Railroad passes near the village, and stages connect it with the surrounding towns. Rich placer mines were discovered here in 1849, and from that date the place grew to be one of the chief mining centers of the State. It is well built of brick and stone, and the public buildings, churches, schools and neat private residences embowered in the shade of luxuriant fruit trees, constitute an adornment of which any town would be proud. The construction of the railroad turned travel and trade in other directions, which were formerly contributory to its prosperity, and less business is transacted than formerly. Several rich quartz mines exist in the vicinity, but horticulture is destined to be the most important interest. Fruits of all kinds, of which grapes are the principal, are grown extensively and with great success, and many thousands of gallons of wine and brandy of superior quality are annually manufactured. The Herald and Argus newspapers are published weekly, the former Democratic and the latter Republican, and rival each other in giving information of their section.
