

San Miguel, San Luis Obispo Co, P O address, San Marcos, 33 miles n of San Luis Obispo
Donnelly & Jeffrey, hotel
Duncan N P, physician
McDonald Brothers, hotel
Sittenfeld & Co, general merchandise, land agents
Wells, Fargo & Co

San Pablo, Contra Costa Co, P O 18 miles s w of Martinez, is a pleasantly located village, near the bay of the same name, and is 12 miles north of Oakland, with which place it is connected by stage, making semi-daily trips.

Andrada J, restaurant
Antony A, liquor saloon
Bammondes M, livery stable
Boquet & Wilcox, blacksmiths, and wheelwrights
Chavichich Charles, liquor saloon
Cruz Henry, warehouse, and freighting
Cunha & Pacheco, liquor saloon
Doran P, hotel
Dunbar J K, physician
Dyer A F, blacksmith, and wheelwright
Fannon E, butcher
Gauli J, liquor saloon
Gualco M Rev, clergyman (R C)
Hahn H Mrs, hotel
Lobe L & Co, general merchandise
Marich E groceries
May William B, attorney at law
Berdee T, shoe maker
Romer & Co, butchers
Silva Joaquin, groceries
Sweet A W, attorney at law
Valencia M, shoe maker
Ware John, painter
Wright T J, postmaster, agent Whitney & Co's Express, attorney at law, notary public, and general merchandise
Young E Mrs, liquor saloon

San Pasqual, San Diego Co, P O 30 miles north of San Diego, is situated in a beautiful valley, containing a large amount of land, which only wants to be settled by white men to become a paradise. It is adapted to growing all kinds of grain, but is still better for growing all kinds of fruits and nuts. It is occupied now mostly by Mexicans and Indians, who could be bought out very cheap. The climate cannot be excelled in any part of the world.

Barker B E, liquor saloon
Eckles E, carpenter
Gilbert Harlow, postmaster and apiarian
Manasse Moses, general merchandise
Ober William, blacksmith
Washburn Calvin, general merchandise
Wolfskill John, stock raiser

San Pedro, Los Angeles Co, P O address, Wilmington, 25 miles s of Los Angeles
Ryan James E, hotel
Timms Augustus W, general merchandise

San Quentin, Marin Co, P O 3½ miles s e of San Rafael, and 12 miles north of San Francisco, is the seat of the State Prison of California. A point of land here projects into the Bay of San Francisco, affording a good natural landing place. The locality is connected with the city by steam ferry, making three trips daily. The prison buildings, located about half a mile from the landing, on a slight elevation, constitute a conspicuous object to the traveler, in passing up or down the Bay, and when their purpose is known create a sombre effect upon the mind, in deep contrast to the admired scene of water and land, with the majestic and symmetrical Mount Tamalpais rising in the background. There are at present 972 prisoners confined within the walls, laboring at various occupations, the principal being the manufacture of harness and saddles, boots and shoes, and furniture, being let at a per diem to contractors, who have places of business in San Francisco. Shops and steam power, and all facilities are provided by the State, but the implements of work are supplied by the contractors.

Baldwin A W, boot and shoe manufacturer
FARRELL JOHN D, agent steamer Contra Costa, and proprietor Point House
Harron W M, agent Wells, Fargo & Co
King John, engineer
McKae John G, hotel
Schumann Joseph, feed stable
Soule E, wagon maker
Tinkham C P, postmaster

San Rafael, Marin Co, P O and county seat, occupies a beautiful site on the eastern slope of the hills bordering the Bay of San Francisco, three miles from the steamboat landing at Point San Quentin, with which it is connected by railroad. The North Pacific Coast Railroad (narrow-gauge) runs near the town en route from Tomales, on the ocean coast, to Sausalito, where it connects with ferry to San Francisco, 16 miles distant. Thus two convenient routes are opened to the city, giving quick passage to the many business men who have selected this quiet and pleasant place as a residence. The high hills intervening between the village and the ocean protect it from fierce western winds, giving it a climate singularly mild and salubrious. The beautiful peak of Mt. Tamalpais rises a little southwest of the town to a height of 2,597 feet, and is a marked feature of the scenery about the Bay of San Francisco. The romantic scenery, the lovely climate, easy access, and healthfulness of the locality, have been such attractions as to draw higher people of wealth as residents and visitors, and the elegant private dwellings and excellent hotels are evidences of their appreciation. A magnificent Court House is the pride of the citizens. The Mission of San Raphael was established by the Jesuits in 1817, they always selecting the loveliest locations, and they now maintain an Orphan Asylum and school that have high reputations. Three church buildings adorn the village, the Catholic, Methodist, and Episcopalian, and the Presbyterians are constructing one. Water is supplied by the Marin County Water Co. from springs on Mt. Tamalpais. Two newspapers, the Journal and the Herald, are published weekly.

Ahanna Francis, groceries and liquors, cor A and Third
Anderson & Dubois, butchers, and grocers, cor Third and B

Angelotti G, proprietor Marin Hotel, Fourth
Ashton John, principal, Tamalpais Academy, C
AUSTIN HERAM, civil engineer and surveyor, cor C and Fifth

Barlow & Smith, painters, and agents Pacific Rubber Paint Co, Fourth

Barnard W L B, San Rafael and San Francisco Express, Fourth

Barney Charles S, notary public, and insurance agent, Fourth

Barney Jerome A, insurance agent, cor B and Second

BARSTOW S F, proprietor Marin County Journal, Fourth

Bermingham Peter Rev, clergyman (R C)

Bidwell H E, newspapers and periodicals, Fourth

Bigelow J E, watch maker and jeweler, Fourth

Blenkenberger A, shoe maker, Fourth

Boukofsky M, general merchandise, Fourth

Boyer & Goirl, brewery, Greenwood ave

Burton — Rev, clergyman (Meth)

Claudio Peter, restaurant, Fourth

Coleman William T, real estate, B

Connell John, blacksmith, Second

Constant John, tailor, Fourth

Coraizer Edward, watch maker, and jeweler, Fourth

Cross William, restaurant, Fourth

DAMPIER WILLIAM, county treasurer

Day Timothy, liquor saloon, Fourth

DIRKS H J, San Rafael Brewery depot, cor First and B, and proprietor Columbia House, Second

Duncan & Bro, butchers, cor Fourth and C

Duparque L, tailor, Fourth

Eden Edward, undertaker, C

Fagan James, shoe maker, Fourth

Fox P, proprietor Bay View House, cor Third and C

Fuller J B, agent Wells, Fargo & Co, and insurance agent, Fourth

Gardner Edwin, butcher, grocer, and ice dealer, cor Fourth and D

Giesko J C, groceries and liquors, cor B and Second

Gilbert H, proprietor Gilbert House, cor Fourth and E

GILLIGAN M, livery and feed stables, cor Fourth and B

GORDON U M & CO, bankers, Fourth

Grindley G R, physician, Fourth

Grosjean C, groceries and liquors, Fourth

Hall F M Miss, teacher

Hanson Thomas H, attorney at law, Fourth

Harding & Nelson, blacksmiths, and wagon makers, Third

ETNA INSURANCE COMPANY, of Hartford, has been identified with every large fire in the country.