Sutter County. Organized in 1850.

Bounded north by Butte and Yuba; east by Yuba and Placer; south by Sacramento and Yolo; and west by Yolo and Colusa. Area, 576 square miles. Assessed valuation of property for 1874, $4,654,208. County seat, Yuba City. Principal towns: Nicolaus and Vernon. The resources are exclusively agricultural, the county occupying a fertile section in the center of the Sacramento Valley, lying on both sides of Feather River, and the Sacramento its western border, both navigable streams. It was first settled by General John A. Sutter, who for a number of years made his home at Hock Farm, on the banks of Feather River. A large area of the western part of the county is subject to annual overflow, and is covered in summer with a rank growth of tules, evidences of great fertility, but requiring reclamation before susceptible of cultivation. In the northern part are "The Buttes," a collection of rugged mountain peaks rising abruptly from the plain to an altitude of 1,100 feet, and covering an area twelve miles in length, north and south, by four in breadth. Several pleasant and fertile little valleys are found among them, and fruitful and prosperous farms about their base. The California Pacific Railroad was constructed through the county, crossing the Sacramento at Knight's Landing, and over the tule lands by some four miles of piling, and terminating at Marysville in Yuba county, but a section of the tule portion of the road having been washed away, it is at present inoperative. The Feather and Sacramento being navigable streams, afford means of cheap and ready transportation for all the county products.

Officers: Jesse H. Craddock, County Judge; Caleb E. Wilcox, Clerk, Recorder, and Auditor; John H. Ray, District Attorney; William P. Harkey, Sheriff and Tax Collector; Jonas Marcuse, Treasurer; A. E. Clary, Assessor; Phil. E. Drescher, Surveyor; W. C. Smith, Coroner, and Public Administrator; M. C. Clark, Superintendent Public Schools.

Sutter Creek, Amador Co, P O 4 miles northwest of Jackson, on the stage route from Galt to the Central Pacific Railroad, 31 miles distant, and from Latrobe, on the Sacramento Valley Railroad, 18 miles distant. This is now a large and prosperous village, ranking next to Grass Valley, in Nevada County, as a quartz mining locality. Here is the well known Amador, or Hayward mine, one of the oldest, deepest, and most productive of the quartz mines of California. The workings are now carried on to a depth of over 1,300 feet from the surface, and as the altitude of the place is less than 1,000 feet, the explorations are made several hundred feet below the level of the sea. The product of the Amador is from $650,000 to $700,000 annually, and its deep workings and large returns are very encouraging to the mining interest. Several other mines and numerous quartz mills are in operation, giving life and business to the place. The locality was formerly a rich placer mining district, and was one of the earliest settled in the State. But the placers did not build up much of a town, and it was only on the development of more permanent interests that Sutter Creek became prosperous and important. The gently rolling hills surrounding the place produce vines, fruits, and flowers in profusion where irrigation is practicable, adding wealth and adorning the homes of the citizens. One newspaper, The Foothills Ensign, is published weekly.
