East Portland, Multnomah Co, P O and incorporated town, is picturesquely located on the right bank of the Willamette River, opposite the city of Portland, by which it is connected by two ferries, making frequent trips. This is the northern terminus of the Oregon and California Railroad, and has extensive machine shops and warehouses connected with that thoroughfare. The town is extensively laid out, covering some four or five square miles, and is sought as the pleasant suburban residence by many whose places of business are in the greater city on the west side of the river. The population numbers some 1,500, maintaining three public and one private school, four churches, and lodges of the various societies. Several manufacturing factories are established, as saw and flour mills, car and machine shops, and foundry, and as taxes are light, the location pleasant, and facilities for business good, it is a prosperous and growing town. One newspaper, the News, is published weekly.

Ellensburg, Curry Co P O and County seat, is on the southern bank of Rogue River, near the ocean. This is near the southwestern extreme of the State—and high mountains render intercommunication difficult. Gold mines exist in the vicinity, both upon the ocean beach and in the interior; the grazing is good; the surrounding forests grand; but little progress has been made in their development. The catching and curing of salmon has constituted an important branch of industry during the past few years, and the resource seems exhaustless.

Empire City, Coos Co, P O and County seat, is situated on Coos Bay, five miles from the ocean, and two hundred and fifty miles south-southwest of Salem. There is a fine harbor for vessels of light draft, and it is an important depot and shipping point of lumber manufactured in the vicinity. Coal is found in the neighborhood, and is extensively mined and shipped to San Francisco and other markets. Gold and iron are also found in the vicinity, while the surface of the country is covered with most valuable forest trees, and the sea and bay swarm with fish altogether indicating a native wealth almost unprecedented. The harbor carries a depth of 14 feet of water over the bar, at low tide. Several sailing vessels and steamers have been built here, the cost being but from $60 to $75 per ton, and all rate high. Every facility is offered for ship-building, and mines and forest furnish the material. The town is prosperous and growing rapidly,
