

East Phoenix, Maricopa Co, P O 3 miles
e of Phoenix

Hellings Edward E, postmaster
Hellings W B & Co, flour manufacturers
Hellings William B, blacksmith

Ehrenburg, Yuma Co, P O 175 miles n of Yuma, on the east bank of the Colorado River, 350 miles from its mouth. The town is at the crossing of the river on the road from Los Angeles, also at a good steamboat landing, giving it some advantages in trade, and as a storing place of goods destined for the interior. The surrounding country is desolate and uninviting, and in the summer the heat is extreme. Mineral City and Olive City are names of adjoining localities, but are "cities" without inhabitants.

Barney James M & Co, general merchandise
Castanida J M, general merchandise
Fisher P M, postmaster
Goldwater J & Bro, general merchandise, forwarding, and commission
Goodman T J, hotel
Graf Leopold, blacksmith, and wagon maker
Metz Gallus, carriage maker, and trimmer
Meyers J H, liquor saloon
Moreno Guillermo, butcher
Noli Juan, baker
Salcido Pedro, liquor saloon
Starke F J, stage agent
Tuttle J B, general merchandise

Florence, Pima Co, P O 80 miles n w of Tucson, is on the Gila River, well situated for trade, and is one of the principal towns in the Territory. Here is a U. S. Land Office, a fine public school and other institutions of civilization and progress.

Brody P R, flour manufacturer
Collingwood Joseph, postmaster, and stage agent
De Prey Louis, liquor saloon
Devine John, liquor saloon
Elliott William, hotel
Fish E N & Co, general merchandise
Griffin Frank M, blacksmith

Fort Mohave, 40 miles east of Cerbat, is on the east bank of the Colorado, about 500 miles from its mouth, and opposite the boundary line separating the States of California and Nevada. The Fort was established several years previous to the organization of the Territory, and was a post of much importance. The Mohave City, ten or twelve miles above, is abandoned. The recent mineral discoveries in the Cerbat Mountains, some 30 miles east, have given the section renewed importance. Here, also, is a fine connecting with the road via the Mohave River, in California, with Los Angeles and the sea coast at Wilmington, some 300 miles distant.

Fort Whipple, Yavapai Co, P O address,
Prescott, 1 mile n of Prescott
Bowers & Richards, general merchandise

Gila Bend, Pima Co
Decker Albert, postmaster

Goodwin, Pima Co, P O
McWilliams Thomas, postmaster

Hardyville, Mohave Co, P O 34 miles w of Cerbati

Hardy W M, postmaster, general merchandise, and forwarding agent
Randall & Davis, general merchandise

Hayden's Ferry, Maricopa Co, P O 10 miles s e of Phoenix
Clark Henry W, postmaster
Hayden Charles T, general merchandise, and flour manufacturer
Hughes George W, liquor saloon

Kirkland Valley, Yavapai Co, P O 40 miles w of Prescott
Beach Charles W, postmaster

La Paz, Yuma Co, P O 103 miles n of Yuma, is on the mail route from San Bernardino, California, to Prescott; also on route from Yuma to Fort Mohave. It was formerly the county seat and a place of considerable trade. At present it is of little importance, the business having been removed to the town of Ehrenburg, about seven miles south. Shear Benjamin H, postmaster, and post trader

Maricopa County. Organized in 1871.

Bounded north by Yavapai, east by the Territory of New Mexico, south by Pima, and west by Yuma. Area, 15,000 square miles. County seat, Phoenix. Salt River, or Rio Salado, runs southerly through the center of the county, its valley being one of the largest and most fertile in the Territory. The Salado enters the Gila and is a rapid and beautiful stream, affording irrigation for an extensive tract of land, and giving, at Mill City, power for the largest flouring mill in Arizona. In this fine valley are the principal settlements of the county, the inhabitants claiming that it is a veritable paradise, the climate being always pleasant, unusual health prevailing, and the soil producing prolific crops of cereals, vegetables, grasses and fruits of every variety. In 1874 between eight and ten million bushels of wheat were grown, and large quantities of grapes, peaches, strawberries, sweet potatoes, melons, etc. Cotton is cultivated and grows well. Up to the present agriculture is the chief interest, but mines have been discovered, and gold, silver and copper will undoubtedly be added to the products of the county.

Officers: J. T. Alsap, Probate Judge, and Superintendent Public Schools; C. F. Cate, Clerk; W. A. Hancock, District Attorney and Surveyor; George E. Mowry, Sheriff, Tax Collector and Assessor; J. A. Parker, Recorder; J. W. Owens, Treasurer; N. Sharp, Coroner and Public Administrator.

Maricopa Wells, Pima Co, P O 100 miles
n w of Tucson

Colton Ford, wheelwright
Moore M J Mrs, postmistress
Moore & Carr, general merchandise, and agents
Salt River Flour Mill
Trout Michael, blacksmith

Maryville, Maricopa Co, 22 miles w of Phoenix

Whitelow Charles, hotel
Wilson T J, general merchandise

McDowell, Maricopa Co, P O 30 miles n e of Phoenix

Shaw Frank A, postmaster
Smith John, general merchandise

Mineral Park, Mohave Co, P O 5 miles n w of Cerbat

Baker A G, blacksmith
Breon & Spear, general merchandise
Carver W D, physician
Davis A E, attorney at law
Davis & Randall, general merchandise
Doling John, liquor saloon
Funk John, butcher
Hanning W F, attorney at law
Kridner W M, livery and feed stable
Leonard John W, attorney at law
Lesosne Joseph, physician
Randall Alder, postmaster
Romero —, hotel
Sanders J A, carpenter and builder
Upton R H, carpenter and builder
White & Hayes, liquor saloon

Mohave City, Mohave Co, P O 27 miles e of Cerbat, is on the east bank of the Colorado River, 515 miles from its mouth. This was once the county seat, but now possesses little importance.

Atchinson Charles, liquor saloon
Breon Paul, postmaster
Breon & Spear, general merchandise

Mohave County. Organized in 1864.

Bounded north by the State of Nevada and Territory of Utah; east by Yavapai; south by Yuma; and west by California and Nevada. Area, 10,320 square miles. County seat, Cerbat. Principal towns: Aubrey City, Beale Springs, Camp Alexander, Chloride, Fort Mohave, Mineral Park, McCracken, and Stockton. The county borders on the Colorado River, which separates it from California and Nevada, and which is navigable for light draft steamers for 170 miles along the county line. The river crosses the county in the northern part, but in a deep cañon, forbidding approach to the water. A few localities of small area along the river are susceptible of cultivation, and some elevated valleys