MISS ALICE G. FRIEDLANDER,
EDITRESS.

A Monthly Journal devoted to the Interests of Education.

PRICE, ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

THE literary features for 1894-5 will be stronger than ever before, several writers of distinction on the subject of education having been secured to contribute articles. It will be the aim of the Editress to present a bright, crisp and newsy publication, and furnish all such items of gossip as pertain to schools and colleges and their progress. The form of THE STUDENT will be changed, and it will have a cover new in design, striking and original, and be printed on paper specially manufactured for it. Typographically it will be as perfect as possible, and be handsomely illustrated. With the assurance of assistance from those most interested, and a purpose and determination on the part of the Editress to achieve success, THE STUDENT will contain reliable information on all topics pertaining to matters of education. Advertisements will have a wide and high-class circulation, and the proprietor will be glad to publish in THE STUDENT as many as its limited space will permit. Its advantages as an advertising medium are self evident. For space, cuts, special pictorial designs, etc., estimates will be cheerfully furnished on application. All interested in matters of education are solicited to become subscribers of the publication. To the ends above expressed the publisher will devote her most earnest endeavors in the hope of meeting the public's kind approval, and it will be her greatest satisfaction to know that THE STUDENT has won its way into the hearts and homes of the refined and cultured people of San Francisco.
