ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA

ONLY GENUINE AMERICAN REPRINT

Two Dollars and a Half ($2.50) per Volume in Cloth Binding

Three Dollars and a Half ($3.50) per Volume in Half Morocco Gilt

Twenty-five Volumes in Complete Set

REASONS WHY WE DEFY COMPETITION

1. The American Reprint of the Encyclopædia Britannica, Ninth Edition, is the ONLY REPRINT faithfully and completely reproducing the original British work.

2. It is the ONLY REPRINT that is clearly printed on fine paper with electrotype plates made from large, clear type, and not from reduced photographic plates on cheap paper, with blurred, uneven impressions, as are all other Reprints of the Encyclopædia Britannica.

3. It is the ONLY REPRINT acknowledged by the agents of the English publishers to be accurate and "licensed."

4. It contains more, larger and finer maps than any other Edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica.

5. It is the ONLY EDITION that has been revised by a staff of American scholars to point out discrepancies and errors in the original text; the only Edition that has notes and supplemental pages on American subjects; the only Edition that, by means of foot notes, keeps the text completed to date of present publication; and the only Edition that supplies a copious and efficient index to the whole work.

6. Our additions and improvements are copyrighted and cannot be reproduced in the United States without our consent.

7. We have spent thousands of dollars on the purely literary work of revising our Edition, of adding new articles and new maps, of annotating and of supplying references to it, and we are now offering to the public a larger bulk of matter and a finer quality of scholarship for less money than the publishers of any other Encyclopædia whatever.

Therefore those who wish an accurate reproduction of the Encyclopædia Britannica with large additions and the fullest reference apparatus at the lowest cost, should give their orders to our agents, for they alone can furnish our superior Edition.
