W, MONTAGUE

Shirley John T., teamster Sims Charles F., laborer Sims George, farmer Sims J. M., farmer Sims John H., teamster Sims Wilbur, farmer Sims William, farmer,

acres
Slade V., farmer, 622 acres
Slater Francis M., farmer
Snodgrass Jackson, farmer
South James B., laborer
Spurgeon Lucinda B., farmer
Stephens B. W., farmer, 1173
acres

Steward Jonah P., carpenter Steward Joshua, farmer Stice Henry P., liveryman Stice & Melvin, livery stable, Main

Main Sweeny John, farmer, 8 acres Tallman William W., farmer Thompson George (Thompson &

Fenley Thompson & Fenley (George Thompson and T. H. Fenley)

groceries, Main
Trumbull James P., farmer
Ward Franklin P., carpenter
Warder Shadrick M., farmer
Wanshop Edwin, laborer
Wanshop Edwin, laborer
Wuigus John H., carpenter
Willis Osear H., teacher
Willis Thomas W., tinner
Wilson James, farmer, 38 acres
Wilson James, farmer, 38 acres
Wilson James, dayborer
Wilson James W., laborer

Wolfe Charles H., carpenter

Womack William P., constable Woods James, minister, 6 acres Wurth John, farmer, 252 acres

Zortman Daniel W., farmer

Woodland.

THIS town, the county seat, is pleasantly situated a little southeast of the center of the county, eighteen miles from Sacramento, and eighty-two miles from San Francisco. Besides being the capital, it is also the commercial metropolis of the county, possessing as it does fine public buildings, a magnificent public square and many solid business blocks. Among its business interests may be noted flouring mills-possessing an aggregate capacity of 100 barrels of flour per day-two banks, seven hotels, three restaurants, five livery stables, six dry goods and furnishing goods stores, two furniture stores, two lumber yards, three plaining mills, and numerous other business establishments in proportion. In its educational interests. the city possesses, besides its finely organized public school system, an excellent iustitution for advanced education in the "Hesperian College," erected in 1861. As an additional evidence of the progressive character of the city and county, the fact that here are to be found two well supported daily journals, is deemed sufficient. These papers the Yolo Mail and the Democrat are both sparkling and energetic sheets and enjoy a good circulation.

The Woodland Opera House is one of the largest and most commodius these ters in the State. Seats 1000. Erected at a cost of $25,000. It possesses all of the appurtenances of a first-class establishment. As Woodland is considered a favorable theatrical show town, there is no doubt that this will prove a profitable investment. H. S. Beals, of Sacramento, is the lessee.

The price of Yolo County property is steadily enhancing but bargains in town and country estate are frequently on the market. Messrs. Bidwell & Wright, the real estate ageuts of Woodlaud will

W. W. MONTAGUE & CO., 1mporters of SHEET 1RON, 309, 311