

CARRIAGE MATERIALS AND MANUFACTORIES.—Probably no city in the United States is as well represented in the class of establishments indicated in the heading of this paragraph as San Francisco. Among the most prominent dealers in carriage materials, we would mention Messrs. H. W. Bragg & Co., at 29 Battery street, and Messrs. Meeker, James & Co., at No. 12 Pine street; and of the most noticeable of those engaged as manufacturers of every description of light and heavy carriages, may be mentioned Messrs. A. Searls & Co., at 417 Market street; Messrs. George P. Kimball & Co., on Market, near Fourth street; Messrs. Black & Miller, 717 Market street: and Messrs. Folsom & Hiller, at 531 California street.

CORDAGE.—The San Francisco Cordage Factory was established in the year 1856, by Messrs. Flint, Peabody & Co., and Messrs. Tubbs & Co., and, as regards the article manufactured, and in competing with Eastern manufacturers, has proved a success. With pleasure we refer to their card on page 86.

DOORS, SASH, AND BLINDS.—Of those who have been identified with the interests of our city in this particular, from an early day, may be mentioned the extensive establishments of Mr. James Brokaw, at corner of Mission and Tremont streets; Mr. Stephen S. Culverwell, at 31 Tremont street; Messrs. George Robinson & Co, at 30 California street; and Messrs. J. McGill & Co., at corner of Market and Beale streets. The work turned out by these establishments is excelled by none of Eastern manufacture.

FIRE WORKS.—The Pyrotecnic establishment of Messrs. Church & Clark was established in 1862, and though started as an experiment, yet has proved a success. We cheerfully refer to their card on page 152.

FURNITURE.—Among those longest and most favorably known as manufacturers and dealers in furniture, we would call attention to the establishments of Mr. J. Peirce, at 415 California street; Messrs. B. P. Moore & Co., corner of Pine and Sansome streets; and Mr. John Wigmore, at 423 California street.

GOLD PENS.—Mr. H. D. Pearce, at 606 Montgomery street, in the manufacture of a superior quality of Gold Pens, has entirely obviated the necessity of importing the article from the
