

The Gents' Furnishing Goods Emporium of Messrs. WILKINS & BRAY, at the corner of Market and Kearney streets, has been established since January, 1862. Their stock of goods consists of every kind, quality, and description of Men's Underwear, including the celebrated Star brand Shirts, which are conceded by all who have worn them to be the best of any made, for either comfort, fit, or durability.

This firm keeps only the very best articles of goods in their line, which, together with their manner of conducting their business wholly on the one price system, accounts for their popularity and extensive trade. From the great variety of their goods in store, we feel confident in assuring all, even the most fastidious, that they can find at this establishment precisely the article wanted, both as regards quality and price. Give them a call, and see if we are not right.

The large and extensive Underclothing Establishment of Messrs. MORISON, HARRIS & Co. has been in successful business operation in the City of New York for the past twelve years, and in this city for nearly one year.

The firm has a manufactory at Norwalk, in the State of Connecticut, where all goods received by the house are manufactured.

One important feature in connection with this house, and which serves as a guide and protection to the public against the slop-made work of irresponsible houses, is their trade mark, which consists of the six point or regal star; and no package is ever allowed to pass from the establishment that does not bear this mark.

The proprietors of this mammoth Star Shirt Emporium have gained a reputation, for manufacturing the finest article of goods in their line, not surpassed by any house in the known world, and can safely challenge a comparison of fabrics with any and all competitors.
