

Man's Journal, Sonntags Gast, Spare Hour, Spectator, Spirit of the Times and Underwriters' Journal, Stock Circular, Stock Report, Transcript of Records, Voice of Israel, Woman's Pacific Coast Journal, World's Crisis, and Wreck Register. The drive to the Cliff House is to the San Franciscan what Central Park is to the New Yorker, and the style of the former is not to be outdone by the latter. The Cliff House road stretches westerly from the city limits, and from a mere trail over shifting sand hills has become the broadest, smoothest and longest track in the State. It is wide enough in places for twenty teams abreast. At the end of this magnificent drive is the Cliff House, so named from its site on the rocky bluff or cliff overlooking the Seal Rocks. Another pleasant resort, but of an entirely different character, is Woodward's Gardens, north side of Howard, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. These are the private property of R. B. Woodward, Esq., by whose ample fortune and refined taste they have been laid out. They were first opened to the public on behalf of the soldiers who lay bleeding in the hospitals during the late rebellion. The Sanitary Fund was low; money must be had; and in the way princely sums were received, who can say how many suffering ones were relieved by the aid of the generous proprietor of the Woodward Gardens. Other resorts are the City Gardens, northeast corner Folsom and Twelfth streets; Hayes' Park, corner Laguna and Hayes; and the Oakland and Alameda Parks, on the east side of the Bay.
