

College of Notre Dame

OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Dolores St., bet. 16th and 17th Streets, San Francisco.

THIS INSTITUTION, incorporated with Collegiate privileges, is under the direction of the Sisters of Notre Dame, a Society of Ladies, who enjoy here, as well as in the Atlantic States and Europe, an unrivalled reputation for the educational advantages afforded by their schools and colleges.

Eligibly situated in the suburbs of the city, and surrounded by spacious grounds which afford ample facilities, both for healthful exercises and amusement, the College has claims which can hardly fail to engage the attention of parents and guardians.

The scholastic year commences about the middle of July, and terminates about the first of June. It is divided into two terms of five months each.

Reports are forwarded monthly to the parents or guardians, indicating the class standing of their daughters or wards.

No exception is made to the admission of pupils on account of their religious tenets, nor is any undue influence exercised over them in this matter. For the sake of good order, however, all are required to attend the public religious exercises, and to observe the rules and regulations adopted for their improvement, and the maintenance of good order.

The correspondence of the pupils is subject to the inspection of the Superioress.

On Sundays, visits from parents, or such friends as they may formally authorize, are received between the hours of 10 and 12 A. M., and 3 and 4 P. M. Should it be found inconvenient to pay this visit at either of the above-mentioned hours on Sunday, a short visit between 3:30 and 4:30 P. M. may be received on Thursday. Parents and friends of the pupils are requested not lightly to infringe upon this rule.

A recess of one day (the second Saturday) in every month is allowed, when those pupils who are known to have received the sanction of their parents or guardians to that effect, may spend the day in the city among their friends; but all must return at the appointed hour in the evening.

No boarders will be received unless well recommended.

The course of instruction embraces two departments, viz: First—Elementary. Second—Collegiate.

The Elementary Department, which comprises six classes, is completed in six years. It consists of two primary, two intermediate and two grammar classes.

The Collegiate Department, which comprises six classes, is completed in six years. Two years are devoted to the preparatory classes, and four years to the four regular college classes.

Those pupils who wish to enter the college classes are required to pass a satisfactory examination in the studies prescribed for the preparatory classes.

Examinations are held semi-annually, reviews every month.

A library of choice standard works is open to the pupils, and every effort is made towards the improvement and elevation of their minds by a well-selected course of reading.
