Tourists visiting this State cannot find a more beautiful and diversified trip. The steamers leave the ferry slip at the foot of Market street for Saucelito, the only seaside Resort where good bathing, boating and fishing can be found. The route from here runs along Richardson's Bay to the base of Mount Tamalpais, one of the features surrounding the Bay of San Francisco. Stopping at the station named after the mountain, the traveler will find teams ready to take him up to the top of this giant, from which a magnificent view of the Farallone Islands and the Pacific Ocean can be had. Three and a half miles from this station are the far-famed Fairfax Picnic Grounds; thence in three quarters of an hour Camp Taylor is reached, where all facilities, including Dancing Hall and Bowling Alley for Camping and Picnic Parties, can be found. From this point to Point Reyes Station, a distance of eight miles, splendid trout streams abound, on whose banks most beautiful spots for private camps can be found. The route then skirts for a distance of sixteen miles the Bay of Tomales, which is covered with all kinds of wild fowl. The hills surrounding this town (Tomales) are one vast potato field, until nearly reaching Valley Ford, which town is situated in the grain district of the county; thence to Freestone, which is the beginning of the great Redwood Forests; thence along to Howard's Station, from which is shipped an immense quantity of bark and wood; thence along Russian River to Duncan's Mills; thence to Ingrams, which is the present terminus of the road, and one of the loveliest spots in the State, the climate being as soft and mild as that of southern France.

The Hotels and cottages are kept by old experienced hotelkeepers, thereby assuring every comfort and attention to the traveler.
