

You can save 50% of the costs of worker's compensation injuries. And cut recovery time in half.

Whether you're employee, employer, or insurance policy provider, there's something you ought to know about industrial back injuries. Chiropractic care is at least as effective as treatment by a medical doctor. What's more — it's often faster — and cheaper.

An average of 53%* cheaper, according to figures from worker's compensation boards in 4 states. And studies in three geographically separate regions show a 49.3% quicker recovery rate for workers under chiropractic care. To employers concerned over time loss of trained personnel, this represents a substantial savings — plus the possibility of lower insurance rates.

And if you're an employee, getting well faster means a shorter period of pain and disability. And a smaller amount of wages lost.

So if you should suffer an on-the-job injury, remember these facts. And see us first. We're the largest chiropractic office in the Bay Area, and we're right here in downtown San Francisco. We'll make sure you get prompt treatment — nothing less than the best in modern chiropractic care to restore you to health as quickly as possible.
