sult while the operator obtains the rate and computes the charges.

Rates and Charges—Rates for long-distance service are based in general upon an initial period of two (2) minutes, although in some cases a one (1) or three (3) minute initial period is used. The full rate for the initial period will be charged for all connections not exceeding the initial period. For overtime beyond the initial period, charge will be made by the minute for each additional minute or fractional part thereof. The long-distance operator will not interrupt conversation to notify subscribers of the expiration of the initial period.

When a particular person is asked for, every reasonable effort will be made to establish the connection with the person desired. If the person desired is not reached, no charge will be made for the service rendered, except for messenger service, should such service be involved.

When no particular person is asked for at the time the call is given to the long-distance operator, charge will be made if connection with the proper telephone is established.

SUPERVISION BY PRIVATE BRANCH EXCHANGE OPERATORS

The long-distance operator is held responsible for the supervision and timing of all messages and for the character of the service furnished.

Supervision of long-distance connections by private branch exchange operators interferes with transmission and therefore attendants should not listen on the line after the connection has been established.
