Volume One

George Washington High School

P R E F A C E

I N THIS—our first journal—we are presenting a “survey” of the student life at George Washington High School during the past three terms. We are showing a new school organized in a brotherly spirit of cooperation, so like that bond between George Washington and his band of men during the Revolutionary War. They strove to found a new nation; we are striving to found a new school.

This pioneer spirit of student and teacher alike has made our first journal possible. Since we had a late start in preparing our book for publication, it has meant hard work and constant endeavor; it has meant doing the greatest possible amount of work in the least possible time.

Without the aid so faithfully extended by the administration, faculty, and student body, our job could not have been accomplished. To Miss Marie Kirwin, our senior adviser, for her patience and untiring efforts in behalf of the December 1937 edition of the Surveyor, we extend our thanks and appreciation. Mere words cannot express the gratitude of the staff for the invaluable work done by Miss Eleanor Parsons in finances and circulation.

The salesmanship and advertising classes, under the direction of Mr. Rufus Balaam, were always to be relied upon to sell pledge cards and solicit for advertisements. Miss Haidee Tobriner is to be thanked for her kind cooperation in regard to the cover design and division pages. To Mrs. L. N. Herrick and Mr. J. H. Ripley, much credit is due for the photography appearing throughout the journal.

Whether the PERSONNEL, ORGANIZATIONS, and ATHLETICS have been pictured to show their true function will be proved in the pages that follow.

Superintendent

Dedication

"Serit arbores quae alteri saeculo prosint"

AN ancient poet in commemorating the nobility of a great man said that he planted trees that succeeding generations would enjoy. With similar thought the first graduates of George Washington High School greet our beloved Superintendent and to him humbly and gratefully dedicate our first journal.

PERSONNEL

George Washington was a surveyor, a man who saw a great future for an embryonic nation. We, too, are surveyors who foresee a great future for our school, now in its embryonic stage.

Here in the shadow of the two mightiest bridges of the world, the city's fathers have built another magnificent structure, a school, not an ordinary school, but an institution of learning destined to turn out Americans with American ideals.

With the most modern equipment, the latest methods of teaching, the Personnel may be likened to a surveyor, who uses as a transit his knowledge, with which he plans and builds from the unbroken ground a solid, substantial citizenry.

Year after year the Surveyor will watch senior classes come and go.

But none can take the place of this—our first graduating class.

C h i e f S u r v e y o r

THIS is the first memory book of George Washington High School. It records the events of our first graduation exercises and of the class that made this historic occasion possible. To be first in anything worth while is worthy of commemoration, but to be a part of the first recorded triumph of an institution like ours is an immortality shared and envied among pioneers.

It is significant that this book is called the SURVEYOR, for the surveyor is the one who marks the boundaries and secures the first vision of the greatness that is ahead. So this book heralds the future of George Washington High School and drives the stakes of unforgettable traditions.

Vice Principals

Sweet and understanding, Miss Eleanor Jackson, dean of girls, lends a sympathetic ear to all those who go to her for consultation.

Her soft, gentle voice has soothed many a troubled young girl, for in her own sincere way, Miss Jackson has helped the girls of George Washington with all their problems and difficulties.

At the opening of the school, Miss Jackson, who was formerly a Latin and English teacher at Galileo High School, first came here in that capacity. When Miss Edith Pence, the first girls' vice principal, was promoted to the position of the director of curriculum at the beginning of this term, Miss Jackson took over her work.

As the vice principal she has been instrumental in the arrangements of programs and was the sponsor of the Girls' Service Society. Another of George Washington's organizations in which Miss Jackson took particular interest was the S.P.Q.R., or Latin Club.

In conjunction with Miss Catherine Newport, Miss Jackson arranged and sponsored the newly inaugurated senior advisory board, captains for which she chose from the Girls' Service Society.

Working toward the goal of having George Washington the highest standing school in the city is the dean of boys, Mr. W. A. Wieland. He would like to see students leave George Washington as well trained American youths.

Mr. Wieland is a strong believer in student self government. He has a plan whereby students will run every activity that pertains to the student body except class room discipline.

Among the many duties of the boys' vice principal is the running of the locker system and helping to find student employment. Mr. Wieland also helped with the programming of students. Tickets other than those sold by the salesmanship classes are handled by Mr. Wieland in conjunction with Mr. Donald Atherton.

Sponsor of the Executive Committee at Mission before coming to Washington, Mr. Wieland formulated the constitution for the United Students of George Washington High School.

Besides teaching social studies, Mr. Wieland was the coach of the soccer team at Mission for eleven years and head of the Sea Scouts for nine years. Mr. Wieland was also the school auditor while at Mission High School.

Since the beginning of the school, Mr. Morton has been very helpful to the boys in discussing graduation requirements, programs, and college entrance. He has also advised the boys in many other problems which have arisen.

Mr. Morton, who is the head of the George Washington language department, came from Lowell High School. While there, he taught Spanish.

One of Mr. Morton's favorite pastimes is driving, driving, and more driving, but he failed to say just where to.

MISS PARSONS

Busy sponsoring the Scholarship Society, working on the journal sales, and playing the part of senior registry teacher, Miss Eleanor Parsons has certainly had her hands full this term.

She has been the faculty adviser for the Honor Society since the first term here at Washington. The organization, however, recently had its name changed to the Scholarship Society.

Miss Parsons has also handled the circulation and finances for the Surveyor, devoting much of her spare time to the job.

With a hobby of gardening, Miss Parsons is a member of the commercial department here and came to Washington from Continuation.

Student Body Leaders

Under the leadership of Richard Mangan, president, the George Washington student body has carried on a number of activities this term.

The interesting rallies, free dances for student body members, and entertainments have also been largely due to the efforts of June Riley, vice president, and Roschelle Paul, secretary.

Martin Haderlein, treasurer, took care of the student body cards, while Custodian Richard Cohn kept all of Washington's trophies well shined. Andrew Lerios, with the assistance of David Hunicke and William Cramer, instilled pep into the student body by the leading of school songs and yells. Alvin LeGallee was athletic manager.

During the reign of Harold Mendelson, last semester's president, and Betty Hill, vice president, such activities as Hello and Camera Day, a May Fete, dances, and shows were held.

Nancy Glazer was in the position of secretary. Richard DeGraf was treasurer and Philip Waxman custodian. Leading the rooting section at the basketball games last term were Robert Kahn, head yell leader, Gordon Mailloux, and Robert Reynolds. Bill Cohn was athletic manager.

The first elected officers were headed by David Cunningham, who has since left school to go to work.

Lois Samuel, vice president, handled the social affairs during the Fall '36 semester. Jane Mayer was secretary and Howard Nilsen treasurer. Bill Cohn filled the position of custodian, while Marcus Steinberg took care of the duties of athletic manager.

Gordon Mailloux with his two assistant yell leaders, Andrew Lerios and Arthur Sommers, was responsible for much of the school spirit at our rallies.

The Executive Committee, the law making body for the United Students of George Washington High School.

Executive Committee

Elected representatives from each registry class make up the majority of the Executive Committee. The student body officers also attend the meetings, with Dick Mangan presiding and Roschelle Paul recording the proceedings. Mr. W. A. Wieland is the faculty adviser.

The board retains the power, among other things, to appropriate money for activities and organizations, to call and supervise elections, to grant awards and honors in the name of the school, to propose amendments to the constitution, and to discuss issues for improvements.

A roster of the representatives includes: Edith Bercovitch, Rita Schrager, Joan Herrick, Betty Figley, Jean Hosmer, Mary Bracken, Katherine Haines, Marina Swan, Roschelle Paul, Sadye Pinkus, Robert Fischer, Nancy Glazer, Rene Dutriz, Esther Beattie, Marie Shegog, Ruth Barrish, Julius Hipshman, Jean Tallman, Stewart Gross, Philip Damner, Dominic Guisso, Barbara Campbell, Ardelle Houghton, Helen Murray, Joe Cohen, Mary Trussell, Frank Belton, Alice Haslett, Marjorie Muller, Virginia Strett, Katherine Wright, Eleanor Schwarz, John McAtee, Malcolm MacKillop, Julio Castelli, Donald Chapman, Melton Purcell, Elfrieda Strahlendorf, Robert LeBaron, Harvey Decter, Yolanda Gomez, Sophie Bauder, Frank Berman, George Sinitzin, Ruth Linane, Stanley Gilbert, Mentor Taylor, Martin Tarpey, Jean Cramer, Alice Bothe, Robert Hendrick, Ray Conlisk, Robert Barsocchini, Edgar Long, Ira Smith, Bob Reynolds, Pat Bergman.

During the Fall '36 term, a constitution, compiled by Mr. W. A. Wieland, was accepted by the members of the Executive Committee after much discussion and many changes.

High Senior Class Officers

Under the leadership of Howard Nilsen, president, and Dorothy Hobbs, vice president, the high senior class has played a prominent part in the school activities this term.

A senior advisory board was inaugurated to help the low sophomores get acquainted with the student body and school regulations. Each senior on the board was given five incoming sophs to advise. The seniors helped them with their studies, their difficulties, and their troubles during their first time in a new school.

Another event of the semester was the Senior-Sophomore Reception. A dance was held in the library as a "get-together" for the youngest and the oldest of Washington's classes.

The very big worry for Charles Smith, treasurer, was to keep the expenses down. In order to help defray graduation expenses, a theater party was given by the senior class at the New Balboa Theater. Entertainment was supplied between pictures. It consisted of an amateur hour with talent from the school. A prize was given to the winner who turned out to be Cecile Tierney with her imitations of screen stars. Other monologues, dances, and songs added to the enjoyment of the affair.

To add to the class social program the senior class held a luncheon under the direction of its president. This affair was held in the cafeteria, November 23. Along with the generous slices of turkey given each person went a considerable amount of entertainment.

The affair of great importance to all graduating classes is the Graduation Dance which was held on December 11. This dance is expected to set a standard for all future graduating classes.

All senior affairs were capably recorded by Charlotte Alger, class secretary. The notes are read at each senior meeting if so voted.

Miss Marie Kirwin, senior adviser, is to be congratulated on the way she had the seniors toe the mark. Had it not been for her careful check of all seniors, many might not have been able to graduate this term. Miss Kirwin spent much of her valuable time and energy outside and inside of school helping graduates reach the high school requirements. She also will be the one who will see to it that graduation exercises run smoothly.

Class of December, 1937

By SHIRLEY KAHN

We wish that we could think of a way
To tell the students why
We leave this sturdy school behind
With many a tremulous sigh.

When first we came, this building
Was hollow, empty, and new,
And many a noiseless echo
Cried out as we went through.

MISS MARIE KIRWIN
Senior Adviser

When first we came, there were no chairs,
 So we sat upon the floor.
 The teachers couldn't work at all,
 And we could do no more.
 When we'd just got over being lost,
 To add to all our cares,
 We had to remember when, and which,
 And where we could use the stairs.

There were many strange faces and voices,
 A cloudy and threatening sky;
 All of the students left schoolmates behind
 In coming to Washington High.
 When all of the wanderers gathered,
 They were given the student rule.
 It was that which brought them together
 And made them a close-knit school.

When all the matters were straightened out
 And all the wrongs were righted,
 There were rallies and social functions
 To make us feel united.
 A few events of interest
 To students one and all,
 Who've been here since the school began,
 Are not hard to recall.

The biggest event of the whole first term
 Was the Charity Football game.
 We won three cups, and so we made
 A strong first bid for fame.
 Remember the urging there was to buy
 The first student body card?
 Remember when the building settled
 And the courts were cracked and jarred?

One night we had an Open House.
 To friends our work was shown,
 In progress and achievement
 They saw we stood alone.
 With the leaving of Miss Pence
 We knew our first regret.
 All the work she did for us
 We know we'll not forget.

There was a day for Clean Up,
 'Hello' and 'Camera Day,'
 Fun at the P.T.A. game
 Where sportsmanship held sway.
 Then came the highest spirits;
 The season for basketball;
 Then, after victory and triumph,
 The spring turned into fall.

Now, for the first time, a journal,
 A Senior Advisory Board,
 A full school and even a football team
 By others no longer ignored.
 First like a whispering eaglet,
 Then like a full grown bird,
 The eager voices of Washington
 Clamor to be heard.

Now as we face graduation,
 Which means leaving far behind
 All of our friends and the classes
 (And we didn't think we'd mind)
 We feel a little sorry,
 And we breathe a wistful sigh.
 We know that we're regretful,
 But we still can't tell you why.

Our First Graduates

Five George Washington High School students completed the graduation requirements last June, and, although they finished school in three and a half years, they will be graduated with the December 1937 class.

Marjorie Astredo entered Washington at the first of its history. She was very much interested in sports and so went out for swimming in her high junior and low senior years. Upon notification of the completion of her high school requirements she enrolled at the California School of Fine Arts which she is now attending. Marjorie's ambition is to be an interior decorator. She would like to take up mechanical drawing and is also adept at painting and drawing.

Frank Hultman went through high school studying hard so that he might attend the San Francisco Junior College sooner than the average student. Having chosen law as a career, he is going to attend Stanford University where he feels that he will have a better opportunity for fitting himself for his life's work. Frank enjoys playing golf and is interested in such sports as football and basketball. He likes to collect football programs and "messes" of tropical fish.

Lois Samuel, the first elected vice president of the United Students of George Washington High School, enjoyed many activities during her stay here. Not only was she the president of the Girls' Service Society, but she was also one of the originators of that very useful code adopted by the girls of the school. Lois was one of the charter members of the society. She also served on the Building and Grounds Committee, was secretary of the Judicial Board, and helped make arrangements for the May Fete last term. Lois is now attending the California School of Fine Arts where she is studying to be a fashion designer. Among her hobbies we find: drawing, horseback riding, and dancing.

Tad Saylor, who has just recently returned from a trip to Hawaii, is another of these students who completed the graduation requirements last term. He is very much interested in sports, especially boating. He enjoys going to the South End Rowing Club for a workout. Besides rowing, Tad finds great amusement in guns and sport hunting.

Eleanor Worken came to George Washington from Lowell High School. Although majoring in French, her favorite teacher was Miss Haley. She is of a very talkative nature, especially in German and study. Upon leaving school she enrolled at San Francisco Junior College where she is now a special student. During the lunch hour Eleanor works at the Park View Pharmacy, where many of our students spend the noon period. When she is out of junior college she will either attend the University of California or go to work. She would like very much to be a nurse but says that she will probably end by being a stenographer. She is very fond of outdoor sports, being adept at swimming and playing tennis and badminton. Eleanor also enjoys reading, walking in the park, and collecting charm bracelets.

Mr. Cummings, principal, bids Graduate Frank Hultman farewell.

Frank Diebold looks up from his studies to see Joyce Collopy and Charlotte Alger waving to Jane Harlin and Margie Lucey . . . Turning her back on Mal Jacobs and Izzy Teller, Audrey Pollack is about to shake hands with Joseph Rice . . . David Leibel is set—ready to kill as Gilbert Plessman begs for mercy! . . . Lawrence Allen, unconcerned, turns to tie his shoe.

Mildred Kummerlander is about to hit Thora Wilkinson with her tennis racquet, but Camille Haskins merely turns her back and blows up a balloon . . . Gerry Bristol smiles and Adele Kuhn turns around as Bill Green enjoys his gum. Bernice Golden looks disgusted . . . Robert Gilmore, however, smiles to Marian Gehre who is just driving up. Bill Eisert and Robert Magill shake hands, and Raymond Rhodes looks on a bit skeptically as Phyllis Sperling and Barbara Jacobs try to "truck" in vain! . . . Herbert Meneken has a grandstand seat . . . Jane Mayer, Bernadine Korens, and Eleanor Leitner get in a huddle to watch Terry Tonks powder her nose . . . Vivian Lutz looks up from her inspection to see Mervyn Abrams putting on a comedy act.

Jerry Gerson eats pop corn while Clarice Colmar laughs at Martha Beasom's joke . . . Paul Kilian watches Walter Kuzmich driving a truck . . . as Lucille Kobsted bends over to get a drink, Sid Kaplin hides behind his magazine . . . Beverly Zeiler sits on a fire hydrant, trying to dodge Al Hoffman throwing rotten tomatoes at her!

Bertram Cody watches Harriet Williams eating a tamale . . . Vera Lee and Frances Gunn carry on an animated conversation, while Frank Ferrario and Jack Kuchlenz try to knock each other out . . . Shirley Kahn eats a banana, and Mae Baum is extremely busy combing her hair . . . Jean Trimble turns patriotic, while Charlie Smith cleans the yard. Beatrice Jacobs watches Louise Johnson and Patricia Tripp on the back of a car . . . And Dot Hobbs seems happy about the whole thing, as Tom Stern leans glumly against the pole . . . Marie Shegog is holding her pet dog.

Copying Don Demetreos, sitting on a car fender, Tom Stern and Frank Berman stretch out, while Jerry Sirbu jots down some notes . . . But "The Eagle Eye" (Dot Taliaferro) watches Hal Mendelson and Terry Tonks walking arm in arm. Irving Tilin, feeling silly, starts making faces . . . And then of course, there's Bill Hudson and Rose Woo always thinking of their stomachs! . . . Al LeGallee, finger in mouth, looks on in amazement.

Mary Dunn laughs at Gloria Peters who had the "Mumps" . . . and Alice Haslett and Thelma Angel stop to gossip when up drives Marian Garlinger! . . . Jeanne Moule steps out of another car as Geraldine Baldwin and Barbara Rosenbaum look on . . . Marjorie Lear peeks out from behind the door of an ice cream truck!

Robert Hendrick, gun in hand, tries to stop Peter Tobin from fighting, while Lillian Weatherly and Roberta Roberts look on from behind the fence . . . Norma Bianchi, carrying the cottage cheese, turns her back on George Springer who dropped his books! . . . Howard Gotelli surveys the situation . . . To see Mary Miles with a rifle in hand seems to be a very funny sight to Gordon Mailloux!

Olga Kashuba is running right into Jean Reynolds . . . and Ruth Cohn is getting a sack of potatoes for Phyllis DeGear and Virginia Montalvo, waiting on the stairs . . . Wilbur Gray watches Gloria Varsi's feeble attempts at trucking! . . . Seeing Sylvia Kaplan gardening, Robert Cohn starts straightening his tie!

Bill Dougal stops to think, Bill Semorile smiles, and Helen Wiener watches Helen Stevens and Mae Sweetney who are on their hands and knees playing with a dog! . . . As Georgette Kupper looks on, Nathan Liss is about to set the dog on Street Cleaners Wallace Matson and Frank Ferrario! . . . Frances Farraone thinks it's very funny. Margaret Slattery can't believe that Frank Berman is about to swallow his saber because of pretty Ruth Fulton! . . . Lucille Martin is watching Mal Jacobs out of the corner of her eye as he turns in the fire alarm!

Low Senior Class

The senior class of June, 1938, has been very active as a unit during the past semester.

The class officers played a large part in making this journal possible. Richard DeGraf, the class president, participated in the rally held to boost the sale of pledge cards, while Shirley Teall, vice president, worked on the staff in the position of assistant senior editor. The low senior class secretary this term was Harold Lewis.

Next year the responsibility of leadership and service will rest on this class, and they are preparing now to take over the chief executive jobs of the student body. They will continue to carry on the work their brother seniors have begun in their short stay at George Washington.

The graduating class leaves behind it best wishes for the success of the new high seniors.

High Junior Class

This term afforded the high juniors an opportunity to show their skill in social activities by the planning and execution of the Junior Nautical Dance, which was held in the library and opened to the entire student body.

Another activity which brought the high juniors into the limelight was the rally, over which the class president, Bernice Praetzel, presided, to advertise the term play and to publicize the talent in the class with the aid of Benny Walker, radio announcer. Mr. Walker introduced such talent as Ronald White and Beverly Stevens who sang a duet. He also presented Frank Lawlor who did a tap dance. Janet Bly gave a monologue and Roschelle Paul presented a short preview of the play.

The entire program of the high juniors has shown the high caliber of the officers elected. The officers incidentally are all girls, who are very versatile in school activities. President Bernice Praetzel, who has done much to cooperate with the Surveyor staff, is very active in the G.A.A. and is a new member of the Girls' Service Society. Helen Blum, who was the high junior class vice president, is a member of the French Club. Active in the Scholarship Society and in the G.A.A. is Janet Bly, high junior secretary.

The high junior class as a whole has proved to be very versatile, for its members have participated in a wide variety of the extra-curricular activities offered to the student body.

Prominent in the field of journalism is Zoy Ellis, able associate editor of The Eagle and assistant club editor for the Surveyor.

Almost all the officers of the G.A.A. this term were high junior girls. In the presidency there is Adah Parker, while LaVerne Minkel was the vice president. Frances Young, secretary, has taken care of the minutes and records of the G.A.A. for the past term. Mary Trussell was the head yell leader, and Bernice Praetzel was the historian.

The high junior boys were also well represented in the school athletic life this term. Dave LeBaron gave his support to the backfield of the football team, while Norman Franks and Robert Shimoff played on the 120-pound basketball team. Larry Schapiro was on the 110-pound casaba team. Fred Luenberger was prominent on the school's swimming team.

Besides Bernice Praetzel, in the Girls' Service Society there are such notable high juniors as: Adele Ohe, who was an associate editor for The Eagle during the Fall '36 term; Janet Wheeler, who was prominent in the G.A.A.; and Roschelle Paul, secretary of the student body.

David LeBaron of the high junior class was the president of the Eagle Society this term. Also in the service society are: Norman Lazarus, Winston Halley, and Fred Luenberger.

High junior registry 327 was instrumental in bringing about the Thanksgiving Drive. Thanksgiving baskets for the less fortunate people were prepared by the student body. Through the leadership of Helen Blum, and her committee, Barbara Chisholm, Deidrellen Dickson, Marie George, Lois Pasch, and Shirley Spector, the baskets were distributed.

Our hats are off to the high junior class who have undoubtedly proved their ability and willingness to participate in the extra-curricular school activities.

Third row: M. Trussell, J. Wheeler, D. Froelich, L. Minkel, C. Andrews, I. Erlanger, I. Cohen.

Low Junior Class

The largest class in the school was well represented in student body activities, academic accomplishments, and athletic life in the school this term.

Prominent in dramatics were Audrea Barthol and Erma Everett who took active parts in the Constitution Day radio program. They also had leading parts in the term play "On the Air."

The low juniors collaborated with the high juniors in giving the Junior Nautical Dance. Tom Garvey, Helen Baylacq, and Marilyn Barnett were on the dance committee and helped a great deal in making this dance a success.

The low junior officers, as well as those of their higher brothers, are very versatile. The class president, Clyde LaVerne, was also a prominent figure in salesmanship, basketball, and the Eagle Society. Vice president of the class was the social minded Charlotte Kovas, who was active in the G.A.A.

Audrea Barthol, popular young dramatist and Washington radio broadcaster, was the low junior class secretary.

Among the low junior members of the Eagle Society was Earl Beenfeldt, who served as the secretary of the organization throughout this term. Bill Cohn and Joe Compagno were also in the Eagle Society.

Outstanding in the field of sports from the low junior class is little Leo Leggett, the star football player for the Eagles. His achievements on the gridiron are known to all.

Mr. Sylvester Kelly's low junior boys' registry was first in banking for several weeks in succession. Their high record was established with Milivoy Petievich as class banker. The boys should be commended for their thrift.

Sophomore Classes

Already the high sophomores have shown their senior schoolmates their willingness and ability to cooperate in social activities.

They showed their ability to present programs by their Clean Up Day which was one of the most successful activities of this term.

The class officers were very helpful and cooperative to the staff of the Surveyor. The president, John Leddy, spoke at the journal rally in behalf of the high sophomore class, while Beverly Bare, the class secretary, was helpful in literary work for the annual. Louise Payne was class vice president.

An enthusiastic group of low sophomores has made a favorable impression on the other students of Washington this term by backing up the school events, buying student body cards, and generally "getting into the swing."

They not only provided entertainment at the P.T.A. Benefit Show at Presidio Junior High, but also participated in the Sophomore Class Clean Up Day. The incoming low sophomores were given a welcoming reception at the beginning of the semester by the high seniors.

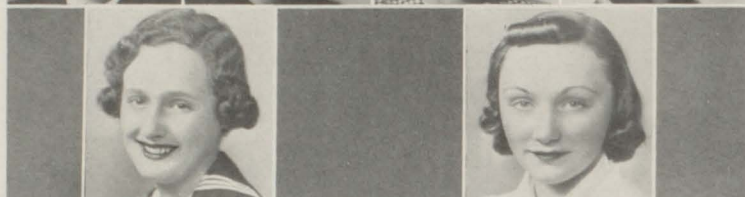

Charles Preston was president, Barbara Stevens vice president, and Esther Beattie secretary.

ORGANIZATIONS

George Washington was a firm believer in organization as an essential to success. He, too, believed that, "In union there is strength." He advocated it in business, in government, and in war. Whether managing his plantation or heading the government of the United States, he was always working with his men.

Known as the United Students of George Washington High, we have worked together for the common good, a basic principal of the American government. In the various clubs of the school, we have learned cooperation, the value of initiative, and leadership.

George Washington was successful, as history will attest. His success was due to organization; so will ours be.

Eagle Society

EAGLE SOCIETY OFFICERS

David LeBaron Edward Fisher Earl Beenfeldt
President Vice President Secretary

To lead the Eagle Society this term in its many school activities, David LeBaron was elected president. David was the successor to Richard Mangan in the role of top man, and has as his assistants Edward Fisher as vice president and Clyde LaVerne as secretary.

In forming the organization, the charter members and their faculty adviser, Mr. Lloyd Leith, compiled a standard of distinguished school service and outstanding scholarship and citizenship rating. Aspirants to membership must fulfill these requirements before being approved by the society itself. Since membership is limited to twenty-five, the vacancies left by the four who will be graduated in December will be filled at the start of the next term. Those leaving are: Dick Mangan, Ed Fisher, Howard Nilsen, and John Cox.

During the Spring '37 term, the Eagle Society, in conjunction with the Girls' Service Society, conducted a door-to-door clean-up campaign in an effort to improve the general appearance of the neighborhood and the school grounds.

The very first and main activity the first term of its existence was preparing the card stunts for the P.T.A. Benefit football game and, in general, being responsible for the functioning of the event. As their main social function last term, the boys in the Eagle Society and Mr. Leith held a combination hike and picnic.

According to Mr. Leith, the activities of the Eagle Society will be increased next term with the basketball season, when the boys will be in charge of order at the games. At present the duties of the society are confined to maintaining order at school rallies, dances, and games.

Besides Richard Mangan and Bill Cohn, who were instrumental in organizing the society, and the graduates, the members are: Allan Shatsky, Winston Halley, Richard DeGraf, Norman Hawkins, Robert Reynolds, Robert Kahn, Martin Tarpey, Dave LeBaron, Fred Leuenberger, Joseph Compagno, Marston Thall, Earl Beenfeldt, Norman Lazarus, Martin Haderlein, Laney McConnell, Clyde LaVerne, and Douglas Willard.

Girls' Service Society

Since ten of the twenty members of the Girls' Service Society will be graduated this term, many names have been considered recently by the society in its search for new members. Those who will fill these vacancies left by the graduates were announced at the Inaugural Rally.

Since the advent of the society, under the guidance of Miss Edith Pence, former girls' vice principal, the organization has steadily increased its membership.

The charter members, who created the girls' ten point code, are: Betty Hill, Rita Jorgenson, Lois Samuel, and Jane Mayer.

The sponsorship this term was transferred from Miss Pence to Miss Eleanor Jackson when she was promoted to the position of girls' vice principal.

Besides their work as hall guards, at rallies, and in preparing a comfortable rest room for the girls, the society has been planning a ritual to be performed at their bi-annual Initiation Luncheon. It will be held after the new members are announced at the Inaugural Rally.

The society boasts of two honorary members: its former sponsor, Miss Edith Pence, and Lois Samuel, who completed her graduation requirements last June.

GIRLS' SERVICE SOCIETY

Jane
Mayer
President

Norma
Bianchi
Secretary

Barbara
Rosenbaum
Vice President

Leading the society this term and presiding at meetings held on the first Monday of every month was Jane Mayer, president. Barbara Rosenbaum served as vice president, and Norma Bianchi as secretary.

Along with Betty Hill, Jane Mayer, Barbara Rosenbaum, and Norma Bianchi, the club will lose Maxine Meyer, Hazel Meadows, Dorothy Taliaferro, Audrey Pollack, June Riley, and Dorothy Hobbs at the end of the term.

The remaining members are: Luella Hill, Adele Ohe, Jean Irilarry, Nancy Glazer, Norma McNeil, Janet Wheeler, Bernice Praetzel, Shirley Teall, Rita Jorgenson, and Roschelle Paul.

Sophomore girls should start right in rendering service if they wish to belong to this society.

The Scholarship Society, open only to those students who have very high finals on their report cards.

Scholarship for Service

Membership in the Scholarship Society is limited to students having a total of ten points on their final reports, according to the system of valuing grades used by the society. Under this system A's count for three points and B's for one. C's are accepted only in gym and R.O.T.C. Satisfactory citizenship is compulsory. The membership requirements as well as the constitution are fashioned like those of the C.S.F. Although Washington does not yet belong to the C.S.F., the Scholarship Society hopes very soon to be admitted.

Under the sponsorship of Miss E. Parsons and Miss B. Bilafer, the society carries on such activities as helping poor students and patrolling the halls during lunch. The motto of the society is "Scholarship for Service."

This term as its president the society elected Raymond Chung. Jean Giddens is vice president and Dolly Smith is secretary.

A roster of the society includes: Jacob Aboudara, Norma Addlestone, Grace Ayton, Lorraine Bailey, Beverly Bare, Barkef Khenchelian, Charles Barkis, Marilyn Barnett, Edith Bercovitch, Janet Bly, Alan Campbell, Helen Campbell, Ray Chung, Peggy Cohe, Ray Conlish, Robert Dart, Betty DeLu, Amy DeTurk, Deidrellen Dickson, Doris Duncan, Charlotte Fehlen, Bonnie Fisher, Elise Francoeur, Alicelee Freeman, Jean Freudenberg, Jean Giddens, Victor Groat, Ann Hall, Winston Halley, Frances Harden, Fred Hildebrandt, Jean Hosmer, Virginia Hubbert, Ralph Johnsen, Eleanor Juddell, Eldora Kaiser, Irene Klein, Annette Kohn, Bernadine Korens, Thomas Lee, Eleanor Leitner, Janet Levy, Rith Lipovac, Wallace Matson, Hazel Meadows, Kathleen Mehan, Nancy Meyer, Corinne Moncharsh, Janet O'Leary, Andrew Papageorge, Roschelle Paul, Elinor Porter, Sidney Posner, Helen Price, Irma Jane Reichert, Helen Riaboff, Jack Rosston, Carmen Sandor, Oscar Schori, Dorisann Schulken, Alvenise Shannon, Dollie Smith, Sanford Snow, Dorothy Taliaferro, Jack Taylor, William Tibbitts, Virginia Tosch, Irving Tragen, David Welisch, Jack Welisch, Laura Wolf, Mamie Yoshida, Lila Bylinkin, Margaret Cullen, Muriel Kohner, Betty Levy, Alice Ota, Virgil Revie, Mary Sanguinette, Harrison Scott, Andy Shoras, Lionel Viales, Robert Drake, Handa Katsunori, Billie Brown, William Cramer, Harry Gershon, Marjorie Black, May Davis.

Second row: Levy, Sinitzen, Colan, Jacobs.
Back row: Settle, Bellisle, J. Fishgold, M. Fishgold.

Having been admitted into the All-City Debating League for the first time this term, the Debating Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Phyllis Haley, has been very busy. Two club members, Irene Cohen and Stewart Gross, now hold offices in the League.

Besides their League debates, the members have participated in various practice contests with other schools.

This organization aims to teach its members proper debating procedure, but, above all, the club is endeavoring to secure the all-city title for George Washington.

This term's officers were: Stewart Gross, president, and Irene Cohen, secretary-treasurer.

To increase the students' knowledge of foreign countries, an International Club, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Reynolds, was organized last year.

Various people who have traveled abroad talked to the club members during their meetings. The students also corresponded with children from other lands. Another of the club's activities included a dinner at the Spanish Fonda Restaurant.

The club, which has only one officer, consisted of twenty-five members. The one officer was Dorisann Schulken who served as secretary.

This club meets twice a month and a chairman for each meeting is elected previously.

In order to acquaint students with the correct parliamentary procedure, the Parliamentary Club was organized under the sponsorship of Miss Marie Kirwin.

The club is particularly beneficial to aspirants to student body offices. Before any one may take over an office he must pass an examination in parliamentary law.

This term's club officers were: Wonona McClintic, president; Raymond Chung, vice president; Thomas Settle, secretary; and George Uri, as the parliamentarian.

The Chess Club, organized last year by Mr. W. A. Wieland, is now under the supervision of Mr. E. C. Vanderlaan.

Officers of the club are: Egor Klymontovich, president; George Sinitzen, vice president; and Harold Stone, secretary.

One of the liveliest and most cooperative clubs at George Washington is the Salesmanship Club, sponsored by Mr. Balaam.

Hi-Y Club Salesmanship

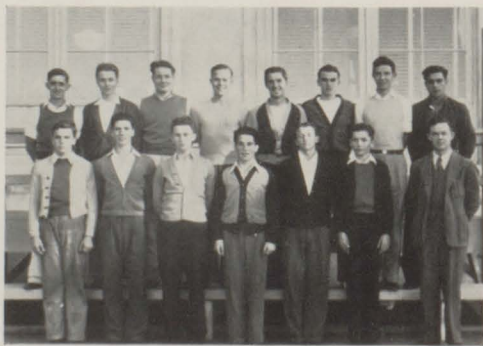

Members of the Hi-Y Club of George Washington High School are chosen on evidence of their good character. The organization is composed of approximately eighteen boys from all grades and is sponsored by Mr. J. J. Burke.

The George Washington branch of the Hi-Y's was organized last year by Bob McLean, Polytechnic High School student, with the assistance of Roger Morse, Jack Burg, and Ray Doughty of Washington. The president of the club is Tom Trent, while the other officers are: Jack Polly, vice president; Roger Morse, secretary; and Malcolm MacKillop, treasurer.

Activities of the club have been numerous and varied during the past year. Meetings, followed by a swimming party, were held with members of both the Commerce and Mission Hi-Y branches. A week-end conference was held by members of the club's branches and their leaders. A day's boating trip around San Francisco Bay was another of this organization's activities.

On October 9, Jack Polly and Malcolm MacKillop of the George Washington Hi-Y won the doubles championship in the Y.M.C.A. tennis tournament.

The largest and most active club in the school is the Salesmanship Club, sponsored by Mr. Rufus Balaam. One hundred and five students, mostly from Mr. Balaam's classes in Advertising and Salesmanship, participate in the numerous activities of the club.

The activities of the Sales Club have reached out so far that they have affected almost every department in the school. The drama department has been able to succeed in its presentations largely through the cooperation of the sales students in ticket drives. The journal might not have been published if the members of the Sales Club had not promoted such stupendous sales. The Parent-Teachers Association, the term play, the Rainy Day and Needy Children drives, the student body, many school games, and The Eagle owe much to the efforts of the Sales Club.

Climaxing the club's term of almost feverish selling activity was the term banquet held on November 18 in the school cafeteria.

Presiding over the meetings of George Washington's crack salesmen was their elected president, Dorothy Hobbs, who is also the vice president of the high senior class. For the office of the vice president of the Sales Club, Bob LeBaron, who sold the greatest number of Surveyor pledge cards, was chosen. Alice Haslett filled the position of secretary-treasurer for the club throughout the term.

Second row: Takayama, Egan, Damerell, MacKillop, Affolter, Gilbert.
Back row: Rook, Licht, Hudson, Coomber, Raynaud.

D r a m a . . . S t a g e A r t

During the entire fall term the drama department, directed by Miss Marie Weller, has been working in anticipation of the climax of their efforts—the term play. "On the Air" was presented at Commerce High Auditorium on November 19.

The plays introduced a unique form of entertainment to high schools. Three one-act plays were presented in the same manner as radio studios present their skits, with sound effects, microphones, and scripts replacing actions and costumes.

Harold Mendelson, Frank Berman, Erma Everett, Janet Bly, Bob Kahn, Verne Anderson, Audrea Barthol, Sidney Posner, Wilbur Michel-son, and Tom Stern participated in the plays.

The Drama Club also presented numerous radio skits over the school system and a play for the Rainy Day Benefit.

Organized for the purpose of designing the stage scenery for the term play, the members of the Stage Arts Club were disappointed when Miss Marie Weller announced that "On the Air," a presentation without scenery, would take the place of the usual term play. In "On the Air," sound effects, microphones, and scripts replaced scenery. So the club changed its plans and set about preparing a huge poster for the rear of the stage, planning sound effects, and controlling curtains and lights.

At a recent meeting the club discussed at length their ideas for producing suitable sound-effects. For instance, they had to create something that would give the impression of the sound of a fish slapping the bottom of a boat.

The officers elected at the inaugural meeting were: George Affolter, president; Betty McMichael, vice president; Jane Harlin, secretary-treasurer; and Herbert Raynaud, business manager.

Ten artistically-minded students comprise the membership of Washington's Floral Arts Club. The smallness of the club makes it possible for its activities to be more entertaining and beneficial, and it gives Miss D. Macmillan, the sponsor, more time to advise individually the students in their arrangement work.

The pupils in the Floral Arts Club strive to master the art of flower arrangement and to create novel effects, using imagination and veritable or abstract balance.

Various departments in the school have taken advantage of the existence of the Floral Arts Club and have requested that the club take charge of the floral arrangements for their banquets. Besides their work for banquets, the club, led by Lillian Higgins, president, has succeeded in beautifying the teachers' lunch room.

The music club, under the supervision of Mrs. Myrtle Swanson and the leadership of Mary Trussell, president, has for two terms offered opportunities for musical expression and recognition to its members.

Since the approval of its constitution in June, 1937, by Mr. Cummings, Mr. Wieland, and Miss Jackson, the club has increased its membership to sixty-five and has succeeded in furthering the musical knowledge of its members and of the school as a whole.

The honorary members of the club are the principal, vice principals, and Mr. Marion Knott. Assisting the president are Barbara Chisholm, vice president, and Jean Chesley, secretary.

Christmas music presented at Presidio Junior High auditorium comprised a recent public appearance of the advanced girls' chorus directed by Mrs. Myrtle Swanson.

Graduation is one of the outstanding programs at which the girls' chorus is privileged to sing. The girls plan to sing Toselli's Serenade and some Christmas carols at this event.

From this group, which meets every day during the seventh period, a girls' trio consisting of Annette Goldner, alto, Jean Chesley, second soprano, and Marjorie Sadler, soprano, was formed. These girls entertained at the G.A.A. Banquet and sang on Benny Walker's amateur hour over KGO.

During the fall term this chorus has offered selections at the P.-T.A. Benefit, at the G.A.A. Rally, and at many of the Friday morning radio broadcasts over the school system.

The fourth period mixed chorus has completed a full program of entertainment at various functions.

From this class was chosen a mixed quartet and a boys' quartet. The boys' quartet consists of the following boys: Ronald White, Louis DeMartini, Wilbur Michelson, and Bob Bagnall.

The main event in which the mixed chorus participated during the fall term was the term play presented at Commerce High Auditorium on November 19. The chorus provided music for the skit "Memories of Stephen Foster" presented by the drama department under the direction of Miss Marie Weller.

In conjunction with the girls' advanced choral group, the mixed chorus sang on the radio programs, at the Christmas program at Presidio Junior High auditorium, and at the graduation exercises.

Swing and Symphony

A radio program on Constitution Day as well as a program for the students of Presidio Junior High School was one of the activities participated in by the orchestra this term. On October 31, the orchestra played for the School Superintendents' Convention, held in the Fairmont Hotel. Under the direction of Mr. M. Knott, the group, on November 6, provided music for the Traffic Safety Program over station KFRC.

From this department the String Ensemble, the Brass Ensemble, and the Clarinet Ensemble were formed. The String Ensemble presented a radio program on October 30. The following students make up the ensemble: violins: David Leibel, Elkan Thoshinsky, Herbert Messer, and Deidrel-len Dickson; cello: Jessie Anderson; bass: Alice Bothe; and piano: Tillie Mieseles. The brass ensemble presented a program over the school system on November 5. William Gerst, Harrison Scott, Mary Trussell, and Albert Bagot comprise the brass ensemble. There are five boys in the clarinet ensemble. They are: Bert Zalkind, who plays the first clarinet; Ralph Johnson, second clarinet; William Scott, third clarinet; Max Eisenstadt, fourth clarinet; and Jack Polly, baritone.

Under the supervision of Mr. Marion Knott, but directed by David Leibel, the George Washington dance orchestra provides music for all the school dances.

With the modern piano interludes played by Tillie Mieseles, the orchestra is mastering more and more the intricate swing rhythm. The other members are: Elkan Thoshinsky, Adele Wieback, Herbert Messer, William Gerst, Mary Trussell, Bert Zalkind, Max Eisenstadt, Ralph Johnson, Albert Bagot, Alice Bothe, Rose Gorman, and Robert Engeman.

Since the opening of the school in Fall '36, the band has been striving to instill spirit into the student body by means of lively music. Every third period, peppy music issues from room 6 and floats through the building.

The band has been present at several rallies to lead community singing of the school songs. It has cooperated fully with the rally committee in coming out to pep up rallies.

The band did its part in making the P.T.A. Benefit a success. To support the rooting section, the band played at the spring basketball games.

In order to put to practical use the fundamentals learned in the classroom, the French Dinner Club, or "Le Cercle Francais," was organized during the Spring '37 term by Mrs. E. J. Torrieri.

Monthly dinners are held at which the conversation is carried on exclusively in the French language. During the spring term the group visited "La Favorite," French restaurant. The officers at that time were: Betty Droit, president; Ruth Jane Hoy, vice president; and Shirley Kahn, secretary-treasurer.

Since the dinner at La Favorite, "Le Cercle Francais" has visited Pierre's Chateau and, most recently, the Women's City Club. This was the inaugural dinner for this term with the following twelve members attending: Charlotte Alger, Geraldine Bristol, Ida Jane Erlanger, Patricia Figel, Gloria Freed, Victor Groat, Al LeGallee, Elaine Levy, Lorraine Manasse, and Helen Riaboff from the VI, VII, and VIII second period class; and two junior photographers, Jack Taylor and Duryea from the French III class.

This term's officers were: Al LeGallee, president; Charlotte Alger, vice president; and Harold Mendelson, secretary-treasurer.

Membership is limited to advanced students.

Among the educational entertainment presented to the German Club this term was a motion picture entitled, "A Trip Through Germany." It included a photographic sight-seeing tour made by open air buses through the important cities in Germany, including Hamburg, Berlin, Munich, and Cologne. Along with the sight-seeing tour were descriptions of the Great Cologne Cathedral and the famous Berlin street, "Unter den Linden." Among the most interesting sights were the ruins of medieval castles, the beautiful valley of the Rhine with its vineyards, and the gaiety of festivities after the grape harvests.

The students who form the German Club, all of whom are vitally interested in the study of Germany and the German language, are sponsored in their study by Mrs. Birdeena Gowan.

Since Mrs. Gowan, who recently made a tour abroad, organized this group, the membership has increased to fifty students.

As yet the club has not elected a permanent president, but William Semorile was appointed to the office and served in that position throughout the fall quarter. Nicholas Treacy, however, was elected to the position of vice president, while Eldora Kaiser served as secretary.

The Latin Club, formed by enthusiastic students from the Latin classes, has taken as its title, "Senatus Populusque Romanus" or S.P.Q.R. for short.

The club has, at its weekly meetings, engaged itself in an extensive study of ancient Roman life in general, along with a study of the culture and language of Rome.

During the spring term the club held an old Roman feast at the Veneto Restaurant. The menus were in tiny scrolls and the bill-of-fare was written in Latin verse.

At the meetings, three of the approximately twenty members of the club are chosen as Scriptor, Aediles, and Tribunes. The members elected to hold these positions retain their titles throughout one report card period when another election is held. Consuls, however, were elected for the entire term. This term's were Herbert Meneken, who is the editor of The Eagle, and Louise Maddock.

The "Senatus Populusque Romanus" (Senate and the Roman People) is sponsored by Miss C. Counihan, Latin teacher, and Miss Eleanor Jackson, former Latin teacher and present girls' vice principal.

The thirty-five members of the library staff work on a schedule so that there is always some one present in the library to issue books, answer questions, and in general to keep order.

There are students on duty there ten minutes before and after school and they must be on the Honor Roll so that they may be in the library during their free periods without jeopardizing their studies.

Miss Catherine Davis, the librarian, instructs her assistants on the intricacies of classifying non-fiction and fiction, on the rules and regulations of the library, and on how to list books in the catalog.

The student librarians are planning a club which will probably be organized next term.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Rex Harris a new club was organized this term. The officers were: Henry Jacobs, president; Ira Smith, vice president, and Bob Brown, secretary.

The purpose of the club is to promote interest in radio communication between California schools. The meetings were held in Shop No. 3 every week and the fifty members established communication between the shop and radio stations.

Demonstrations are given at meetings.

Reorganized upon the advent of the Surveyor in the middle of the term, The Eagle has been issued under the leadership of Herbert Meneken, editor, with the assistance of Zoy Ellis, associate editor, and Norma McNeil, news editor. Miss Jane Cook was the faculty adviser.

Obtaining advertisements and financing the paper have been the chief duties of Martha McLaughlin, business manager. Carmen Catarina and Donald Whistler were solicitors.

Circulation was managed by Frank Berman, with his assistants, Tom Stern, Bill Martell, and Albert Shemano. The sales classes under Mr. Balaam were invaluable in making the sales successful.

Adele Kuhn and Tom Stern handled sports, while Audrey Pollack took care of all club news. In charge of registry reporters and responsible for all news from this source was Jane Harlin. Mary Camaches was class editor, and Martha Bea-som added humor to The Eagle's columns.

"Round Town and Country" was written by Margaret Davis, exchange editor, to tell the news from other schools. Luella Hill wrote the feature column, "So What?", and looking through the "Eagle Eye" was Dorothy Taliaferro.

Geraldine Bristol, giving up much of her spare time for The Eagle, served as typist.

The reporters, who were given a definite beat to cover, came from the journalism class. They included: Conrad Fong, Marian Gehre, Virginia Van, Peter Tobin, Anna Becker, Leo Bisordi, May Davis, Ray Denegri, Jack Hudson, JoAnne Kern, Robert Larson, Beth MacCormac, Shirley Teall, Irving Tilin, Meredythe Weinstein, Robert Reynolds, and Jean Irilarry.

The Surveyor

Transferred from the editorship of The Eagle, Dorothy Taliaferro was appointed editor of George Washington's first journal, the Surveyor. Luella Hill was the associate editor.

Having started later than other schools due to the uncertainty of funds, the staff, assisted by Miss Jane Cook, faculty adviser, worked doubly hard to issue the Surveyor on time.

Jean Irilarry handled all business details with the assistance of Betty Hill, Jane Mayer, and Dorothy Hobbs, circulation, advertising, and photographic managers respectively. Mary Camaches, Beth MacCormac, and Margaret Davis were also on the circulation staff.

Art Editor George Takayama drew the cover design and divisions along with Stanley Gilbert. Irving Tilin and Conrad Fong were literary co-editors, and Jane Harlin was the registry head.

Margaret Davis, club editor, with May Davis and Zoy Ellis, prepared one-third of the annual. On the senior staff were Eleanor Leitner, editor, Geraldine Bristol, and Shirley Teall.

Boys' sports were handled by Bob Stevens, editor, with Roy Frustuk and Dick Mangan, assistants. Audrey Pollack was in charge of girls' sports.

Very versatile was Adele Kuhn, who helped with the sports, was on the advertising staff, assisted the circulation department, and helped with registry and senior pictures.

The photographers who took the candid camera shots were Howard Marg, Norman Lazarus, and Francis Lewis. The group pictures were taken by Mr. Ted Ellsworth of the Graphic Arts Engraving Company.

Sharp Shooters

"Never point a gun at anything you do not wish to kill," is the motto of the Rifle Club, organized this year under Major Donald Atherton. The aim of the club is to teach the safe-handling of fire-arms.

According to Major Atherton, students are showing keen intelligence and skill in handling rifles. Shirley Stayton qualified for her marksmanship medal the first time she fired a rifle. Other outstanding feats of marksmanship were performed by Richard Howard, who, from a distance of fifty feet, planted five bulls' eyes within the space of a dime; and Katherine Wright, who scored forty-two bulls' eyes out of a possible fifty.

To promote interest in and knowledge of photography, the Camera Club was organized under the sponsorship of Mrs. L. Herrick and Mr. J. Ripley.

As a result of a photographic contest held at the beginning of the term, Francis Lewis was chosen school photographer. Acting president of the club was Wallace Matson.

The Camera Club rendered its services to the Surveyor and is largely responsible for the photography in the annual.

Cops and Cooks

During the term just completed, the George Washington Traffic Squad achieved the unusual record of having had no accidents occur in the school vicinity while the traffic boys were on duty.

The squad has two separate divisions, both under the supervision of Major Atherton—the street squad and the indoor patrol.

Captain William Kneebone was responsible for the street squad, which is on duty from 8 o'clock until after the tardy bell in the morning, and ten minutes after school. Assisting Captain Kneebone was Lieutenant Geoge Becker.

In addition to their identification caps the street squad received raincoats through an appropriation from the P.-T.A. This was made possible by the Rainy Day Benefit show.

The indoor department of the traffic squad was organized for the purpose of having the corridors policed during the two lunch periods. The second and third floors are patrolled by two boys and two girls each lunch period. During the fifth period were Norma McNeil, captain; Shirley Teall, lieutenant; Robert Hendrick, captain; and Richard Ayer, lieutenant. The sixth period hall detail included: Helen Riaboff, Gloria Freed, Harold Simpson, and Raymond Chung.

The Home Economics Club under the sponsorship of Mrs. Elsie Williamson has been meeting twice a month during the fall term.

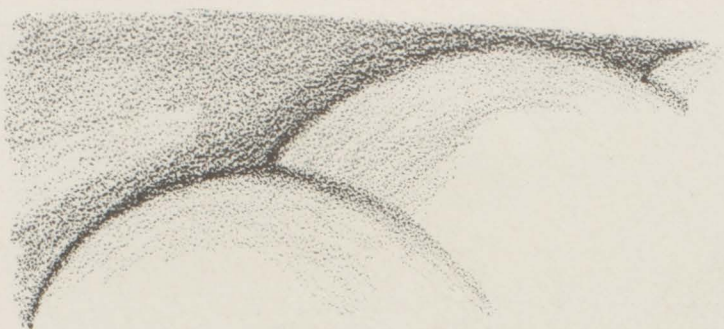

The officers of the club were Anita Welt, president; Ann Eliopoulos, vice president; Virginia Hubbert, secretary; and Anne Hoy, treasurer.

As activities the girls have made clothes for the Needlework Guild and have learned to knit.

Sportsmanship has long been an American byword. It is an ideal as firmly planted in true Americans as the very principles of the great general, George Washington.

The students participating in sports and R.O.T.C. at George Washington High learn courage and faith like that found in the Colonial army. They have ample opportunity to show their sportsmanship, their give and take.

The spirit of George Washington, the general, watches and hopes that all America will assimilate the real feeling of true sportsmanship, so essential in daily living.

R . O . T . C .

Under the capable leadership of Sergeant F. Feliciano, who succeeded Major J. W. McCormick as instructor, and twenty-two cadet officers, the R.O.T.C. battalion has shown a marked improvement since its beginning three terms ago.

During this time these officers worked hard whipping into shape a crack drill platoon unit, which offered most difficult competition to the other city schools last May. They helped supervise the cleaning of guns and care of uniforms, so the unit would not fail in the annual inspection.

The highest ranking cadet office ever held at George Washington, namely, that of lieutenant colonel, was established this term. This rank was awarded Raymond Reynolds because of his ability to instruct cadets and his interest in the work.

This semester Major McCormick, who was the instructor for the R.O.T.C. three terms, was promoted to the position of assistant P.M.S. and T. of the San Francisco Public Schools. However, under Sergeant Feliciano, the battalion still shows the efficiency it always had.

A new feature this term was the organization of a drum and bugle corps which will be under the leadership of Lieutenant Richard LoForti. This unit will furnish field music for battalion parades.

Another activity for industrious cadets is rifle practice. Having the most modern and up to date range in the city, we hope to produce the best shots in San Francisco. As it is the hope of this unit to enter a team in the Hearst Trophy competition next spring, the sergeant is now busy at work grooming George Washington's best marksmen.

George Washington High School's R.O.T.C. ended its successful year in active competition when the cadets participated at the Presidio for the Commandant's Cup.

After this colorful event, the following cadets will receive commissions upon graduation: Lieutenant Lawrence Allen, adjutant; Lieutenant Robert Dressler, assistant adjutant; Captain Thomas Stern, commander of Company A; Captain Peter Tobin, commander of Company D; Lieutenant Conrad Fong; Lieutenant Edward Fisher; Lieutenant Robert Logan; and Captain Robert Hendrick, supply officer.

The George Washington R.O.T.C. staff includes: Raymond Reynolds, lieutenant colonel; Ernest Coccary, major; Harold Simpson, captain; Robert Hendrick, captain; Lawrence Allen, first lieutenant; Robert Dressler, second lieutenant; and Albert Baker, second lieutenant.

The company commanders this term were: Captain Thomas Stern, Company A; Captain Melvin Riser, Company B; Captain Herman Stirnus, Company C; and Captain Peter Tobin, Company D.

George Washington has had a fairly successful football season this year. The Eagles won four games, lost four, and tied one. Being a young school and having an experienced team, Coach Verducci thought that it would be better if we waited another year before entering the A.A.A. league, so the Eagles have played only practice games this season.

WASHINGTON, 6; BALBOA, 20.

Finding lack of weight and experience too great a handicap, the Eagles fell before a big Balboa powerhouse which outweighed them 15 pounds per man. The Bucs scored on power. LeBaron caught a forward pass for the lone Eagle tally. Little "Legs" Leggett starred for the George Washington team.

WASHINGTON, 14; TAMALPAIS, 0.

The Eagles surprised Tamalpais in a game at Kezar which saw Selander recover a Tam fumble for the initial score. Cornett finished up with a twelve yard gallop off tackle to pay dirt, climaxing a long drive. LeBaron converted both times. The entire Eagle line showed great improvement. Marwedel, brilliant tackle, broke his arm while attempting to recover a fumble.

WASHINGTON, 0; SAN RAFAEL, 13.

Tricky double reverses proved to be the downfall of the Eagles in a night game at San Rafael. A 40-yard run accounted for the first score, with the second one coming as the result of an Eagle fumble on their own 5-yard line. Stevens played a bang up game for the Eagles.

WASHINGTON, 6; JEFFERSON, 0.

A night game at Seal's Stadium found Washington outplaying the Jeffs in a hard fought game to bring home another victory. The score came as Stevens broke through to block a punt deep in Jefferson's territory and Selander fell on the ball for the touchdown. The Eagles were headed for another score as the final gun sounded. Stevens and Cornett stood out.

WASHINGTON, 0; MONTEREY, 0.

A blistering hot day at Monterey found the Eagles and Monterey fighting bitterly to a scoreless deadlock. Washington came close to scoring in the last minute of play, but a field goal attempt from the 6-yard mark went astray. The terrific heat and the long trip took a lot out of the Eagle gridmen. Helmer played a rugged game at end.

WASHINGTON, 14; HAYWARD, 13.

This, the wildest game of the season, saw all of the scoring done during the last ten minutes of the second quarter. First the Eagles took a 70-yard march. Then Hayward scored twice, first on a long pass and next on a 50-yard run. On the following kick-off Leggett ran 80-yards for the final touchdown. LeBaron won the game with two beautiful conversions. The high spots of the game, however, were two brilliant goal line stands by Washington during the last two minutes of play. On one of these occasions the Eagles stopped four plays in a row inside the one-yard line. The entire team played well.

WASHINGTON, 28; MENLO, 0.

With Leggett scoring twice and Cornett and Helmer once each, the Eagles ran rough shod over Menlo, 28-0. Menlo failed to make a single first down through the Washington line. The Eagles piled up yardage at will. The four conversions were good. Menlo was the only team that Washington played all season that had no decided weight advantage over the Eagles. All the other teams held large weight advantages.

WASHINGTON, 7; BELLARMINE, 18.

Outcharging and outfighting a team that was from 10 to 15 pounds heavier per man, the Eagles played their best game of the season, only to lose by a series of heart-breaking fumbles and penalties. Poor passing was the only flaw in the Eagle defense. Bellarmine scored first on a pass and then twice more as they recovered fumbles inside the Eagle ten-yard line. Washington tallied on a 70-yard power march and threatened several times during the last half, only to find their chances blown up by bad breaks. The scrappy Eagle forward wall charged and smashed hard all day to turn in a brilliant game despite the score.

WASHINGTON, 6; ST. MARY'S, 25.

A decided weakness in pass defense and another decided weakness over right tackle proved the downfall for Washington on St. Mary's dirt field. The Eagles backs failed to defend against passes and consequently were passed dizzy all afternoon. Leggett scored for Washington on a brilliant 70-yard kick-off return.

Football managers for the Eagles this term were Tom Stern and Al Davis, who performed an excellent job.

Now for a word about the outstanding players on the Eagle grid team:

LITTLE LEO LEGGETT

"Legs," who has been the spark plug of the Eagle team all season, made two runs of over 70 yards and was a consistent ground gainer from the line of scrimmage. All-city material.

BOB STEVENS

This star guard and captain of the Eagle gridsters crashes through any opposition. He blocked three punts, on one of which Washington scored a touchdown.

DAVE LEBARON

As Eagle quarterback, he never fails to split the goal posts on a conversion. A valuable man on the squad, he'll return next year.

JACK CORNETT

"Haircomb" has made a stellar performance at the fullback spot all season. Considered an excellent blocker, he'll see another season.

JIM HELMER

Playing his last season, he was a great defense man and one swell end.

MALCOLM JACOBS

"Jake" has played an all around bang up game all season as center, guard, and tackle. This was his last season.

JACK KUCHLENZ

The heaviest man on the team, "Strong Man" is a quiet fellow, but opens holes in the line when necessary. He plays tackle.

Finishing the season with a win over Mission High school, the 110-pound basketball team tied with Lowell for first place in the A.A.A. championship.

Showing their wares for the first time this season against Lowell High School, the defending champion of the A.A.A., Washington's lightweight basketball team came through with flying colors, defeating the favorite Lowell squad by a score of 13-8. Captain Morris Silver proved to be one of the best players in the league by his grand leadership and inspired playing in this game, which, later in the season, turned out to be the championship tussle.

This sharp-shooting lightweight team had as its nucleus Captain Silver, Gerson Rosenberg, Walter Goldman, Albert Levy, Edward Powers, and Myron Harband. These six with the aid of Allan Ringel, Monroe Harband, and Harry Gershon, have breezed through their schedule.

The 110 basketeers rode right through Sacred Heart by a score of 20-10, Polytechnic by a lead of 23-11, the St. Ignatius Wildcats by a win of 31-2, and the Galileo Lions with a top score of 35-15.

Needing but one more victory to cinch an undisputed championship, the Eagles met the Commerce Bulldogs. However, the favored 110's of Washington, decidedly off form, lost in the last four minutes of play by the close margin of 19-15.

But the 120-pound team, which has had a poor season, inspired by some unknown source gave the Commerce lightweights their second loss of the season in a 13-11 victory. The Eagles had their thrill when they defeated the favorite Commerce casaba team to score their only victory of the season. The 120 quintet composed of Captain James Kaffen, Robert Shimoff, Arthur Sommers, Janarius Jardin, and Norman Franks displayed teamwork for the first time in nine weeks.

Others on the 120-pound Eagle team were: Andrew Lerios, Fred Weinrich, and Ephraim Gursky. Dick Mangan, popular young captain of the spring Vowing Sophomore team, took over the coaching of the 120-pound team for three games and did a splendid job.

The 120's have not been as successful as their younger brothers, winning only one game in six league starts. Inexperience has been the largest factor in these losses. However, this year's team should form the nucleus of a strong team next season.

The all-city basketball teams as seen by the Surveyor sports staff includes:

ALL-CITY 110's—FIRST TEAM

Forward	Rosenberg .	Washington
Forward	Baba	Commerce
Center	Silver	Washington
Guard	Lim	Lowell
Guard	McCubben .	Polytechnic

On the second 110-pound team of all-city caliber, we find Owens, Lowell, and Masuki, Commerce, in the forward positions; Bellacosta, Sacred Heart, at center; Powers, Washington, and Kugimota, Commerce, as guards.

Honorable mention goes to Goldman and Levy of Washington; Bellan, Galileo; Ravin, Polytechnic; and Millan of Sacred Heart.

On the first team of the 120 all-city rating are: Masuda, Poly, and Moy, Lowell, as forwards; Chong, Commerce, at center; Sperry, Lowell, and Lum, Sacred Heart in the guard positions.

S o c c e r G a m e s

Participating in soccer for the first time this season, George Washington was able to have only one team, that in the unlimited division. The team, which was entered in the A.A.A. competition, was under the guidance of Mr. S. Kelly.

Up against first class competition, the Eagle soccer team, lacking experience, showed determination and a fighting spirit. This year's team has a very unimpressive record, but it has made a beginning in soccer. With most of the team eligible next year, we look forward to carving our name with indelible ink in the soccer league next season.

The initial game of the season found the Eagles battling the Commerce Bulldogs, defending champions. The game was on even terms for fifty minutes in a 1-1 deadlock. In the final quarter Commerce took the ball through the Eagle's fullback and scored the winning goal. Score: Commerce, 2; Washington, 1.

In the second encounter, Washington met the Polytechnic Parrots, a team of championship caliber. Poly was leading late in the second half when "Shepherd" George Hartman scored the goal that tied the game. But the Parrots came back fighting and won the ball game in the last few minutes. Zabala starred for the Eagles. Score: Polytechnic, 2; Washington, 1.

In the Mission game Washington took the offensive for the first time this season. Two goals were tallied by Frustuk and 'Ros' Rosener. It began to look like a Washington victory, but again the team weakened at crucial moments. The final score was: Mission, 5; Washington, 3.

In Lowell, the Eagles found the strongest defensive club in the league. Playing a driving game, the Cardinals smashed through our defense and won out by a score of 2-1.

Balboa playing with a well balanced attack and defense stopped the Eagles without a goal. They drove consistently into the Eagle backfield and scored three goals. Score: Balboa, 3; Washington, 0.

The Eagles traveled to Pescadero, their first game away from home. Pescadero, playing a surprisingly fast game, defeated Washington by a 2-1 score.

Girls' Sports

Ever since its organization in November, 1936, the Girls' Athletic Association of George Washington has been busy with play days, banquets, and rallies.

The association is headed by a G.A.A. Board consisting of a president, vice president, secretary, historian, yell leader, and managers of each sport. This term's officers were: president, Adah Parker; vice president, LaVerne Minkel; secretary, Frances Young; historian, Bernice Praetzel; yell leader, Mary Trussell; assistants, Louise Payne and Marjorie Entwistle. Norma Bianchi headed the first G.A.A. Board.

To acquaint the new sophomores with the sports offered by George Washington, rallies have been presented. The guest speakers have been Ernie Smith, sports announcer, and Miss Bertha Keller, of the San Francisco Junior College.

Two play days were given with the cooperation of the G.A.A. members. Our guests included representatives from all the high schools.

As a finale to a term of sports, awards were presented to their rightful owners at a banquet.

The awards are in the form of: first chevron, numeral, second chevron, circle W, third chevron, block W, star, pin, or pennant.

The sports given in the past include: riding, golf, tennis, baseball, tumbling, swimming, ice skating, dancing, and volleyball in the spring; riding, tennis, basketball, golf, and swimming in the fall.

Under the very capable instruction of Miss F. Shearer and Miss M. Poole, swimming is now on its way to being a highly organized sport. This term swimming was taught at the Y.W.C.A. The girls were grouped into four sections according to their advancement in swimming. Miss Shearer had charge of the advanced and beginners sections and Miss Poole had the two intermediate ones. In a swimming meet at the end of the term the girls displayed their ability at diving and their form in the various strokes they learned.

All the girls who took swimming had eighth period gym so they could leave early every Wednesday afternoon. Lucille Harris and Dorothy Behrmann were the managers for all of the swimming groups.

ADVANCED BASKETBALL

Second row: Alberigi, Bassett, Griffin, Little, Hamburger, Wilkinson, Pinto, Fewer, Ohdner, Brodie, DuBois, Swartz, Bancroft.

SOPHOMORE BASKETBALL

Second row: Machakian, Barrett, Laveen, Bardsley, Bigue, Klippel, Barney, McClintic, Allen.

Second row: Swartz, Pollack, Cohen, Hill, O'Leary, Judell, Grossman.

Third row: Goldberg, Siedman, Cramer, Klein, Figel, Meyer.

Basketball & Golf

The popularity of basketball was proven by the signup of 130 girls at the beginning of this semester. Hard and fast games were played every Monday and Thursday by the advanced and beginners groups. Tournaments which were arranged by the club sponsors, Miss Dorothea Forcade and Miss Florence Shearer, were held between the two teams to decide which was the champion. The after school games were refereed by George Washington students.

Every Thursday afternoon future prospects for golf pros were seen teeing off at the Lincoln Golf Course. They alternated, one week taking a lesson, the next week playing the course. The beginners took a lesson every week. Through the patient efforts of instructor Til Cuneo the girls have learned the finer points of golf. A marked improvement has been shown by the scores of each girl. Among the outstanding advanced players were: Audrey Pollack, Maxine Meyer, Barbara Rosenbaum, Eleanor Judell, Janet Levy, and Patricia Figel. Soon many beginners may be added to this list.

Mrs. L. Clayton, club sponsor, also took advantage of golf lessons. The first golf club, which started last fall, was under the instruction of Johnny McHugh.

Manager Harriet Williams was a winner in the hole-in-one contest which was held recently on the eighth green of the Lincoln Golf Course. For this first feat she was awarded a prize. Jean Cramer was the beginners' manager.

It is probable that golf will be continued on in the spring.

ADVANCED TENNIS

Second row: Levy, Muzio, Glazer, Chesley, Little.

Third row: Banks, Khoner, Anderson, Kaplan, Bach, Riaboff.

Second row: Cohl, Rockman, Childers, Boger, Burton, Foster, Smith, Gladstone, Cohn, Schrager.

Third row: Ferreira, Kooyman, Hoots, Roemer, Cullen, Anderson, Bennett, Petzinger.

Fourth row: McNeil, Cohen, MacKillop, Heones, Weber, Coomber, Licht, Henri, Harris, Haines.

Fifth row: Wells, Schomer, Bell, Verleger, Wessel, Gallagher, Schaefer, Stayton.

INTERMEDIATE TENNIS

Second row: James, Pantoleon, Zahn, Grauneur, Bagnall, Pospisil, Behlow, Gordon, Levy, Hendy.

Third row: Harris, Roberts, Davis, Monchase, Murray, Kleinhaupt, Wilkins, Figley, Simpson.

Fourth row: Lovett, Ross, Lutz, Sellich, Eyan, Bergman, Montzores, Krummes, McDonald, Widrin.

Second row: Deturk, Hampton, Weiner, Miglian, Blak, Erlanger, Del Monte, Bergman.

Third row: Hogan, Peters, Ohe, Garlinger, Adams, Praetzel, Nickelsburg.

Back row: Stevenson, Steward, Tallman, Zaun, Schaezlein, Alger, Spector, Eisenberg.

Tennis & Riding

Good back hand, forehand, and service all go to make a better tennis game. The fine points of tennis were taught to all the young enthusiasts by Miss D. Forcade, Mrs. M. Denny, and Mrs. L. Clayton.

The advanced group started with such a large enrollment that it was necessary to scare some of the girls back into intermediate standing by the simple explanation of what it means to be an advanced tennis player.

So that the majority of the girls might profit by the invaluable instructions, the girls rallied against the walls surrounding the court. Doubles and singles tennis tournaments were planned by the three groups, beginners, intermediate, and advanced. The managers were: Norma McNeil, Nancy Bagnall, and Betty Ambrose.

Riding continues to become more popular every day. Each week two groups of equestrians trot out through the park and canter along the beach, or on the sand dunes. Mrs. M. Denny and Miss M. Poole this term have the largest riding groups in the three terms of Washington's history.

Jean Steward and Marian Garlinger, managers, helped to conduct the school gymkhana at the St. Francis Riding Academy. This horse show has been a term event since last Fall. Games such as a potato race and balloon breaking contest are played. The prizes which are awarded are the following: blue ribbon, first place; red ribbon, second place; yellow ribbon, third place; and white ribbon, fourth place. This was the first term, however, that the club has used the St. Francis stables.

SILLY SURVEYINGS

by Margaret Davis
and Adele Kuhn

In our daffy imaginings we suddenly come to the realization that we have lost a little time . . . Two hundred years! From the haze of our befuddled minds we survey the ballroom at Mount Vernon where many George Washington students are being entertained.

We are ushered in by JERRY GERSON and LARRY HOLSTED . . . After exchanging greetings we catch sight of BILL HUDSON (or is it JACK?) and JANE HARLIN, who tell us that CHARLOTTE KOVAS and PHIL BELLANCA are taking the guests by storm with a new dance sensation . . . the minuet! . . . Truckin' on down with them are NANCY GLAZER and DICK DE GRAF!

We try to stop MARIAN GEHRE and CHARLIE SMITH who are playing jacks in the middle of the floor . . . but our attention is caught by WALLACE MATSON who is sitting in a corner convincing President RICHARD "George Washington" MANGAN that black is white . . . And Wallace probably would have convinced him . . . but SHIRLEY KAHN tripped in to change the subject to cabbages and kings . . . and poems and things!

We leave them and bump into what appears to be RUTH FULTON and LANEY MCCONNELL . . . A second look behind his goatee and her powdered wig proves we are correct as usual!

Suddenly IRVING TILIN and EDWARD JOHNSON rush us into the next gavotte . . . With the lapse of the music . . . we stumble into MARTHA "Speed" BEASOM with a good-looking senator from Millpedes! . . . (or maybe it was Podunk.)

The ladies are all agog when LUELLA HILL arrives . . . She is fashionably late . . . and makes the evening an historic one by introducing the bow-in-the-hair style.

President MANGAN is provoked because HERBERT "Mother said to Mabel" MEN-EKEN is late . . . Herbert's tardiness is due to the fact that he is busy covering the Boston Tea Party!

BEATRICE JACOBS is seen among the crowd . . . feverishly selling tickets to a croquet game . . . to be held in ROBERT "Thomas Jefferson" WEINSTOCK'S back yard.

GEORGETTE KUPPER is the featured entertainer of the evening and plays many encores of her latest composition, "Way Down Upon the Potomac River."

After greeting such distinguished diplomats as MARTIN HADERLEIN and LEO LEGGETT we bump (my, aren't we clumsy!) into some of our old friends, CONRAD FONG and ROSE WOO . . . They are attempting to pirouette gracefully on the polished floor in their knee breeches and pantaloons when we interrupt them.

After collecting ourselves we decide to continue our surveying on the terrace . . . Here we are tripped by LUCILLE MARTIN who is trying to pep up the minuet! She whispers the rumor that MAXINE MEYER has found still another "Romeo."

Jubilant with this happy news we stagger on and with wild whoops of joy dash into the fresh Virginia air . . . There we find, seated on a marble bench, DOROTHY HOBBS powdering HOWARD NILSEN'S wig while he admires himself in a mirror.

As we stand on the garden path with our thumbs waving in the breeze, screeching, "Nov Schmoz ka Pop," LESTER PETERSON, MILDRED KUMMERLANDER, and IRENE KLEIN spur their dashing steeds to the shores of the Potomac.

On the river shore we perceive a strange sight . . . TOM STERN is attempting to prove to BARBARA JACOBS that a dollar can be thrown across the Potomac . . . FRANK BERMAN bursts into the scene and dives in after the coin, followed by ELAINE NEWMAN.

Nearby, in a cherry tree, we are amazed to hear JANET O'LEARY, socialite, discussing her latest idea for a surprise ball . . . She has decided to invite all the women and surprise them by not asking any men! . . . On another limb, DON DEMETREOS, BOB COHN, and BILL SEMORILE . . . are hanging by their eyebrows! TERRY TONKS has informed them that this is a good brain exerciser but they are weakening about this time . . . During their hasty descent from the famous old tree they wave fond adieus to JEAN REYNOLDS and ROBERTA ROBERTS who are gorging themselves with cherries and milk on another branch!

We turn to stroll back to the doin's when suddenly history is made before our eyes! . . . For there is GORDON MAILLOUX chopping down the cherry tree!

Following our noses to the mansion where CLARICE "Sample" COLMAR is preparing her famous "underdone lambchops" we fall into a ditch which has been made by divot-diggers THELMA ANGEL and CAMILLE HASKINS.

GEORGE SPRINGER and GILBERT PLESSMAN are seen swimming back and forth across the river in an attempt to show CHARLOTTE ALGER and GLORIA PETERS that brains aren't everything!

BILL "Paul Revere" MARTELL interrupts the festivities by whizzing in on his kiddiecar and comes the Revolution!! Among the immediate volunteers are RAYMOND "Company Halt!" In the midst of the hub-bub, our nose for news does not forsake us and we shuffle around looking for more George Washington personalities... HELEN "Boots" WEINER seems oblivious to the excitement around her as she practices a new dance routine with VIVIAN LUTZ... HAL MENDELSON is shocking the enthusiastic revolutionists by shouting, "I hate war!"

In spite of the excitement of most of the Eagles, RALPH STILLINGS and MARION MacKILLOP go right on dancing to the tune of, "If it's the last thing I do."

DAVID LEIBEL doesn't want the party to break up (?) so he leads the orchestra in "Home Sweet Home."

Before we can catch our breath FRANK FERRARIO and JACK KUCHLENZ sweep in riding broom-sticks and bang! bang! the war is on!!

BETTY HILL and NATHAN LISS desert the dance floor to suggest a game of "Button, button, who's got the button?"... but MALCOLM JACOBS upsets their plans by tackling JERRY SIRBU.

A great many patriots such as JUNE RILEY, JEAN "Sleepy" IRILARRY, and NORMA BIANCHI are anxious to do their parts in this revolutionary epic, but the writers are stumped!

Having read only to page 243 of ye goode olde historye booke, your surveyors find it necessary for their minds to drift from the dim past to the not very distant future.

A very probable (?) scene occurring at the San Francisco Exposition pops into our over-worked brains and we're off again!

Bored with this low-brow form of amusement . . . we toddle happily toward the Hall of Sciences only to find BILL CLEM and DAVID WELISCH so intrigued with the theory of so and so that they ignore us!

Irreparably wounded, we dejectedly shuffle toward an inviting hot puppy stand where what do you suppose? . . . BOB LOGAN and ERMA EVERETT are catering to thousands of starved fairgoers . . . The surprise almost ruins our appetites but the sight of ED FISHER peddling camelions distracts our thoughts from culinary desires. (Pocket-sized dictionaries will be available in room 116 upon the issuance of the Surveyor to those who are confused beyond hope!)

Back on the midway are GLADYS PIVER, wampus baby star, and her manager, "Emmy" ANN AUSTIN . . . They are at the three-minute photography studio having their "pittures took" for the ninety-ninth time! . . . It seems that they didn't like the looks of the other ninety-eight!

HARRIET WILLIAMS looms into our line of vision riding a bicycle and selling rides on the handlebars to anyone who will take her on the Merry-Go-Round!

Seeing JOHNNY "Kid Esquire" COX and ELINOR PORTER popping ballons is no surprise.

A beauty contest is being held . . . Since we scream "Woo woo!" for BARBARA ROSENBAUM, contestants FRANCESMANN, LORRAINE FALLOON, and EVELYN AKEY screw up their faces and grumble, "foo!"

After minutes of meditation we invest money for a Ferris wheel ride . . . Suddenly things grow quiet and we decide that it is time to get suspicious . . .

SILLY SURVEYINGS

So we are suspicious and hal-lejuhah . . . we are suspended in mid-air! . . . This gives us a chance for more silly surveying and we spy, directly south, WANDA BROWN "spreading the goo" with NORMAN LAZARUS . . . Dangling near them are MARSTON THALL and KAY WALL "slinging the woo" in spite of their precarious situation!

In "Eagle Gulch" cowgirls AUDREY POLLACK and MARIAN GARLINGER gallop by pursued by bad-man FRANCIS LEWIS . . . We try to rescue LOUISE JOHNSON from villain HORACE HOMER, but PATRICIA TRIPP halts us with the news that it's just a melodraama, "Mickey Mouse in Toyland" or "Three Shows Daily!" (Somebody is nuts!)

We are so confused by the gaiety and seeing so many familiar faces that when we see a little theater with DUKE "Farmer" TARPEY turning on the old personality as doorman we stumble in and attempt to sink our weary vertebrae into the cozy wooden benches.

On the stage appear BOB KAHN and VERNE ANDERSON as Ariel and Caliban . . . (No slams meant . . . we just couldn't think of any other Shakespearian characters.)

The free samples of "Fooley Gooley Teeth Preserver Gum" which ELEANOR WORKEN presents us would have been more welcome a few years back when we still had our teeth!

Suddenly a golden tenor voice booms across Treasure Island . . . BERNICE GOLDIN, winner of a hair-dressing contest, enlightens us with the information that it is none other than RONALD "Swing it" WHITE . . . He dedicates to Hitler his favorite number, "Hail, Hail, Hail!"

Twenty-three skid-foo! and we find our way to the Brazilian Building, and in the nut display find MARIE SHEGOG, MARIE PERECIC, and OLGA KASHUBA . . . gesundheit!

SILLY SURVEYINGS

PATRICIA BRUTON and ELOISE McENTEE are risking their lives as food tasters at a pastry-making contest . . . VERA LEE took the winner's cup!! (when nobody was looking.)

We forgot to mention . . . PHYLLIS SPERLING was also in the horse race we saw a while back in the gulch . . . She claims her horse wasn't only the last horse in the race . . . it was the last race in the horse!!

In some sort of a scientific building (we didn't read the sign) CLYDE LA VERNE is demonstrating the Weinstein theory: "If you don't get everything you want, think of the things that you don't get that you don't want!" . . . It is here that a mirthquake of laughter calls our attention to NORMA McNEIL and JOHN PETERSON twirling the combination on a safe trying to get KPO.

We enter the ice rink in time for the finals . . . Still in the competition are JOY "Without a Nickname" LEATHURBY and JACKIE HORGAN . . . Whoops . . . Joy does a slide that isn't in her routine . . . and she doesn't slide on her skates either.

JAMES GRAHAM is making CRACKERS at the Buffalo Bill show owned by BERT CODY . . . We are in the state of being amazed at BOB GILMORE as the proprietor of a gas station, his roaring lion in attendance. (Oh, those puns!)

While IRVING TRAGEN raves and rants on a soapbox on the subject of Consumers Cooperatives BARBARA HICKS proclaims everything he says irrelevant, immaterial, and who cares anyway?

In case any charitable reader has struggled along this far with us in our screwy rambblings . . . we are still trudging on and on . . . Hold on! Here's someone we all know! . . . Pardon us . . . it's a complete stranger!
