The Spring 1940 SURVEYOR

Typical of Washington's extensive use of the inter-room radio system is this intense young actress who rehearses her part preparatory to going on the air . . . Script writing calls for serious work to make an interesting, understandable program. Clear and concise thinking is necessary for all work, but is especially important for radio programs which depend upon split-seconds for perfection . . . Striking the gong which signals the opening of the program is the school radio announcer, who, as the voice of Washington, presides over the broadcast . . . Jotting down notes as to the effectiveness of the program and its good and bad points is the studio secretary's task, definitely an important phase in the improvement of presentations . . . Radio is a profession of highly technical instruments of which the control board is one of the most important, requiring well-trained young men to operate. Washington, having a fine radio shop and having its own studio, provides a splendid training ground for ambitious young radio operators.

BEHIND THE SCENES OF EVERY ACTIVITY ARE THOSE WHOSE GUIDANCE IS THE INSPIRATION FOR THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE STAFFS WHICH WORK WITH THEM.

TO ONE OF THOSE PEOPLE, OUR SPONSOR, MISS JANE COOK, BECAUSE OF WHAT SHE HAS GIVEN US IN THE WAY OF FRIENDSHIP AND HELP, WE OF THE STAFF DEDICATE THIS JUNE, 1940, ISSUE OF THE SURVEYOR.

We Preface Our Remarks

AT ABOUT THE SAME TIME THAT GEORGE WASHINGTON WAS STARTING OUT IN LIFE, MAKING A NAME FOR HIMSELF IN AMERICAN HISTORY, ANOTHER REVERED AMERICAN, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, WAS EXPERIMENTING WITH A SIMPLE KITE AND A KEY. HIS EXPERIMENTS RESULTED IN THE DISCOVERY OF ELECTRICITY, FROM WHICH ANOTHER GREAT INVENTION WAS BROUGHT FORTH—RADIO! LITTLE DID EITHER MAN KNOW THE INFLUENCE THAT THE EXTENSIVE USE IN THE FUTURE OF AN ASSORTMENT OF ODD SHAPED TUBES AND INTERTWINED WIRES WOULD HAVE ON THE LIVES OF ALL AMERICANS.

STILL IN ITS INFANCY, RADIO EDUCATES, ENTERTAINS, INFORMS, AND ADVISES PEOPLE OF THIS COUNTRY INTO A MORE UNITED AND DEMOCRATIC NATION BECAUSE OF ITS UNITY OF INTEREST AND ITS ABILITY TO REACH EVERY AMERICAN.

GEORGE WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL HAS ONE OF THE FEW INTRA-SCHOOL RADIO SYSTEMS IN THE COUNTRY. THROUGH THIS MEDIUM, THE STUDENTS ARE INFORMED OF SCHOOL EVENTS BY BULLETINS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS, ENTERTAINED BY SCHOOL GROUPS, EDUCATED BY VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE PROGRAMS AND SPECIAL SPEAKERS, AND TRAINED IN THE USES AND ADVANTAGES OF RADIO IN GENERAL. IN OTHER WORDS, THE BENEFITS ADMINISTERED BY RADIO TO THE ENTIRE NATION ARE REPRODUCED ON A SMALLER BUT EQUALLY EFFICIENT SCALE AT GEORGE WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL.

IN THE ENSUING PAGES WE HAVE ATTEMPTED TO SHOW HOW RADIO IS CONNECTED WITH OUR SCHOOL LIFE. WE ARE YOUNG; RADIO IS YOUNG. AS CONTEMPORARY STUDENTS OF A NEW SCHOOL, STARTING OUT IN LIFE, WE WASHINGTONIANS MAKE USE OF THE CONTEMPORARY INVENTION, RADIO, WHICH HAS JUST MADE ITS START.

We, The People

In this world of machines, of science, and of electricity, the ideas and the activities of the people still are of primary interest.

With all the paraphernalia of modern equipment, we present now the people of Washington whose ideas and whose activities are so much more important than the means they use to further them.

Here are the student governors, the students who are representative of all phases of school life, the academic, the social, the extra-curricular. Tomorrow's men and women, under whose guidance today's achievements will be multiplied a thousandfold, are the ones who join together under one great title—"We, The People!"

Mr. Ernest J. Cummings, our principal, whose quiet firmness maintains in our daily broadcasts the high standards for which our school is noted.

Studio's Chief Executive

A goldfish in a tank must find his horizons uncomfortably close except in one direction—up. The limitations of the gold fish in his environment carry some suggestion of the limitations that you are likely to feel in your own: Your training, how short it is of what you had hoped it would be; your experience, how little; your ability to compete for employment, how limited by this insufficient training and how hampered by this lack of experience!

That's where the other dimension comes in—up. The reach that way is vast. It is the one direction in which the present expands into the future without a break. If fate seems a little unkind to you in keeping you unsettled for a while, perhaps it is to hold your gaze to the blue. You stop looking up when your nose is on the grindstone of routine.

It is not enough just to look upward, you must strive to get upward. In this particular you have the advantage of the gold fish; he would gasp for air if he leaped too far, but you can breathe better and more freely up there.

Suppose you can't do much about it just now; look up anyway. Before jobs, between jobs, between promotions you will never then acquire the hangdog shuffle of boredom or discouragement.

When you get started, and all of you are getting started, choose only the trails that lead upward. You will recognize these trails easily because they are not crowded and you have learned already to scan them from here. Steep trails are for you young people anyway, for you have the strength to climb. Be sure you use your strength that way. With this advice and this encouragement we send you on your way to success: chin up, head up, vision up.

*"Above the world is stretched the sky
No higher than the soul is high."*

VOICED BY OUR DEANS

MR. WIELAND

School days are often regarded as a time of preparation for the life that is to follow, just as if life were divided into distinct and definite stages. And indeed, our graduation ceremonies at various levels of the school system make this appear to be the case. In strict reality, however, life is not divided into stages of preparation and accomplishment. All life is development, all life is accomplishment. It is a continuous experience in which the only constant factor is change. Nor is development entirely a matter of conscious planning.

That bundle of habits which we call character, and which distinguishes one individual from another, is the product of all your experiences. The people with whom you associate at play affect your character just as surely as does the teacher who instructs you in English, or Geometry, or Military Drill.

And so as the class of June 1940 leaves George Washington High School, we ask you to take stock of what school has meant to you in experience. Not only what lessons have you learned? but what friends have you made? What habits formed? What sort of a person are you becoming?

George Washington High School, with all the high hopes and earnest efforts that are being expended to make it the best high school in our city, has but one way of justifying its existence. That way is through you. If your life here has helped you to become a happy, active, well-balanced citizen, then the effort has been well expended.

MISS JACKSON

In extending felicitations at this graduation time, I wish that I might bid you Godspeed into a world of peace, a world in which interesting pursuits might be followed in security and without fear. That it is not such a world you well know. Confusion and uncertainty are very real. There is, however, one thing that is sure, namely, that whatever the world is, it is your heritage.

As you go out into it now, as graduates, how are you going to take it and what are you going to do about it? Here lies a challenge. Just as surely as you are the heirs of the present world, so are you the makers of tomorrow's world. You may want to be indifferent to this fact. You may say, "So what?" assuming an attitude of "I can do nothing about it." You may wish to escape, withdrawing into selfish interests or into useless blame of others or of fate. Or you may pretend that there is no need for improvement.

Fortunately for civilization there is another attitude, one that most properly belongs to youth, to those who say, "Life may be hard, but we love it. The world is hard, we know, but we are in it; we are part of it. We can face it courageously. Surely our effort can make it different."

It is out of such an attitude that the power comes to make tomorrow better than today. It is out of an effort to put meaning into life, "to make the ideal the real" that an improved world will come. In such an attitude and in such an effort, too, lies the sterling happiness that I wish for each of you.

MR. RAPHAEL who teaches chemistry, and sponsors the Great Books Group, is interested in the study of astronomy and in gardening. He listens to "Town Meeting" and the "Standard Symphony," likes Charlie McCarthy. "The Life of Pasteur" is his choice for an outstanding movie, Paul Muni is his favorite star.

A school is dependent upon its faculty to a great extent for its success since the teachers are the ones who remain and carry over from one class to the next the spirit of idealism and of achievement, who foster always the growth and betterment of those who pass through the halls.

Each teacher deserves our gratitude and sincere appreciation for the effort he makes to add something of value to our lives. But, of course, during each term certain faculty members stand out by reason of their more active participation in student body affairs.

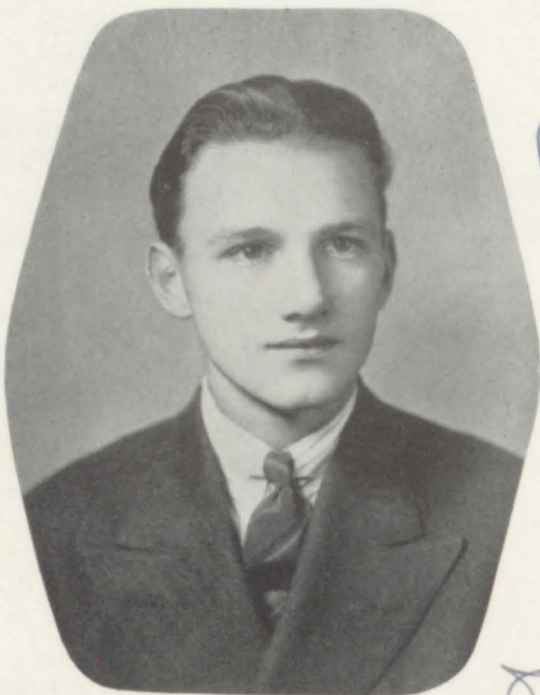

Charming, red-haired Miss Cullinan will long be remembered by the seniors because she was advisor of the student social activities committee. With her added touch, student body dances and rallies were highly successful. Of course, no students participating in activities can ever forget Mr. Burke, whose job was cold finance, but whose eyes were warm with laughter. Nor Mr. Taylor who, with Miss Cullinan and Mr. Burke, was co-sponsor of student body organizations.

In the memory of every senior Miss Kirwin will hold a prominent place. Senior sponsor and therefore advisor for Senior Day, Senior meetings, Senior Prom, and final, glorious Commencement, her deep interest and helpfulness will always mean a great deal to all the students who are graduated from George Washington.

Quiet but friendly Mr. Morton will always be greatly appreciated for his advice and help to the high seniors in his capacity as Senior Counselor.

MRS. GOWAN teaches German, European culture, high school geography, sponsors the German Club, enjoys writing. Her favorite radio program is the "Standard Symphony," she likes Kate Smith, chooses "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" as the movie of the year, and James Stewart as the best movie star.

Authors and Critics

Albert C. Levy, member of Washington's champion basketball team, was president of the student body. He proved himself to be an able and worthy leader of his school, furthering its glory and its achievements.

Bobbie Lee Weidner, the Washington songstress, completed a very successful term as vice-president. She was in charge of the school's social activities. The minutes of the executive meetings were ably taken care of by Eleanor Schwarz, secretary.

The treasurer was James Connor, who with his new sales angles managed to sell the idea to most students that they should buy student body cards.

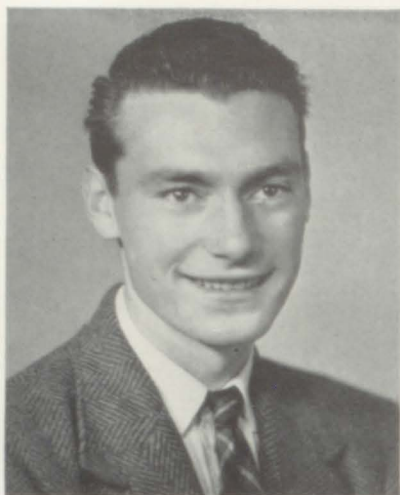

John Cleary, custodian of the trophy case, had a more difficult job to perform than did his predecessors because of the addition of several trophies to the prized collection, but he was no less successful in keeping the cups and plaques in good condition. Warren Hewitt, athletic manager, was largely responsible for the tremendous sale of tickets to the basketball games.

The school spirit displayed at the rallies and games was largely due to the pep and personality of Yell Leader William Cummins and his assistants, Gilbert Ellis and Robert Amore. Jack Gardner and Warren Lowenbein served as assistants during the first part of the term.

Included in the campaign for the sale of student body cards was the continuation of competition between classes, the one having the greatest percentage of student body members being awarded an exclusive dance. For the second consecutive year the low sophomores were victorious.

"Hello Day", which is gradually becoming a Washington tradition, was climaxed by an afternoon dance. Many new friendships were formed on this card-signing day. Washington's first night dance was successfully held in the new gymnasium, as was the leap year dance, in which the girls did the leading, as well as the cutting-in.

Studio Hosts and Guides

As it has each term, the Eagle Society, under the sponsorship of Mr. Leith, maintained its high standards of service to the school. Through its many activities and duties the society has proven that it is one of the most helpful organizations at George Washington.

The officers for the term, who so capably directed the activities, were Al Dutil as president; Louis Demartini, as vice president; and Arthur Scott, as secretary. The main duties of the members were to keep order at rallies and at the basketball games, to arrange and clean up after dances, to watch the traffic on the stairways, and to be ready to help anyone at any time. Besides their regular duties, the boys also had some social activities. A semi-annual barbecue was held at Sigmund Stern Grove, and a student body dance, given in conjunction with the Girls Service Society, was held on May 24.

Using the new system for electing boys into membership, boys from every grade were chosen. Those meeting the requirements and elected into the society were Bill Brown, John Cleary, Bill deRecat, Jack Dooling, Warren Hewitt, John Kockos, Angelo Maestri, Ernie Ribera, Morris Silver, and Ed Smith.

Those boys who are graduating are: Bill Brown, Tom Clark, Louis Demartini, Al Dutil, Dick English, Warren Hewitt, Al Levy, Angelo Maestri, Ernie Ribera, Arthur Scott, and Morris Silver.

Studio Hosts and Guides

With the desire to help their school and to do their utmost in the field of service, the Girls Service Society has participated in many helpful activities this term. Through the assistance of the officers, Jean Hosmer, president; Nancy Gallagher, vice president; Barbara Wilder, secretary; and the supervision of Miss Jackson, the society may boast a very successful term.

True to their aim, their activities included keeping order in the halls, in rallies, helping to keep the school grounds clean, and giving assistance to other girls whenever the occasion presented itself. Other activities included an initiation dinner held at Sigmund Stern Grove to which the parents and teachers were invited. An alumni dinner was also held.

The new members who were elected into the society were: Winifred Biehl, Sophie Ellis, Beverly George, Louise Horne, Annette Klepper, Ruth Maltzer, Helen Price, Lorraine Rogers, Evelyn Siegel, Barbara Stevens, and Betty Verleger.

Those who are graduating out of the society are: Leona Asmussen, Winifred Biehl, Beverly George, Jean Hosmer, Barbara Keith, Susan Kuh, Helen Price, Lorraine Rogers, Barbara Stevens, and Betty Verleger.

THE EAGLE

Bringing the news of the day for the Scarlet and Grey, the Eagle, Washington's newspaper, came out six times this term. With Annette Klepper as editor and Katherine Rucker as assistant editor, some very fine editions were put out. Other members of the staff were: John Gray, business manager and Dorothy Morris, advertising manager. The feature writers were Florine Levinson, Bob McHenry, and Dan Kurzman. Arthur Scott, Barbara Wilder, Morris Silver, Dick Stone, and Charles Preston took charge of the sport page. Those who were reporters were: Helen Winter, Dorothy Danziger, Claire Leeds, Allene Vollmer, Ebbert Webber, Catherine Parac, Dan Flanigan, and John Edwards.

On St. Patrick's Day, the Eagle came out all in green, right in the spirit of the day. In honor of the championship basketball team the inside page was a pictorial section of the varsity team. There were comments by the players, and the edition was truly a huge success.

It was only April Fool, but many of the students did not realize the joke for a long time. On April 1, the Eagle, or Seagull, full of feature stories that were only jokes, came out to fool the student body. After reading in the headlines that movie star Lana Turner was coming to Washington, many students became very excited, until they learned that it was all in fun, an April Fool joke. This issue was given away free to student body members.

Miss Jane Cook was editorial sponsor, and Mr. Frank Lyons was in charge of sales and circulation.

THE SURVEYOR

Because of the great number of outstanding events that have occurred this term, the Surveyor staff decided to produce Washington's largest journal—96 pages. The staff combined new ideas of make-up with a greater number of pictures to give the student body what they hope is a truly representative journal.

There were many obstacles to be overcome, particularly in the registry and club pictures' delay, caused by Ol' Jupiter Pluvius. However, when the sales mounted over 1500 and the picture schedule worked out all right, the task of putting out the Surveyor became a bit smoother.

The editor is Albert W. Levy who is aided by Barbara Keith and Arthur Blum, assistant editors; Lee Wenger, art editor; and Gloria Dengel, senior editor; Waldo Putzker and Dorothy Danziger, photography editors; Bob McHenry and Mal Cronin, publicity directors. Staff members are: Armond Kirschbaum, Chantry Dunning, and Louise Horne, art; Claire Leeds, photography; Dewey McKown, publicity; Marilyn Firstenfeld, Jim Conner, and Kay Rucker.

The business phase was handled by Janice Schark, manager; Bob Elliott, advertising; and Muriel Kohner, circulation.

Miss Eleanor Parsons was circulation adviser; Mr. Thomas Gates, advertising adviser; Miss Haidee Tobriner, art adviser; and Miss Jane Cook, editorial adviser.

CALIFORNIA SCHOLARSHIP FEDERATION

Washington's Chapter 403 of the California Scholarship Federation has had a successful term under the able leadership of Miss Eleanor Parsons and Miss Bernice Bilafer, and its officers, President Charles Crompton, Vice President Louise Horne, and Secretary Phyllis Mirsky.

To become a member of the Federation it is necessary to receive ten grade points a term. A's are counted for three points, B's are counted for one point, and a C or lower disqualifies a student. Four terms, one in the Senior year, are necessary for life membership.

The object of the society is to raise scholastic standards of the public schools. Washington's chapter has helped to do this by being one of the first schools to inaugurate the student coaching system. Students who belong to the Federation volunteer to help pupils who have troubles with their studies. Such coaching is done approximately every other day before or after school.

During this term, the C.S.F. went to a convention at Stanford University where they were the official guests of the university. They were shown around the campus and entertained by Palo Alto High School. At this meeting Evelyn Siegel was elected vice-chairman of the Central Region of the C.S.F. Members of the Federation also attended the State convention at St. Mary's High School and College.

Among the activities sponsored by the C.S.F. were the school book covers, sold for one cent each; literary and oratorical contests; and dances.

A program committee of members of the Federation helped teachers make out student programs at the end of the term.

One of the most important social events this term was the dance the Federation gave for its members. Two students of the C.S.F. from each school in the city were invited.

With a membership of 108 this term, one of the largest enrollments in the city, the Federation ended a successful term with their semi-annual banquet, having lived up to their motto, "Scholarship for Service."

And Now We Pause For

Program Interruption

Tense expressions of school lawmakers denote a pressing problem! What to do! What to do! This term's Student Council passed many new and important bills and maintained Washington's democratic system of student government.... "Come on and buy your journal. It seems the thing to do!" vocalizes petite Margie Hunter to the accompaniment of "An Apple For the Teacher" as played by Gloria Baldocchi on the piano. It is, of course, the Surveyor Song written by Louise Horne and publicized by Mal Cronin. . . . "Magnifique" breathe the Rembrandts of Washington, Lee Wenger and Armand Kirschbaum, as they glance over a previous Surveyor. . . . "Aw, come on, girls, let us in on the secret." . . . Blowing for all he's worth is this very earnest Eagle band member. Ambition such as this brought our band many laurels this term. . . . Washington's shops are a training ground for future engineers and this fellow is out to make the most of it. Here, he's hard at work over one of the school's many new machines. . . . The "Flirtation Walk" of Washington is especially popular on a nice sunny day as these lolling students will testify. Among these "participants" are Al Levy, Marv Miller, Bill DeRecat, Warren Hewitt, Virginia Tosch, Lois Lindeman, and Leland Barret. . . . Some very earnest junior mechanics dissect a bit of America's great habit, the automobile. . . . "Just strolling along" might well be the title of this scene. Notice the grand background of the distant Golden Gate and Marin Hills. Yessir, Washingtonians really mix business with pleasure. . . . Here's the Minutemen's favorite habit—eating. Notice, will you, that the only ones in this picture are the world's greatest diet advocates, Washington's women. . . . Shucks! This isn't any candid. These girls are posing. Oh, well, the scenery in the background is nice, too, isn't it? . . . This group of boys is well known as the Minutemen Musicians; the fellows who comprise one of the finest high school bands in San Francisco. Here they're practicing in the new stadium.

Here is the class with an exceedingly successful record of "Special Days." For every single term, these Low Seniors have succeeded in staging the most ingenious and frolicking of class costume days. This term was no exception, when, under the leadership of athletic and good looking Jack Gardner, they produced their "Spring Fever" day which was replete with a rally, dance, and amazingly different costumes. Aiding Jack were John Kockos, vice president, and Beverly Carr, secretary. The class project was the sponsoring of attendance.

Low Senior specialights were Mary Mangan, Executive Council and Dance Committee member; Jack Hickey, Executive Committee; Bob Simpson, R.O.T.C. adjutant and member of Social Affairs Committee; Don Scranton, Eagle Society and Dance Committee member; Don Michalian, artist "magnifique"; Annette Klepper, Eagle editor and chairman of Hello Day publicity; Jim Lindsay, earnest, hard working, and thrifty treasurer; Yvonne Grabau, "aide de camp" to class officers; Henry Lapkin, R.O.T.C. captain and fine drummer; Arthur Blum, Surveyor associate editor and Low Senior publicity chairman; Angelo Maestri, basketball star; Dick Stone, Fred Lear and Don Logue, also outstanding hoopsters; "Bud" Paden and Mel Simpson, baseballers; and Kay LeRon, songstress. There are many more to name in this grand class, but space forbids.

The Low Seniors have selected their pins, rings, blocks, and sweaters, and are now set to join the next term's Passing Parade.

Supervising the High Junior Class this term were: president, Sam Gevirtz; vice president, Adrienne Tourney; and secretary, Betty Ann Conner. Leading the class in producing rally talent and bolstering school spirit to a new high were no easy tasks but these stalwart leaders heaped glory on themselves by putting their class activities over with a bang. This was proved by the rallies studied with new stars, the extra-large total of student body cards sold and the spirit behind making "Mush" Silver the most popular basketball star and sending him to Denver.

The High Juniors had more than a little to do with Washington's first night dance in the gym on March 29. The affair was a huge success and a great big thanks should be given to this class.

The Junior's hilarious "Famous Character Day" was entered into wholeheartedly by them. The gala rally and dance climaxing the day were "super" and fun was had by all!

And speaking of famous characters, the High Juniors can claim quite a few who need no costume. Some of these are: Eagle Society members; Johnny Contos, former class president; Bill de Recat, former class president and grid star; and Jim Phelan, former executive council member. Girls Service Society members: Ruth Maltzer, former class officer and artist; Evelyn Siegel, famous debater; Nancy Gallagher and Barbara Wilder, both of whom were former class officers and present officers in G.A.A. Then there are those debaters rendering laurels to our school: Helen Rosenberg, Janet Irvine, and Alan Thompson. The class had its share of athletes on the basketball team this term, some of them being: Marvin Miller, Werner Strahlendorf, and Louis Franz.

Cooperation seems to be the slogan of the low junior class this term. With the help of Miss Jelinski, their new counselor, the Low Juniors, led by Donald Ellis, president; Ruth Mangan, vice president; Natalie Willard, secretary; and Morton Zimmer, Lorraine Loge, and John Henderson, council representatives, completed the busiest and most successful term in their history.

Their campaigns to boost attendance put Washington well on the way to having the best attendance record in the city. Not satisfied with one accomplishment they gave publicity to all school activities and boosted the cooperation of the student body with their school.

Earlier in the term, the Low Juniors acted as hosts and hostesses to visitors during public school week, guiding Washington's guests to their destinations and helping to avoid crowding of any one portion of the building.

Together with the High Juniors, they made a success out of their feature day, "Famous Character Day," by coming dressed as well known characters from every phase of life, and later attending a dance in the gymnasium.

On the side the Low Juniors have some famous characters of their own. They contributed Donald Ellis, Morton Zimmer and Steve Biggart to the basketball team. Howard Peterson has sung at rallies and Gloria Marx appeared on several G.A.A. programs as their featured songstress. Norma Eisner and Ben Lees have helped to bring glory to Washington through debating and Elaine Fairchild was an alternate for the Shakespearian contest.

Claiming the distinction of having the school beauties as well as some of the hardest workers, the High Sophomore Class has proven itself outstanding in virtually all respects. Its scholarship has been high, its participation in school activities noteworthy, and its officers, earnest and intelligent workers. The Hi Sophs were led by tall, good natured Ted Harris of the basketball playing Harris twins. Its vice president was shy, hard working Marie Blum. Alice Penna was the ever smiling class secretary. Executive Council representatives were Ray Brown, Lois Lindeman, and Theodora Tjoenos.

The main activity was the sponsoring of Traffic and Safety Week. Students from each registry were assigned various hallway sections and stairways to patrol and put into practical use the idea of safety.

On the final day of the week, a radio quiz was held on Traffic, which culminated an earnest effort of the High Sophomores to promote a safety campaign for Washington.

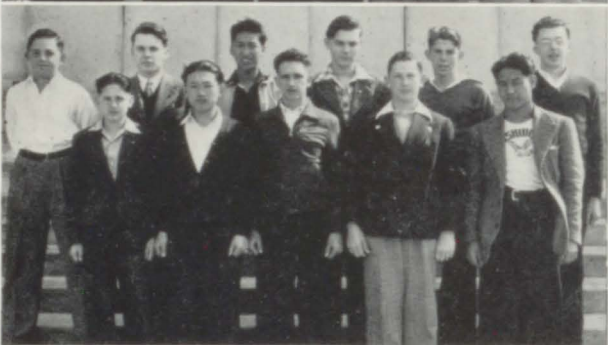

Highlighters of this term's class were Barbara Schlegel, Eagle representative; Dorothy Burrell, who helped the class officers quite a bit; Phil Harris, basketball player, Katherine Penkoff and Winifred Palmer, singers superb; and Paul Frumpkin, the fellow with that wavy hair and those jumpy grasshoppers that he mistakenly carries with him. Lou Jean Keller and Dorian Goldman were among the participants in the radio quiz.

BOB ENGLAND
President

RUTH FISCHER
Vice President

ROSALIE DYGERT
Secretary

The "baby class" of George Washington High may certainly boast a term full of success and fun. At the first meeting of the class the officers to conduct the term activity were elected with Bob England as president. Bob was capably assisted by Ruth Fischer, vice president, and Rosalie Dygert as secretary. The class also sent three representatives to the Executive Council, and, therefore, had its share in making the laws of the school. The three students were Marilyn Adams, James Wiley, and James Cook.

The first social activity was the Senior-Soph reception held in the library. As the class has many pretty girls, the senior boys were only too glad to get into the spirit of the day and dance with these "little" Low Sophs.

The next event was the Clean-Up Day and Dance. Every term it has been the custom for the low 10's to have charge of keeping the school grounds clean, and one day is set apart for a general cleaning. For this occasion, each registry was assigned a certain section to clean and the judges, Mr. Wieland, Mr. Baker, and Ruth Fischer, decided which class had done the best job. But the clean-up campaign did not end there; each registry still has its assigned place to clean and each Friday the places are checked.

The low sophs also deserve a great deal of credit for winning the Student Body Card Drive. Although it is the newest class in the school, it had enough spirit to sell a greater percentage of student body cards than any other class. As a reward, a dance was held April 12, to which only low sophomores could go.

and Singers

Every phase of music, including voice and instrumental training, and music history and appreciation is covered by class and extra-curricular activity at Washington.

MUSIC CLUB

The Music Club, sponsored by Mrs. Myrtle Swanson, has done a great deal to further the appreciation of good music. It has participated in the school radio broadcasts and has contributed nearly four dollars to the Metropolitan Opera Fund. The semi-annual party was held at the home of Duke Euphrat, president of the club. At the meetings, the club has been entertained by talented members, and has had the opportunity to hear many of the best symphony orchestras and famous singers and musicians by means of a complete library of phonograph records.

CHOIR

The A Capella Choir or mixed chorus, directed by Mrs. Swanson, is probably one of the most outstanding music groups of its kind in the West. It was one of the few high school choirs chosen to participate with college, university, and high school singers representing six western states in a radio program given over the National Broadcasting System. This achievement is an honor of which any school might well be proud. The choir has also appeared at Open House, at graduation, and at the P.T.A. programs.

THE GIRLS' CHORAL

A group of gifted singers, the Girls' Choral under the direction of Mrs. Swanson, has taken part in many activities, including the George Washington and Abraham Lincoln commemorative programs on the school broadcasting system, at Open House, at graduation, and at the P.T.A. programs.

ORCHESTRA

Having played at important events such as Open House, the graduation exercises, and at an all-city fashion show held at the exposition, the thirty members of the advanced orchestra have completed a successful term, under the direction of Mr. Marion Knott. There has been a great deal of interest shown in instrumental music this term. The instrumental classes have increased from three to six, and enrollment has grown from 115 last term to 166 this term. These facts are a definite prophecy for more and better instrumental music at Washington.

SWING BAND

The Swing Band, also sponsored by Mr. Knott, has played at most of the dances, rallies, and basketball games, including the two night games, and at the senior play, "Slightly Delirious."

Star Theater

Just as no big-time radio schedule is complete without play-by-play broadcasts of the exciting games of skill and daring in the field of sports, so our Surveyor broadcast would be unsatisfactory without the presentation of those stars of this season, the athletes who have brought championship and honor to our school.

Sports and sportsmanship play an important role in our lives, providing entertainment, building character, and teaching us the rules of the game. To those people who have best demonstrated these ideals, to the high school heroes of today, our athletes, we dedicate our "Star Theater."

Stars of the Season

WASHINGTON vs. GALILEO—39-33

The Eagles, bent on winning the championship, quickly established an early lead at the half time. The second half saw the Minutemen shoot like collegians to build up a lead of 18 points. Then things began to happen. Galileo's Burke and Sperry went on a rampage, cutting down the Eagles' tremendous lead with alarming regularity. However, the superior ball handling of Washington managed to stave off the Lion's rally and the game ended in a 39 to 33 win for the Eagles. Maestri was high with 11 points.

WASHINGTON vs. POLYTECHNIC—28-27

With Gus Mota leading the attack with 17 points, Poly's pestiferous Parrots caused Washington to have nervous prostration. The lead changed from one team to the other in the hectic 32 minutes of basketball that had 3,000 fans in a screaming frenzy. Finally three successive field goals by Captain "Mush" Silver in the last quarter decided the issue, which was a slim one-point victory for Washington. Silver stood out in one of the grandest prep battles in years.

WASHINGTON vs. MISSION—34-25

Coach Leith's faith in the scoring power of his front rank forwards and centers bore fruit as Washington shellacked the Bears in a fast game. Dutil, Miller, and Maestri hit the hoop too consistently, thus denying an out-classed foe the chance for an upset. Al Dutil shone with 12 points.

WASHINGTON vs. LOWELL—22-20

The game of the year—for the championship. 5,500 fans jammed Kezar and witnessed an electrifying clash. For one full half Lowell led by the slimmest margin. The game had narrowed down to a duel between Dallmar and Eddie Conlan. The third quarter reached dramatic intensity when, with the Minutemen 1 point behind, Lowell's Dallmar was ejected from the game on personal fouls. Then in a deathly silence Hank Maestri sank a free shot that tied the game. But with the true spirit of champions, the Indians forged ahead again on a sensational field goal. The fourth and final quarter was a real mad one, the Eagles in a desperate attempt to overhaul the Indians, and Lowell battling from one end of the court to the other at a terrific pace. Finally, Maestri bucketed a goal to tie it all up. And as the crowd went haywire, Maestri, a few minutes before the gun went off, batted a tip-in—the ball teetered precariously on the rim of the hoop as thousands gasped, then slowly it fell through for the final two points and Washington's first victory over a Lowell varsity squad.

Champions All!

WASHINGTON vs. COMMERCE—36-23

With the Lowell team rooting for a Commerce upset, the Eagles were out-fought in the first half of a thriller-diller and led only 14 to 13 over the last place Bulldogs. Then in the second half, Silver and Maestri started an avalanche that didn't stop till the Eagles ran up 18 straight points and a 36 to 23 triumph. Maestri and Silver were high with 11 points each.

WASHINGTON vs. SACRED HEART—24-17

With Angelo Maestri leading the team with 8 points the Eagles outplayed the Fighting Irish in a slow, low-scoring game.

The first half was a repetition of the Commerce game, with the Minutemen leaving the floor with a 14 to 13 advantage after having been behind most of the time. However, in the rather dull second half, points by Maestri, Silver, English, and Conlan gave Washington a seven point victory and gained them another rung on the ladder to championship.

WASHINGTON vs. BALBOA—50-22

Unleashing the most furious attack of the past season, the Minutemen crushed the hapless Buccaneers in one of the most amazing games of prep history.

Coach Leith's boys renamed themselves the "Two-Point-a-Minutemen" by scoring 50 points in less than three quarters. The Eagles, working their scoring plays to perfection, scored bucket after bucket, as Silver connected sensationally on long shots, Conlan on push shots, Miller, Dutil and Maestri from both long and short distances. Coach Leith held the score down by yanking the first team and playing the second and third team the whole last quarter.

WASHINGTON vs. ST. IGNATIUS—29-25

With the championship virtually in their grasp, the Eagles gave their supporters a severe case of the jitters as they pressed too hard in the first half, enabling St. Ignatius to battle them on even terms.

The game started in whirlwind fashion and the Wildcats built up a 7 to 0 lead in the early minutes. However, Miller, Silver, and English, carrying the brunt of the attack, pushed the Minutemen into a slight lead at half time. The second half saw the Eagles pull steadily away on lightning fast plays. Then, with but a few minutes to play, S.I. suddenly exploded. In no time flat they whittled Washington's lead to a mere one point. Here Captain "Mushy" Silver rallied the team together and they once again forged into a commanding lead. Then as the gun sounded to chalk up another victory for the Eagles, there was a hushed silence—then a crashing roar from the jubilant crowd of Washingtonians; for the old king was dead. A new monarch was crowned. Long like the king!

Step Into Spotlight

130 POUND BASKETBALL

Due to an astonishing winning streak of six consecutive games, the Eagle 130 pound basketball team flashed into second place at the end of their most successful season.

In the first game of the season with Galileo, Washington, without the services of several of her key men, lost a thriller by the close score of 32-29. If the Lions hadn't stalled in the last few minutes of play, Washington might have pulled through with a victory. As it was, this triumph gave birth to an inspiration that carried Galileo to the loop championship.

In the Poly game, the Eaglets just couldn't get started, and lost to a brilliant Parrot team by a score of 24-18. Jack O'Brien led the Washington scoring with six points.

Washington finally displayed the ball playing of which they were capable in the Mission game. Trailing by 2 points at the half, the Eaglets came to life in the second portion of the contest. Lear, Stone, and Terry went on a wild-scoring spree to pile up an amazing 35 points in 20 minutes of play, and win 46-27.

Washington's superiority over Mission was overwhelming and the game will go down in Washington history as a masterpiece of ball handling and deception on the part of the Eagles.

Performing before a packed pavilion, Washington stalled in the last few minutes of the Lowell game to win

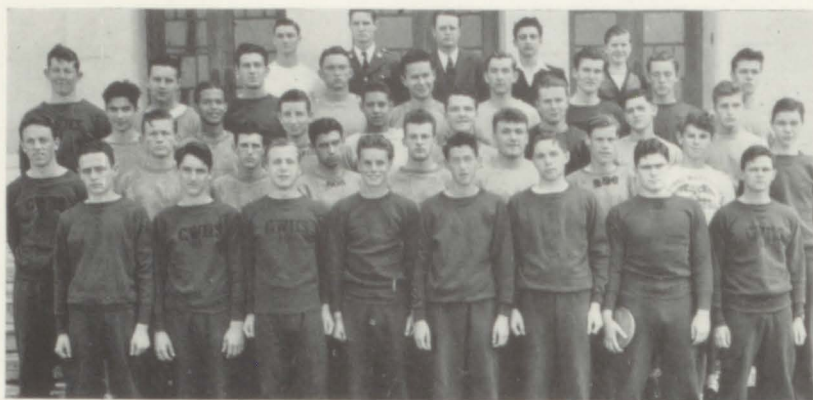

19-18. Although the Eagles had complete control of the game in the first three quarters, the Indians staged a desperate rally in the latter part of the contest to scare the confident Washingtonians. Ed Lapuyade, with his perfect ball-handling, and Dick Stone were the standouts in this game.

Commerce, a greatly respected team in the league, was defeated by the Eagles, 28-26, in a thriller-diller. Louis Franz really came into his own in this struggle, his rebounding and shooting being sensational.

Before a large holiday crowd, Washington defeated a fighting Sacred Heart team 22-16. Although at times the Irish were dangerous, the final outcome was never in doubt. The remarkable rebounding of Fred Lear was largely responsible for the Eagle victory, as was Don Ellis', who garnered high point honors with 10 points.

Louis Franz again went wild in the one-sided Balboa game, to score an amazing 15 points out of Washington's total of 26 points, limiting the Bucs to 16 points.

In the last game of the season, the highly rated St. Ignatius 130 pound team went down to defeat before the magnificent playing of the smooth-working Washington quintet. Although the Wildcats seemed as if they might break the Eagle winning streak, they found Franz, Stone, and company too hot to handle, scoring 21 points to the Minutemen's 27.

Players in Supporting Roles

Finishing their season with a fifth place in the city meet, the Washington Varsity Track Team of 1940 was superior to the teams of the past two years. Coach Charles Schefflin developed a well balanced team that was a credit to Washington.

One of the features of the meet was the clash between George Canfield, captain of the Lowell team, and Ernie Ribera of Washington. Both boys entered the race with undefeated status and hoped to break the record. Ribera led for 428 yards when Canfield opened up and passed the Eagle flyer to win by five yards in the fast time of 51.2 seconds.

In the high jump, Kent Holmes leaped 6 feet $\frac{3}{4}$ inch to take first place for the Minutemen. Ken Fink and Kenny Spargo concluded the scoring for Washington by taking fourth places in the 880 and mile respectively.

Paced by Dick Fraenkel, who finished second in the 110 pound 75 yard run, the Eagle Lightweights placed sixth. Ray Malouf finished third in the 120 pound 220 yard run; Vic Warriner jumped into fourth place in the high jump; and the 130 pound relay team placed fourth. Howie Shields qualified for the finals in the unlimited 220 yard run and is expected to be the star of next year's team.

Players in Supporting Roles

BASEBALL

Coach Sylvester Kelley's baseball team, consisting of inexperienced sophomores and juniors, ended their A.A.A. season in last place. The Eagles had a very strong defensive outfit but their hitting was weak. With the returning of almost the whole team next year, Washington should improve in hitting and be a threat to the triple A title.

In the first game of the season, Frank Loughery, Eagle chucker, held the powerful Commerce Bulldogs to only three runs while the weak hitting Minutemen could garner only one run off the slants of Johnny Luscutoff. Against Poly the Eagles were defeated in a hectic seventh inning 8-6.

The following are the members of the baseball team: Catchers: Bud Paden, Bill Sibold, Ray Melliush. Pitchers: Loughery, Bob Baker, Fred Rosenberg. Shop Stop: Fred Bacigalupi. First Base: Jack Connell, Al Miller. Second Base: Ed Smith. Third Base: Mel Simpson, Bob Moser. Right Field: Ernie Mann, Johnny Henderson. Center Field: Frank Maganaris, Joe Platt. Left Field: John Vahanian, John Gazarian, Eugene Steffen.

Contenders for Titles

SWIMMING

Scoring 13 points in the finals, Washington's unlimited mermen captured fifth place in the A.A.A. Aquacade, Saturday, May 11. Lowell, St. Ignatius, Poly, and Galileo finished in the upper division in the order named.

One of the features of the meet was the diving contest between Washington's Dick Jacobs and Poly's Jack Farnham. Both of these boys thrilled the crowds with difficult dives. Jacobs won the contest for the only first place for the varsity. Myron Jacobs and Jim Semson placed fifth in the 100- and 50-yard free styles, respectively.

The 200-yard relay team of Dick Brey, Myron Jacobs, Dick Jacobs, and Jim Semson finished in third place.

In the lightweight division, Washington accumulated 38 points for a fourth place. Warren Willard paced the lightweights with a first place in the 50-yard free style and a fourth place in the 100-yard free style. Louie Franz surprised the experts by taking third in the 50-yard back stroke. These two boys swam in the 130-pound division.

Phil Damner, who was a first place winner for the past two years, was upset in the 120-pound 50-yard breast stroke and finished only third.

Athletics For Health and Fun

TENNIS

George Washington's tennis team, although boasting only a few veterans, was comprised of many able athletes. The singles squad was composed of Dick St. George, Warren Lowenbein, Ted Harris, and Burnell Letsinger, with Jack Werner and Bill Poole as alternates. St. George and Lowenbein were outstanding performers.

The doubles team included such smoothly-working combinations as Murray Mattal and William Lum, Malcolm Weinstein and Edwin Kaphan, Jim Billings and Jack O'Brien, Allan Wollenberg and Roy Oliphant, and alternates, Bill Richards and Bob Schaezlin.

In a tournament with State Teachers College, the Eagles' ace singles team swept all four matches, while the doubles squad bowed to the more experienced Staters.

As many of the players are sophomores and juniors, Coach Fagin predicted that Washington would have a banner season next year.

GOLF

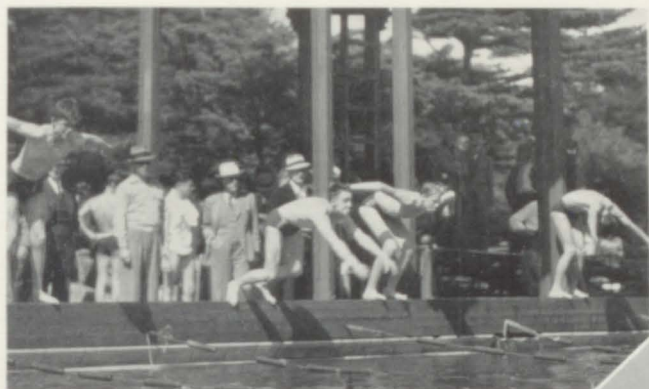

George Washington's golf team, although failing to win the A.A.A. championship, was composed of a number of excellent players, six of whom were edged out in the semi-finals of the city tournaments. They were Dick Bawden, Jerry Abraham, John Kockos, Jack McChesney, Bill Dunsing, and Bob Dickinson. The fact that all the boys had a score of less than 80 was of great consequence to Coach Fagin, who expressed confidence Washington would have a championship team next season.

Sterling Sturgeon and "Obie" Baloff qualified in the first round of the tournament and were valuable assets to Washington's reputation. Most of the golfers, including the sophomore sensation, Jack McChesney, who has a 76 to his credit, will be back next season as polished veterans and should uphold Coach Fagin's prophecy.

Muscles tense, figures crouch, the gun barks, and they're off! The all-city swimming meet at Fleishhacker Pool is on, and seconds later a new champ will be crowned. May the best swimmer win.

Graceful as a swan is this Eagle diver, as he cuts the air like an arrow, cleaves the water like a fish, and comes up with more points for Washington.

"He dives through the air with the greatest of ease, this graceful young man who soars through the breeze." Once again, Dick Jacobs takes off for additional points for the Eagles.

Presenting Our Sportswomen

EXCERPTS FROM THE PERSONAL DIARY OF SPORTS-GAL "SAL"

Jan. 2—Ho hum! Vacation is over. Feel sluggish as a snail. Wish G.A.A. would hurry and begin so I could get some exercise and fresh air in me. It'll be swell meeting again with the girls once a week after school and making a lot of new friends. Wonder what sport I'll take?

Feb. 5—Please pardon me, Diary, for neglecting you for so long but with all the confusion of getting books and straightening out programs I haven't had time for anything else. Found out what sports were being offered this term. Monday—Softball with Miss Forcade and Badminton with Miss Orr. Tuesday—Volleyball with Miss Shearer. Wednesday—Swimming with Miss Orr, Badminton and Ping Pong with Miss Shearer, Paddle tennis with Mrs. Clayton, and Ice Skating with Miss Poole. Thursday—Bicycling with Mrs. Clayton and Badminton with Miss Poole. How's a girl s'posed to decide with such a group of perfect sports?

Feb. 16—Met a girl today who didn't know a thing about G.A.A. Nearly fell over that someone should be missing out on this grand organization. Explained to her it was like a big club with a president, Mary Mangan; a vice president, Barbara Wilder; a secretary, Sophie Ellis; an historian, Nancy Gallagher; and three of the peppiest yell-leaders ever, Dot Buller, Mary June Dygert and Eleanor Rittler. Feel I've done my duty to help someone on the road of good sportsmanship and heaps of fun.

Feb. 23—Lucky me! Got a preview of the gym before it officially opened. But sh-h-h! That's a secret. My, but is our gym scrumptious! Everything anyone could possibly want! And what a beautiful shiny floor. It has a basketball court, volleyball courts, badminton courts, ping pong tables, shuffle board, and oh just everything! Then downstairs—why, it's perfect! Individual dressing rooms and tile showers and the most cheerful room for girls who take individual gym. But I've told you too much already, Diary, I'm trusting you to keep my secret.

Feb. 27—Did we have fun today! All the girls were invited to a G.A.A. sign-up rally in the Gym. We're really in the gym. It seems too, too good to be true. Chairman Wini Biehl and her committee: Jeanne Wallace, Mary Mangan, and Barbara Wilder, planned a perfect program. It helped me finally to make up my mind to take volleyball as my sport.

Mar. 5—Sports really began this week! It was wonderful playing in the gym.

Mar. 8—Managers have all been elected in the various sports. We're going to have a simply wonderful board this term with Jeanne Zaro, manager of softball; Gloria Land of volleyball; Lois Lindeman of swimming, Barbara Zaun, Ethel Swingle, and Jean Pierce of the three sections of badminton; Virginia Bopp of bicycling, Beverly George of ice skating; and Louise Hughes of paddle tennis.

Apr. 16—The Board played hostess to the faculty of the school today. Showed them around the gym. Everyone thought it was grand. But who could help thinking so?

Apr. 17—Ooooh! I feel sick. Went on a weenie roast at Sigmund Stern Grove today with the Board and ate too many hot dogs. Never want to hear K-9 (canine) again in any way, shape or form!

Apr. 24—Open House—Never saw so many people in my life, asking so many questions! The Board was hostess in the gym and it seemed as if that was the main point of interest tonight!

Who Know How to "Play the Game"

May 19—Where's my rubbing alcohol? Block W—girls who have won their block by going out for sports for six terms—under president Helen Price; vice president, Betty Levy; and Secretary Virginia Thomas invited us (the Board) to go on a hike with them up Mt. Tamalpais. And I do mean up! Oh, what fun, but ooh, what pain!

May 24—What a day! What a day! Never had so much fun in all my life! The Board played the Block "W" in baseball after school. That old feud between the two is still raging. No one seems to know what started it or even what it is now but "There's no feud like an old feud."

In the evening all the Board went to a night baseball game. Golly! It was fun. Don't know which I feel the more sick from: yelling or that pop corn and those candy bars. Nevertheless had a wonderful day and I went to bed brimful of baseball.

May 27—Shaking knees and trembling voices predominated today when the candidates vied for offices in G.A.A. Doing a swell job were Beverly George, chairman of the candidates and Barbara Zaun, chairman of the election.

May 29—What a marvelous day! We had a big jinx in the gym climaxing the end of sports. All G.A.A. turned out and we all had oodles of fun under Mary June Dygert's excellent chairmanship. It's been a wonderful day, wonderful entertainment, wonderful time and this is such a wonderful bed . . . so . . . good night.

Girls' Athletic Association

Mary Manfian, G.A.A. president, has had a swift rise to the top in school affairs. She entered Washington as the past Student Body President of Presidio. She was immediately elected low sophomore prexy. This was soon followed by her election to the low junior chair. She has been on the executive committee for the past two terms and is a member of the Girls' Service Society. She is particularly noted for her ever-smiling personality and cheerfulness.

Barbara Wilder, she of the dimpled cheeks, is the G.A.A. vice president and is at the same time secretary of the G.S.S. and active in school affairs. She is ne of the most ardent feminine sports enthusiasts in Washington.

Sophie Ellis is the busy G.A.A. secretary, and also a member of the G.S.S. She has been a constant asset to all girls' activities.

Nancy Gallagher is the popular G.A.A. historian and G.S.S. vice president. She is well known for her artistry, drawing both posters and dance bids.

Dorothy Buller, effervescent G.A.A. yell leader, has been one of the grandest boosters for girls' sports during her stay at the hilltop school. She graduated frm Roosevelt Junior High as girls' yell leader, with the consuming ambition to become a yell leader at Washington. This term Dorothy has fulfilled her wish.

These fellows, representatives of Washington's spirit, are showing how Captain "Mushy" Silver was acclaimed most popular basketball hero in Northern California.... Washington! Washington! The Passing Parade

With memories of successful and happy years, the seniors of Spring 1940 are going on to a new phase of life in this term's Passing Parade. The program that follows is dedicated to them, to their activities, and to their history. Their three years here have been eventful and fruitful. Now they are moving forward to newer fields, but the school is the better because they left it so. They have finished their high school careers, but what they have accomplished for Washington will remain like signposts to point the way to those who follow in the ever-moving Passing Parade.

SCENES FROM "SLIGHTLY DELIRIOUS"

Special Program Piece

Filled with mystery, humor, and romance, the term play, "Slightly Delirious," produced by the seniors under the direction of Miss Archer, proved a huge success. Presented in Girls High Auditorium on Friday night, May 3, the play was acclaimed by all who saw it.

The riotous comedy was based on the antics of an amnesia victim, supposedly James Hathaway Cantaloupe, portrayed by Jim Conner. Mr. Cantaloupe received a serious blow on the head, and though he soon regained consciousness, he suffered from amnesia. Incidents were further complicated by the robberies committed by a jewel thief, played by Lloyd Volpe. Huxley, the butler, played by Bob McHenry, added to the comedy by his superb acting at the disappearance of Lulu, a frog. The maid, Maudie (Betty DeLu), in her love scenes with Huxley, really made the crowd roar with laughter. Virginia Summerville as the society woman, and Georgette Cailleaud as her daughter Stella, were very excited at the strange happenings. Their attempts to get Stella married to Mr. Cantaloupe almost proved successful, but the idea was not very advantageous as Mr. Cantaloupe proved to be only Algy Angel, a ping-pong champion. Lulu, his girl friend, played by Doris Little, helped clear up the mystery. The jewel thief was captured by Edward Allan, a young detective. Alma Pollack played his girl friend.

Others in the cast included Art Scott, a business man; Betty Verleger, his wife; John Edwards, another business man; Virginia Allen, his wife; Muriel Tweedie, a young girl; and Howard Marg, a policeman.

Miss Archer was assisted by Muriel Weiser, student director, and Phyllis Martin, assistant student director. Music was supplied by Bill Devou and his "swing band." Harry Bier had charge of the stage settings and stage crew.

SCENES FROM "SLIGHTLY DELIRIOUS"

One of the more awkward situations which so complicated the seniors' term play is pictured in the photo (upper left). Mrs. Lister (Jean Klootwyk) enters . . . to find that two young ladies (Alma Pollack and Betty Verleger) have fainted in her husband's arms (Arthur J. Scott). When Algy (Jim Conner) comes in from the beach (upper right) on the shoulders of his rescuer (Ed Allan) he is mistaken for the wealthy Mr. Cantaloupe. Much horrified at the sight are Winifred Biehl, Marjorie Hunter, Georgette Cailleaud, Virginia Summerville (left) and Betty DeLu and Bob McHenry (right). . . . "Lulu!" But the call is in vain. (Inset) Lulu the frog has disappeared and all the frantic searchings of Betty DeLu and Bob McHenry fail to locate her. Cast group (lower left) shows Seated: John Edwards, Eleanor Schwartz, Phyllis Martin, Jim Conner, Virginia Summerville, Betty DeLu, Doris Little. Second Row: Jean Klootwyk, Jane Wiman, Winifred Biehl, Bette MacKillop, Alma Pollack, Georgette Cailleaud, Marjorie Hunter, Betty Verleger, Howard Marg. Third Row: Ed Allan, Bob McHenry, Malcolm Cronin, Virginia Allin, Muriel Tweedie, Lloyd Volpe, Arthur Scott, Henry Dickow, Jean Bernadou. Back Row: Louis Menkin, Muriel Weiser, Charles Jones, Don MacLaren, Jim Conner. . . . One of those moments in rehearsal (lower right) . . . Announcers' Biography

This year's Senior Class will graduate, leaving behind it a very full term. Under the very competent sponsorship of Miss Marie Kirwin, and with Dick English as president, the class has enjoyed many activities. Dick, assisted by Barbara Stevens, vice president, started things off with a bang with the Senior-Soph reception. A dance was held in the library, and the senior boys had a chance to dance with the low soph girls and vice versa. Everyone agreed that the day was very successful.

The senior class also helped the low sophomores by means of the senior advisors. Capably handled by Charles Crompton and Helen Price, these advisors, selected from all the senior registries, each had three newcomers to guide. The duties of the advisors were to try to interest the new classes at Washington in the various activities and to help the students with any difficulties they found.

Senior Day was held on May 3 with Funny Paper Characters as its theme. A rally and a dance were held on that day, and all the activities were conducted by the high seniors. Dick English was chairman of the dance committee, and he was assisted by Lorraine Rogers, class secretary; Warren Hewitt, Bob McHenry, Betty Verleger, Emil Tenud, Alma Pollack, and Ernie Ribera. The dance was held in the gym, and all the seniors had fun.

Bob McHenry, class treasurer, had charge of collecting Senior dues this term. One student from each registry had charge of getting the dues from his class. The money was used to help pay for the dance and the graduation bids.

Then on May 3, the senior class presented the annual Senior Play, under the direction of Miss Archer and with an entirely senior cast. Sidney Stern had charge of publicity, and Girls' High Auditorium, where the play was given, was filled to capacity.

This truly successful term will be completed with the Senior Prom to be held on June 7. The dance will be held in the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel. Warren Ringen's Band will play, while the seniors, decked out in their best formal clothes, will dance at their last high school social activity.

Final event and climax of the term, of course, will be the Commencement ceremonies June 10 in the War Memorial Opera House, at which Charles Crompton and John Duryea will be co-valedictorians, speaking on a student panel with Gladys Peyser, Jack Taylor, and Muriel Kohner, who were also very high in scholastic rating. Miss Edith Pence will be guest speaker.

DICK ENGLISH was President of the Senior Class, was an Eagle Society member, and a Senior Advisor. He played basketball on the championship team. Likes Bob Hope. Going to St. Mary's.

BARBARA STEVENS was Vice President of the L-10 and H-12, a member of the G.S.S., and a Senior Advisor. Golf and riding are her pet sports. Likes Fred Waring. Dentistry at Marin J.C., and then California.

LORRAINE ROGERS was H-11 and H-12 Secretary, Tri-Y Secretary, and in the G.S.S., besides being a Senior Advisor. Kate Smith and Bing Crosby are her favorites. She will enter the business world.

BOB McHENRY was Low Senior Secretary and High Senior Treasurer. He also was on the publicity department for the Eagle and Surveyor. He likes Bob Hope. "Mac" will study advertising at S.F.J.C.

Officers Training Corps

With an unusually high reputation to maintain, George Washington High School's Reserve Officers Training Corps battalion, under the leadership of Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Virgil Revie and the instructorship of Sergeant F. Feliciano, has been making every effort this term to earn again the title of Honor School. Last year the Eagle unit was rated one of the thirteenth highest schools in the Ninth Corps area in the annual judging in which nearly fifty schools in the Area compete.

Another triumph of the corps last term was the winning for the second time in a row of the Commandant's Cup, which designates the best marching battalion in San Francisco.

Furthermore, the R.O.T.C. has established an enviable record as far as scholarship is concerned, for every term except one an R.O.T.C. cadet has been valedictorian at graduation exercises. This term, Lieutenant John DUYEA of Company C is co-valedictorian.

Among the events on the calendar for this term, the most important was the Federal Inspection, held on the Washington drill grounds on May 9. The inspecting officer was Lieutenant Colonel James G. Monahan, Cavalry. On the program of the day were a battalion parade, combat principles, scouting, patrolling, musketry, and theory.

Later in the term, on May 28, Washington participated in an R.O.T.C. demonstration held on Treasure Island. This demonstration was held in lieu of the annual Spring competition usually held in the Civic Auditorium. A guard mount, consisting of one platoon and the band, represented George Washington, performing in the Court of Nations.

On the following day, May 29, some two hundred cadets of the unit had charge of approximately five thousand Junior Traffic Patrol students who gathered from all over Northern California for their annual meeting.

Then to finish up an eventful month, May 30 saw the complete battalion participating in the annual Memorial Day Parade to the National Cemetery in the Presidio.

The band under the leadership of Warrant Officer William Devou and Drum Major William Walker participated in all the parades and added greatly to the color and dignity of the battalion. Mr. Marion Knott was faculty instructor of the band.

The Rifle team was successful in defeating West High School in a telegraphic match held in March and finished its season by placing third in the city and seventh among all the schools in the Ninth Corps Area. It also participated in state and national matches.

Sounds Offstage: Rattle of

They say competition is the spice of life, therefore the Eagle R.O.T.C. is of a certainty leading a rich life. For here is competition to be found everywhere, competition as to which is the best company, competition as to the finest platoon, and competition among the cadets for non-commissioned and commissioned officers' berths. However, most important to the Marching Minutemen is their competition with other schools in which they have been highly successful.

And of course, these cadets mix business with pleasure. When the fellows went to the Fair two days in a row, they had one grand time, that is, after they had discharged their duties as both marchers and ushers.

One of the features of every battalion parade was the dipping waving Drum Major's hat. It resembled a tall West Point top-piece with a plume to add splendor to it. The band itself wore flashy red and gray crossbelts, thus the whole R.O.T.C. musical organization presented a glamorous picture as they marched up and down the Parade Grounds.

Company A under Captain Ernest Ribera won the cup awarded to the best company of the term.

The Marching Minutemen prepared extensively for the Federal Inspection by having two four-period drills during which they went through combat principles, scouting and patrolling, and musketry.

George Washington's unit emphasizes modernity in its drill as can be seen at any and all battalion parades.

Swords and Beat of Drums

Moving pictures of America's participation in the first World War were shown to cadets May 21. Scenes of the "Yankees" in the major battles of 1917-1918, both on land and sea and in the air, were shown. The armory itself is an up-to-date combination arsenal-range-and classroom. Maps, a sand table, rifle cleaning table, and a supply room are additional features of this "West Point of Washington." One of the best equipped of all San Francisco schools, R.O.T.C. cadets are truly proud of their "barracks."

Every term sees stiff competition between the four companies and their captains for the coveted Marshall Trophy, awarded at the end of the semester to the most efficient company.

One other example of the service rendered the school by the cadets has been the ushering at each Commencement. This year they were also ushers at both the afternoon and evening performances of "Span of Gold."

Along the social line were the various military dances.

The annual R.O.T.C. Military Ball date was set for May 31, with the formalities and fun taking place in the Boys' Gymnasium. Dancing was done to Bill Devou's and his swingsters' music.

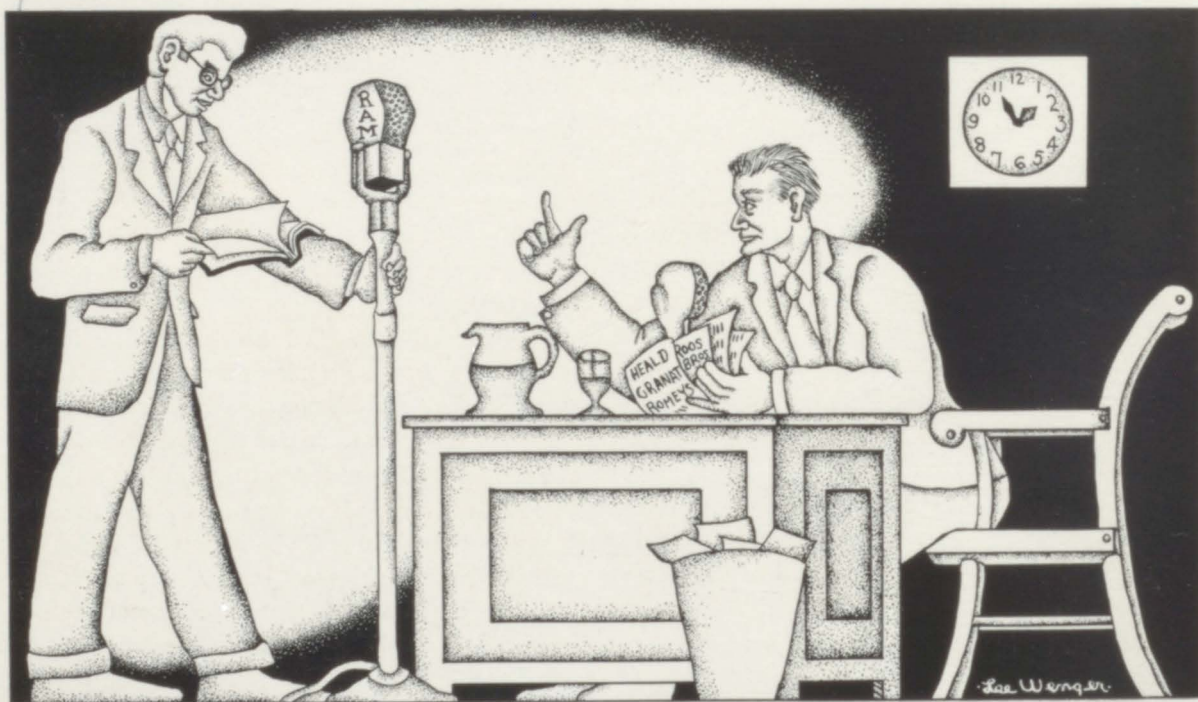

Of course all the theme of the day was military!

At press time, plans were nearly complete for the semi-annual Saber Club dance to be held at the Hotel Mark Hopkins on June 5, Captain Henry Lapkin, chairman of the social committee announced.

Three years ago, into the sacred halls of good ol' G.W.H.S., timidly walked a bunch of wide eyed kids. (We call 'em Sophs). They had no sooner found out who their registry teachers were, than they were dragged (some kicking and screaming) into the Washington social whirl; the first whirl being the Senior-Soph reception. The next big event for the "new kids" was the first Sophomore "Clean-up" Day. (Pick-up, don't scatter!).

Presiding over all these doings were the low sophomore officers: Walter Preston, president; Barbara (Stevie)

To their high sophomore terms these poor young innocents struggled. There was another "Clean-up" Day and stuff and junk like that there, under the auspices of Howard Oser as "prez"; Marge Hunter, "assistant prez;" and Jean Hosmer, secretary. Dick English first came to the fore during this term as captain of the 130-lb. basketball team.

Along their merry way skipped these happy students, sopping up education here and there and learning how to be people—(whatever that is). Their low junior term was a "peachy" success. The kids were beginning to get over being bashful, and the aforementioned social whirl was given a new spin. Marge (Personality Kid) Hunter, president; Betty Verleger, vice president (this was truly a "petty coat regime"); and Tom Schibush, secretary, were the officers who helped plan and carry out the "Hey-Day" in conjunction with the High Juniors. This was a gala event and Shop 5 bulged and pulsated with people and rhythm all afternoon.
