Dedication

When the Red & White editors sat down to decide on the dedication of the 1947-1948 journal each wrote this question on a separate piece of paper:

"Which faculty member has served Lowell students faithfully in a difficult position for many years?"

Each editor jotted down two names, a first and a second choice. The slips were compared. They had made the same first choice—Mr. Monroe, dean of boys. The Fall Red & White staff was then asked to comment. Their approval was unanimous.

For sixteen years Hudson M. Monroe has been Lowell's dean of boys. Spend only one day in his office and we're sure you'll reach the conclusion that to be able to maintain a cheerful attitude after sixteen years of such a life would be somewhat of a miracle. He has done just that.

Mr. Monroe is not the stern, convicting type of boys' vice principal such as graces some high schools. Instead, he is a friendly fellow who meets a boy with a straightforward, assuring, "What's yours, brother?"

Born in a small town near Cincinnati "some time in the latter part of the nineteenth century," he entered a "college" (the quotations are his) in the vicinity, from which he graduated to teaching in Indiana. The call of the West shortly took him to an Idaho mining hamlet and a job in the assay office. A railroad was put through to the place and one of its first passengers was Mr. Monroe, enroute to a principal's job at The Dalles, Oregon, later to a like position at Calistoga, California.

With the beginning of World War I, he layed aside his tweeds for khaki to serve in the mud of France with the Army. After the Armistice he went to the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, for graduate work. Completing his university work, Mr. Monroe came to San Francisco and, after years in business, returned to teaching—at Commerce High—then to the position of secretary to the Board of Education.

In June, 1932, he became Lowell's dean of boys.

Sixteen years of listening to the trials and tribulations of boys, teachers, and parents, has trained him to be judge and jury; prosecution and defense; and still be known as "friend" to countless Lowell boys.

For such an achievement in human relations we are proud to dedicate this 1947-1948 Red & White.

The Principal's Message

Lowell proudly boasts that its history goes back to 1856, the year in which San Francisco added Latin, Greek, and other high school courses to the program of the old Lincoln Grammar School. In this way was founded the first public high school in California.

Since that early date and those very meager beginnings, Lowell has had many homes, has changed its location many times, from Powell Street in downtown San Francisco west to Sutter Street, and in 1912 west again to our present school on Hayes and Masonic. As "Westward the course of empire takes its way," so may Lowell follow its destiny and move ever westward toward the setting sun. Lowell will change its home again, but the spirit of the school must remain constant, faithful to its traditions of scholarship, leadership and character, made strong by a fervent love of humanity and by faith in the future of mankind.

In 1926 Mr. F. H. Clark, a true scholar and principal of Lowell for many years, in calling upon the devotion of his students to the ideals which have made Lowell great, gave this slightly modified translation of the old Athenian oath. As a fitting ending of this short message to you, may I again quote this oath:

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our school, by an act of dishonesty or cowardice, nor ever desert our comrades; we will uphold the ideals and sacred things of the school, both alone and with many; we will revere and obey the city's laws, and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others; we will strive unceasingly to quicken the general sense of public duty, and transmit this school greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

MISS G. LORIGAN

The Dean of Girls

Miss Lorigan, our attractive dean of girls, has been at Lowell High School for only a year and a half. In that short time, she has become a part of the tradition of Lowell. She is advisor to most of the school clubs and especially the Shield & L, the girls' honor society. Being the dean of girls does not mean Miss Lorigan only helps the girls. She is one of the advisors to the Scroll & L and custodian of junior and senior class elections. Besides being a sponsor of many activities, she solves many daily problems which confront the girls such as health and attendance difficulties. She is always in her office, 117, to lend a helping hand to a misguided freshman or a senior in trouble.

Miss Lorigan graduated from Lowell, after which she entered the University of California across the bay at Berkeley. After spending four years at college, she received her diploma and started out on her teaching career. Her first high school position was at Galileo, where she gave instruction to many students in two courses, history and senior civics. She came to Lowell in May, 1946, as vice-principal.

One of Miss Lorigan's best qualities is her fairness in dealing with students. When a controversial issue arises, she goes about solving it with the most impartial policies anyone can have. Miss Lorigan is respected by parents, teachers, and students alike.

OPPOSITE PAGE

No, these people are not students who just couldn't leave Lowell. They are the registry teachers who have high senior students in their registry rooms. Next term, many of these teachers will have their hands full with new low freshmen entering Lowell. How many instructors can you identify?

Those in the panel are Mr. Barker, Mrs. Kuhnle, Mrs. Lo Forti, Miss Mensing, Mr. McCord, Miss Peckham, Mr. Polland, Mrs. Haven, and Mr. Stewart.

Low Juniors — Fall 1947

The Low Juniors of fall '47 began using their new-found freedom of being high and mighty upper classmen early in the term. The traditional class election was held, and out of the many able candidates running for the honor of holding an office, three popular winners were picked. Jim Plessas, president; Margot Helmuth, vice-president; and Adolph Rosekrans, secretary.

Later in the term the L3's held the first dance of the season, "The Hillbilly Holiday." It was a great success with "Paw" Plessas, "Maw" Helmuth and "Uncle Jed" Rosekrans heading the parade. Dances such as the "Revenooers' Ramble," "Pig Pen Polka," and "Hick's Hangover" were made possible by the help of Fussers, Louise Barsotti, Irene Schimmel, Sue Leveira, Joan Higley, and Wilma Hirsh; Fighters, Tom Dewey, Jim Barnett, Forrest Anderson, Ron Vogel and Hal Messenger.

As the term wore on, many of the boys in the L3 class were playing football, and one of the outstanding members was Fritz Fenster, who was hurt after saving several important plays in the first Washington game. Some of the other members were Dan Grundvig, Bert McReynolds, Al Revere, Jerry Malone, and Adolf Rosekrans.

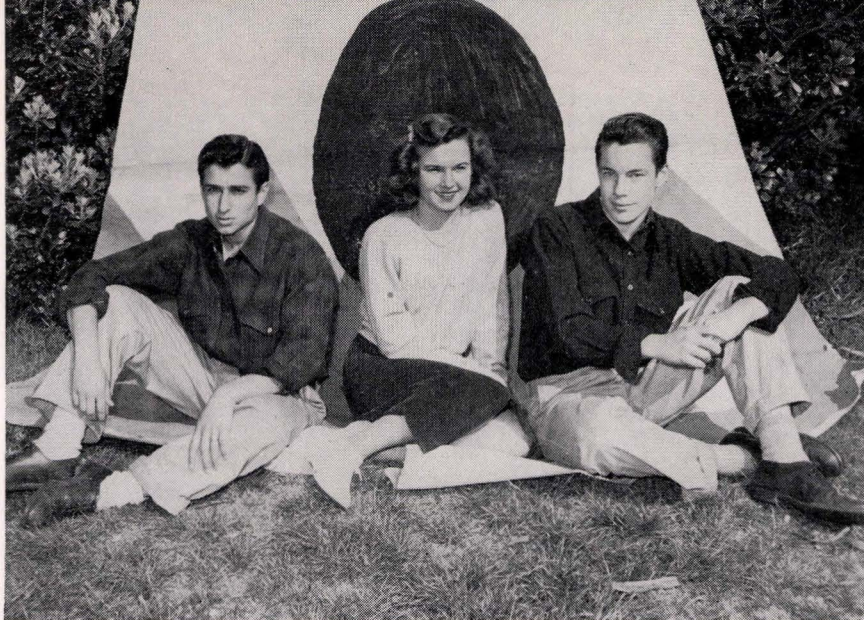

While the football season went on, the term passed gradually. Many of the Low 3's participated in school sports and clubs. At the Block L Rally the L3's saw a few boys become members of the Scroll & L and others win blocks.

The term was done; the Low 3's were H3's and their wonderful semester belonged to the past.

Low Juniors — Spring 1948

The low juniors of Spring 1948 started their new term with a bang. As newcomers to that "high and mighty" group of upper classmen they were the first class to hold elections for officers. Out of the many "muchachos y muchachos" who ran for the honor of holding the offices, the lucky trio who won were, Grant Settlemier, president; Jo Ann Brye, vice-president; and Dan Benatar, secretary.

Right after Easter vacation the L3's presented the first dance of the season, "South of the Border." The dance was a big success with "Cisco" Settlemier, "Senorita" Brye, and "Don" Benatar heading the parade with the able help of "Senor" Smith. Dances such as the Siesta Slump, Tamale Trot, Manana Mingle, and Poncho Prance were made possible by the help of Muchachos Irene Agorastos, Barbara Fishtrom, Nancy Lamb, and Briget Wallerstein. Muchachos Sterling Bunnel, Ed Mayer, and Jim Rosenthal.

Florence Stanley, Irene Agorfastos, and Nancy Lamb all helped to make the Junior Red Cross become a big part of Lowell.

Many of the boys of the low junior class were active in basketball, baseball, and other sports during the term.

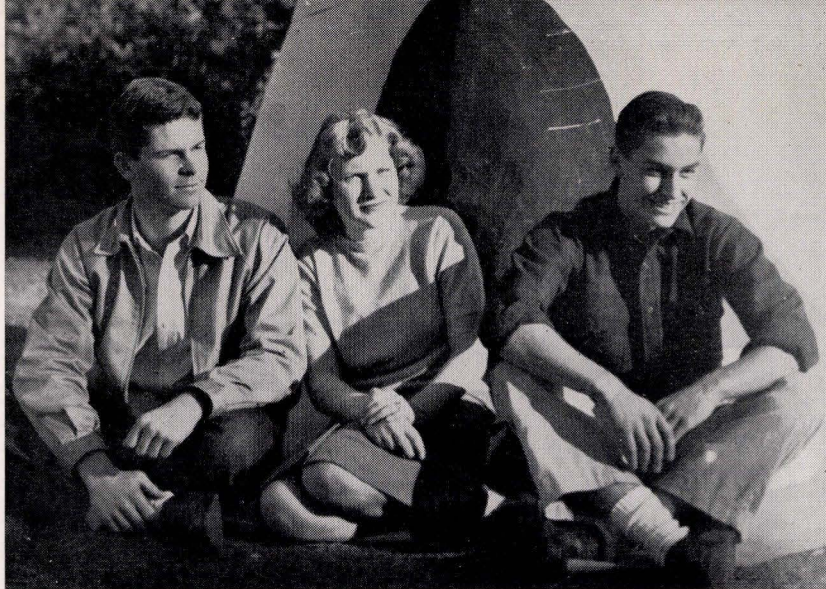

So, with rallies and school dances the long Spring term passed and the members of the L3 class saw many of their classmates receive honors and some boys win Block L's for sports.

The wonderful spring term ended. The L3's longingly let their rose-colored cloud drift into the past, but still looked eagerly forward to their H3 term.

It's football season!

Vacation is over and the Fall H3's have got to elect their class officers. The Winnahs! Big Chief Bill Hooy, Chief Squaw Ann Schiessel, and Beebo Hughes, boy stenographer. The injuns got the ball rolling by giving the "Eskimo Escapades," one of the best dances seen on the reservation.

The H3's contributed to quite a few school activities. Frances Olivares and Jean Susnow on the Shield and L, and Al Baciocco on the Scroll and L, represented the class on the honor societies. The journalists of the tribe were Robert Horn and Hyman Berston on The Lowell staff.

H3 squaws Caroline Brett, Jo Anne Cannon, Diane Grosso, Jo Ann Jepson, Janet Jones, Lois Herting, Kiyono Mizuire, Frances Olivares, Audrey Pomerantz, Claire Preisser, Janet Stone, Jeanne Susnow, and Janice Wacks helped the little papooses on the Big Sisters.

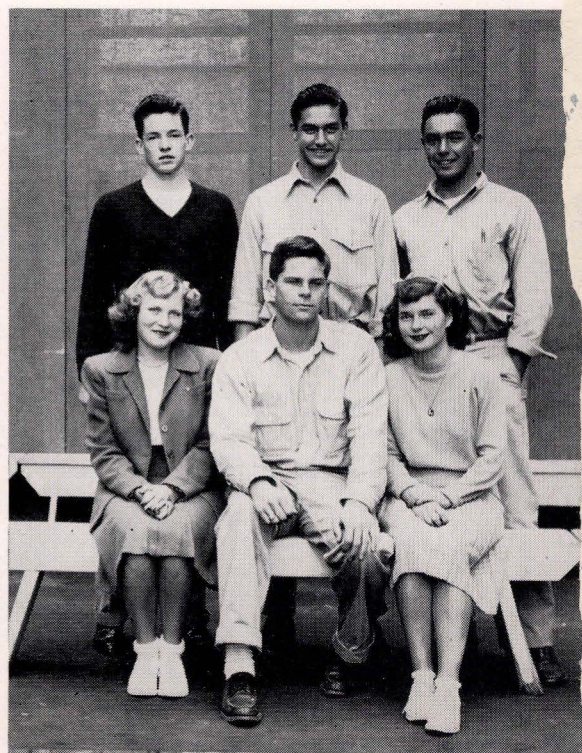

Naturally, kind Brave Rudy Suarez helped the poor papooses on the Big Brothers.

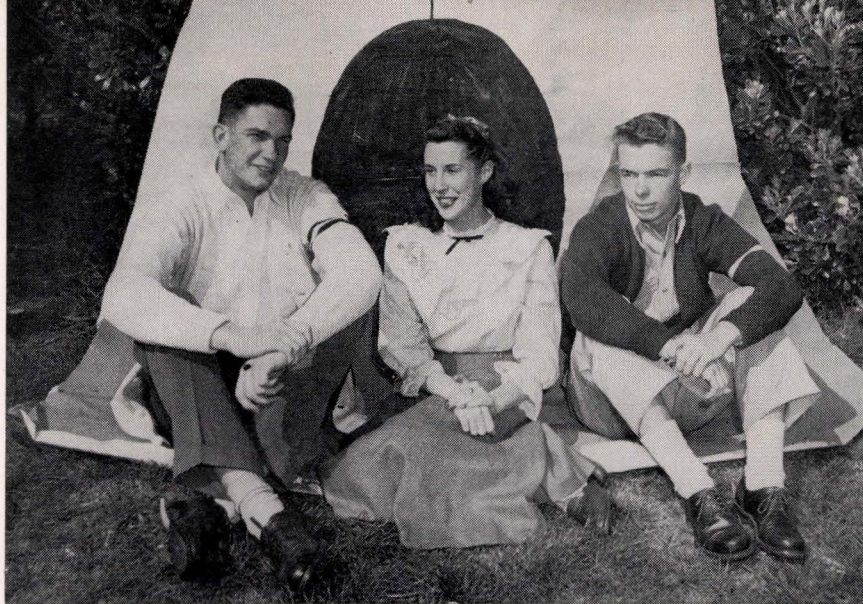

Besides being kind, the Lowell H3 braves were athletic. They participated in football, track, swimming, basketball, baseball, and other sports, such as chasing "dears" (deer). Among the mighty hunters were Carlton Becks, Larry Graubart, Bill Gelardi, Beebo Hughes, Tom Johnson, Larry Kruse, Bud Karby, Ed Malone, Bill Marciso, Dick Saccani, and Rudy Suarez, to mention a few.

No wonder the H3's had a wonderful term!

We made a basket!

Basketball season is here and the H3's scored by electing Bill Stevenson "center," Joy Sugarman "forward," and Hal Messinger, "guard." In spite of being high and mighty juniors, the redskins reverted to their papoosehood by giving the "Kiddie Karnival." Everyone enjoyed himself popping bubble gum

The H3 braves heard the call of sports as well as the snapping of gum. Forrest Anderson, Jim Barnett, Fritz Fenster, Al Matzger, Adolf Rosekrans, Bill Stevenson, who are on the Scroll and L, and Hal Messinger, Harold Hill, Jim Plessas, Dick Connick and many others were active in athletics.

H3 DANCE COMMITTEE

Row 1: B. Stevenson, S. Waldon, R. Robles, J. Hicks, D. Modlin, J. Sugarman, L. Blackman, J. Gould. Row 2: R. Vogel, H. Messinger, D. Watt, J. Jess, D. Rhodes, C. Hyde.

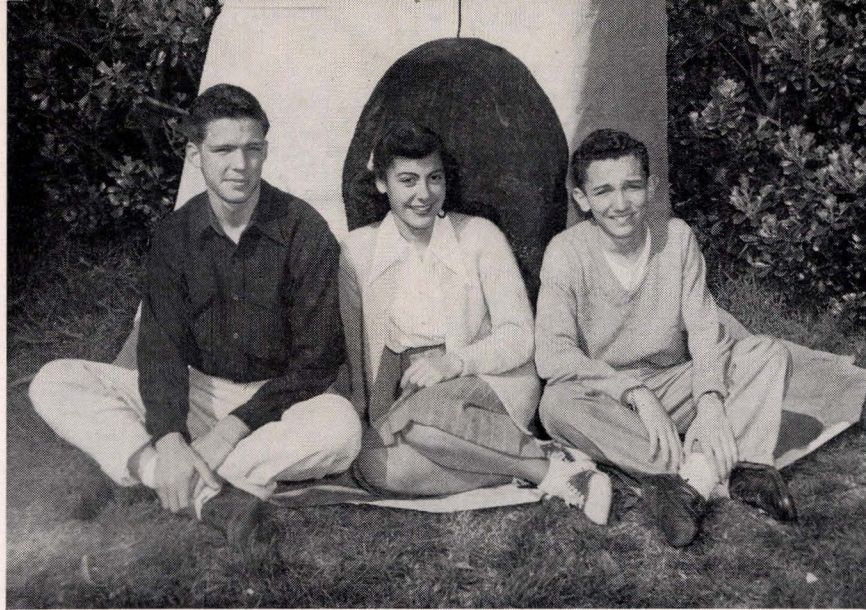

Not to be outdone, Margot Helmuth, clerk of awards; Lotus Tend, ice skating manager; and Hildur Mahl, modern dancing manager, were prominently active in the G.A.A.

The H3's helped out the new papooses on the reservation with Margot Helmuth, Kay Lowy, Natalie Neff, Elizabeth Rank, Carol Silverman, Myra Sowle, and Sunny Walden in the Big Sisters, and Jim Plessas and Al Matzger in the Big Brothers.

Among other things, the injuns are active on The Lowell and Red & White staffs.

It is said "in the spring a young man's (girl's too) fancy turns to thoughts of vacation!" So after a sensational term, we leave the H3's to look forward to a wonderful summer and senior year.

Low Seniors — Fall 1947

Low seniors at last! Every term brings you closer and closer to graduation, and the low senior term is an anti-climax to the many fine times spent at Lowell. Everyone begins looking forward to the high senior term, the climax of many happy times.

The low seniors of Fall '47 had a good start by electing Jack Shuman and Terry Stanley as president and vice-president, respectively, and Don Stibich as secretary. The three leaders, with their helping committee composed of Marilyn Roth, Diane Druhl, Marilyn Thompson, Cynthia Kovell, Nadine Ehrenberg, Colin Livingston, Frank Talbot, Lloyd Cunningham, and Theone Georgas, went to work and organized the dance and picnic which is planned for each low senior class every term.

"The Last Roundup" was a big success, and such dances as "Saddle Slide," "Six-gun Shuffle," "Ten-Gallon Trot," and "Rodeo Ramble," thought up by "Buffalo Bill" Shuman, "Two-Gun" Stanley, "Dead Eye" Stibich, and the "Rough Riders" of the dance committee, helped add a "Western" touch to the festivities.

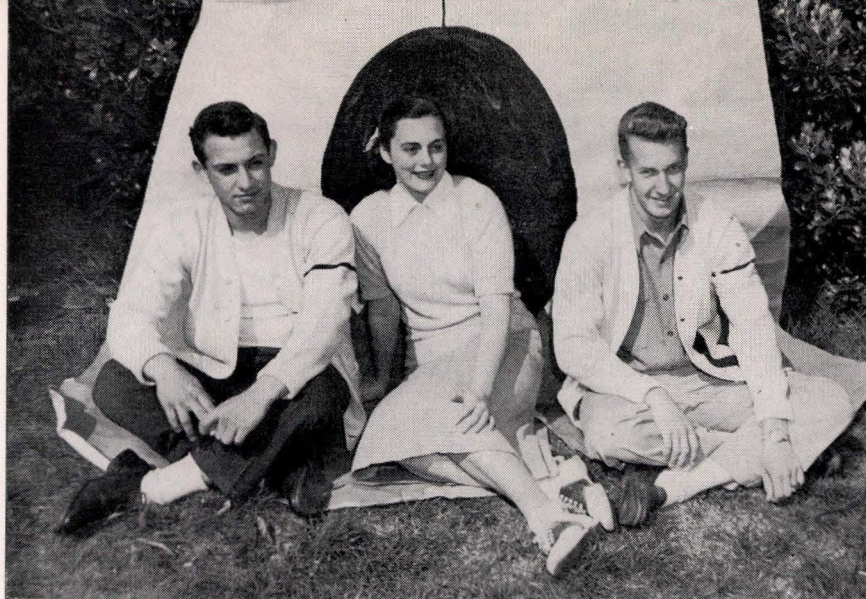

Also rated as a big success, as expected, was the L4 picnic, held at Sigmund Stern Grove with almost all of the class having a good time eating hot-dogs, playing volleyball and softball, and dancing in the clubhouse after dark.

Low Seniors — Spring 1948

The L4 class can boast of containing some of Lowell's most outstanding students—in both scholastic and athletic fields. President Dick Saccani and Secretary Tom Johnson are both star players on Lowell's football team. The office of vice-prexy has been successfully held by Phyllis Cook.

The basketball team owes much of its success to L4 players Larry Graubart and Rudy Saurez. Such football players as Al Baciocco, Beebo Hughes, Jim Konkel, Al Revere, Bill Hooy, and Bill Gelardi, worked hard to raise Lowell's reputation in the football world.

The traditional L4 picnic was held successfully out at Sigmund Stern Grove. Dance Committee members Mary Ann Sloane, Anne Schiessel, Merle Johnson, Marv Cohn, Marianne Nyhan, Al Baciocco, and Marilyn Rabinovitch, served hot dogs, cokes, potato salad, and cake to a hungry mob of Lowellites. Rain poured down, but the spirit and gaiety never slackened. The fun started with volleyball and baseball games. Then, after hours spent waiting in food lines, digestion was aided by dancing in front of a blazing fire in the main room of the Sigmund Stern lodge. An original idea of the dance committee of this class was to have tallies for the picnic in the form of hot dogs with a boy and a girl at each end.

The L4 dance was held seventh period and after school on May 12. It had a black-face theme and was a terrific success.

High Seniors—Fall 1947

The Fall class of '47 really upheld the fine old Lowell tradition. It was a class full of stars—dramatic, athletic, and intellectual.

Dick Clarke, student body prexy, and Nancy Hardgrave, vice-president, were both life members of CSF. In addition, Dick held the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the ROTC.

Tall, good-looking Bob Rowell was president of the class and a star player on Lowell's basketball team. Pat Walker, vice-prexy, starred in the Varieties and other dramatic productions and sang at rallies.

The Scroll and Shield societies lost such prominent members as respective presidents Lloyd Dinkelspiel and Louise Hanford.

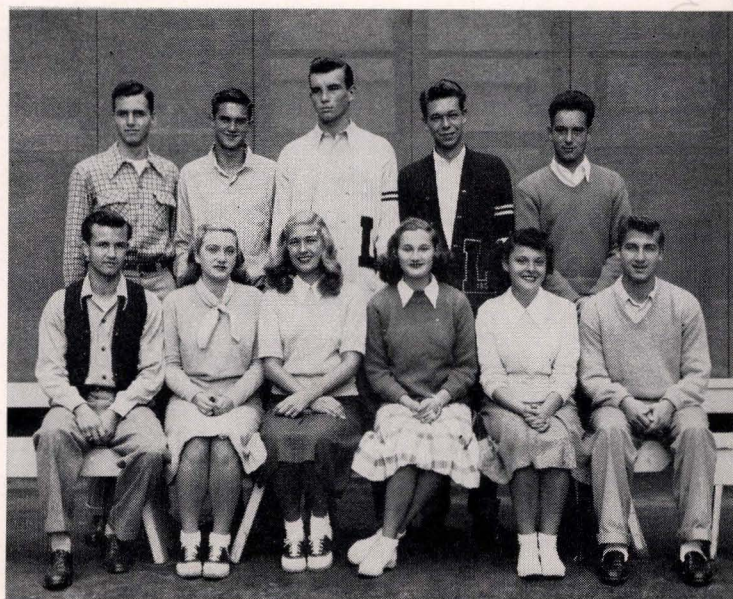

Stan Ware, Dick Clarke, Bob Rowell, Duane Smith, Peter Loret, Betty Pflueger, Pat Walker, George Bange, Nancy Hardgrave, Barbara Falk, and Dick Ratto—members of the dance committee—planned a really sensational prom which was held on January 29, in the Terrace Room of the Fairmont Hotel.

January 22, the Friday preceding the Prom, was Senior Day, which was climaxed by the student-faculty baseball game in which the seniors really took over the reservation by winning 2-1. The day was brought to a close by the H4 dance in the auditorium sixth and seventh periods.

The senior sneak was held January 27 out at the Fun House and was really a terrific success.

High Seniors — Spring 1948

Graduation always means to a senior the accumulation of four years of hard, tedious labor. It means saying farewell to the teachers who led us through the happiest years of our lives. The class of Spring '48 took with it some promising and able citizens.

However, there are more important activities we will remember that are part of the Lowell tradition. The Senior Prom on Friday night, June 18, at the Palace Hotel should never be forgotten because it is Lowell's oldest tradition and most spectacular dance of the year.

Lloyd Cunningham and Merla Burstein, our student body leaders, and Delano Fuller and Maxine Mazzanti, high 4 class leaders, who helped plan the Senior Picnic, June 2, at Fairfax, and the Senior Exclusive on May 14 at the Century Club will be remembered as our good friends and as the people who put over some of our chief activities.

The most popular rally is, of course, the Block L rally on Senior Day. For the high seniors it means the last time we'll "Give 'em the Axe" and the last time to sing the hymn at a rally.

The seniors of Spring '48 will remember the Faculty-Senior game, because we aimed to show them who's chief on Senior Day—and did.

Yes, we'll remember all this and more—the dances, problems that confronted us, homework, friends, and all the other activities that make school life the fun that it is.

Dear "Cotangent" Billstein —

Hope you have loads of luck forever and ever. It's been fun knowing you all these years at Lowell and especially in Trig this term. Hope we both pass! and I hope I see you again after graduation. See it certainly doesn't seem like four years and yet it seems like ages.

Anyway loads of luck

"Cosine" Sims

Dear Claire,

I hate to see this term and all the hysterical times we've had together end. There isn't ^{any} the I would rather spend a dull Sunday with more than you because I'm sure we would both be in convulsions within five minutes. The people that see us together must think we're two nuts but we know differently, don't we? I will always look back on the "giggles" in Luther's class and the antics in 7th gym with a small chuckle. Everyone always say "we must go together after graduation and in the years to come" and we really must. ~~Can't~~ Maybe someday a talent scout will find us and we'll be the comedy team Mack and Bill. "Say Mack, who was that boy I saw you with yesterday?" "That was no boy, that was Frank!"

The Scroll and L

The Scroll and L, the boys' honor society of Lowell, is composed of 22 boys outstanding in school service. Under the guidance of President Lloyd Dinkelspiel of the Fall Term, and President Tom Glikbarg of the Spring Term, the members of this famed society were to be seen in the school and about the court working on many committees, including the successful New-comers' Reception sponsored by both the Scroll and Shield. Tom Glikbarg and Delano Fuller were the Secretaries during the Fall and Spring terms, respectively. Its members deserve our best congratulations for their services.

The Shield and L

The girls' honor society at Lowell is called the Shield & L. Generally it consists of 22 members. In order to belong, a girl must have done some school service and have an honor count of 25 points. In Fall 1947, Louise Hanford was President, Joan Beal, Vice-President, and Lynn Williams, Secretary. In the Spring Term, 1948, Marcia Dunn was President, Nanette Burket, Vice-President, and Marilyn Hamlyn, Secretary.

The girls' honor society performs such services as greeting the newcomers the first day of school, and with the Scroll, planning and presenting the Freshmen Reception.

Lowell's star athletes comprise the membership of the Block L. Whether for football, basketball, track, baseball, swimming, or tennis, or for several sports, each wearer of a Red and White block sweater has worked hard to do his part in furthering Lowell's enviable athletic record.

*Dear Claire:
It has been a wonderful year to a girls in the future.*

The Injun braves aren't the only ones doing Lowell proud this year. The Squaws in the Girls' Block L are an important part of the Lowell reservation. The tribe is made up of girls who, believing "all work and no play makes dull squaws," have taken sports for three years. They also usher at rallies, receptions, and help out as members of Lowell's clean-up committee.

The job of Chief Block L Squaw was handed down from Xandra Jorgensen, of last term, to Martha MacKenzie, this term's president. Keeping things up to date is Secretary Pat Waters, and planning their big doings is Social Chairman Meredith Magnus. With Miss Flynn, as adviser, the Block L Squaws are helping to keep the Lowell reservation on top!

Office

One of the oldest traditions at Lowell is that of giving service to the school in some way. Not everyone can represent Lowell by being a member of the football or basketball teams or as school officers. But many students can help their school by doing the many jobs of Miss Harrison's, Mr. Monroe's and the attendance offices. Reward for this service is, for some who have worked long and faithfully, election to the service societies, the Scroll & L and the Shield & L.

This work provides valuable practical experience for those students who intend to go on to secretarial or clerical jobs. Some of the many duties of the office assistants include maintaining attendance records, answering telephones, delivering absentee bulletins and special notices, carrying messages, calling up parents to inquire about absentees, doing filing work, delivering cut slips, or just being general handy man. Working in the offices also provides a chance to catch up on homework between jobs, as well as furnishing an opportunity to make many new friends.

Big Brothers and Big Sisters

Help New Indians 'Round Reservation

The Big Brothers and Big Sisters, under the able leadership of Mr. Monroe and Mrs. Close, respectively, do a fine job each term in acquainting the new students of Lowell with the general routine around the school. Each new boy and girl is provided with a big brother or sister, who attempts to help them with any difficulties they may encounter. Painsstaking effort is contributed by the students in these organizations in order that their "little brothers and sisters" may become well informed about Lowell and what is expected in a student of this school.

Lloyd Dinkelspiel and Nanette Burket served as chairmen of each of the groups in the Fall of '47, while Herb Kessler and Lydia Potter presided in the Spring of '48.

Both faculty advisors and students who are connected with these organizations should be commended for the admirable job they are doing.

Active Year For Debaters

Entering the largest number of participants in some time, the Lowell forensic squad began the year by attaching the sweepstakes of the tournaments at Tracy, Lincoln, and Sacred Heart. As the year progressed, first places in debating, oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and declamation were taken at Modesto, Ripon, and Fresno.

Lowell was invited to a national invitational tournament in Oklahoma; Kurtis Mayer entered, winning one event and qualifying for the finals in several others.

In the Northern California finals two firsts, including extempore for the seventh consecutive year, and several seconds and thirds were annexed.

Six students—Norma Walsh, Bill Resch, Kurtis Mayer, Don Cahen, Ron Miguell, Don Sharp—qualified for the state finals at Bakersfield, and one, Bill Resch, in oratory, went to the national finals at Canton, Ohio.

Several national oratorical contests were entered by Earl Stern, Steven Mera, Jacqueline Geary, Joe Schwab, Kurtis Mayer, Armand Magid, and Adrian Greenberg.

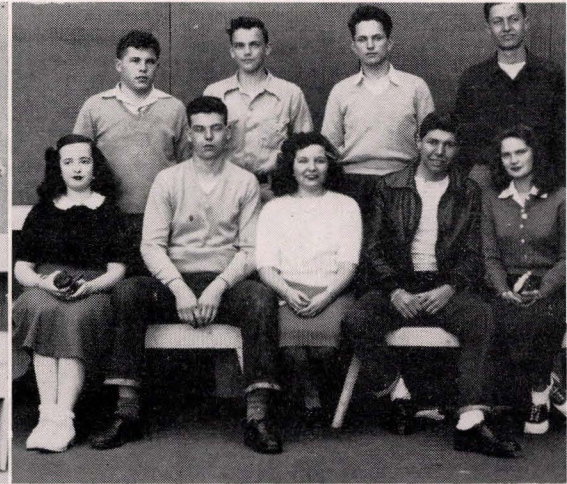

Under the leadership of President Tom Campanella, it was a very full year.

The Lowell Chapter of the Junior Statesmen of America had a full year of varied activities. Two semi-annual conventions were held; the Fall, 1947, meeting was at Fresno, and the Spring, 1948, meeting at Bakersfield. Armand Magid was appointed Chief Justice at the Fresno conclave. Delano Fuller served as Speaker of the San Francisco Regional Government.

The officers for the Fall term were Tom Campanella, president, and Barbara Watkins, secretary. In the spring Delano Fuller served as president, Tom Cline as vice-president, and Don Green as secretary.

As its major school activity the Lowell Chapter conducted the election of student body officers, using voting machines provided by the city.

The chapter was fortunate to have Mr. George Stewart as their sponsor this year. Both Delano Fuller and Armand Magid were given the opportunity of attending the Junior Statesmen school at Montezuma School last summer. Here they completed a course in government.

now. The forms and metal are cold. The last "Lowell" has been put to bed, the newshawks relax. Twelve editions of the paper have rolled off the presses this term, presenting school news accurately and originally. While the "Lowell" staff wrote news, history was made:

Two "flash" editions were put out in rapid fire order for Lowell's two football games with Polytechnic, one of which was for the championship on Thanksgiving Day.

A crazy edition, "The Trying Times," made its appearance on December 11th, with humorous and greatly distorted stories of life around Lowell.

The "Lowell's" 50th and golden anniversary was celebrated with an anniversary edition May 28th.

The Fall editor was Marilyn Stewart and the Spring editor was Jack Shuman. Antone Van Vliet and Bob Inman served as Associate Editors. Tom Glikbarg and Hyman Berston were News Editors, George Callahan was Sports Editor. Feature Editors were Helene Steuer, Ed Green and Gloria Breckenridge. Diana Druehl and Janet Jones were Girls' Sports Editors, and Loretta Clinton and Bob Horn were Business Managers.

Paper Gives Account of School Activities

Indians

Dearest Claire,

It is almost an impossible task to express with pen and ink how much you've meant to me and how terribly much I'm going to miss you. The seventeen months that we have been going together are filled with good times that I shall never forget!!! I only wish that I could thank you enough for making those months what they were.

It has been wonderful knowing you and being with you.

Fall, 1947, proved to be another successful term for Lowell's traditional Christmas Varieties, under the careful guidance of Mr. Polland, Lowell's dramatics coach. Thanks to the faculty and students who prepared for, and participated in the Varieties, Lowell was as usual very proud of her talents. Some of the highlights of the program were songs by Pat Walker, Angie Vozikes, and Jeanne Hime; a violin solo by Martin Kaufman; and unique dances by Denise Wampler; not to mention the group dances under the direction of Miss Boehm, songs by the Glee Club under Mrs. Haven's supervision, and of course the humorous skits by our dramatics class. Everyone who was fortunate enough to have witnessed the Varieties the evenings of December 2, 4, and 5, 1947, has agreed all of its participants may well be proud of themselves.

"Out of the Frying Pan"

"Out of the Frying Pan," the 1948 term play presented by Lowell's dramatics class, ran the evening of May 25, 27, and 28. The play dealt with three boys and three girls trying to get on the stage in New York. They take an apartment in Greenwich Village and when the father of one of the girls comes looking for his daughter, complications set in. Add to this confusion a landlady who believes she is watching a play all the time, and a producer who is always brewing exotic soups. (no connection to the title) and you have one of the most humorous skits ever presented at Lowell.

The title male roles went to Bill Friedrichs, Dave Wayland, Phil Liberty, Jack Sutorius, Dick Ratto, Adrian Greenberg, Dave Mendelsohn, and Richard Baker; while the feminine leads were presented to Leona Blackman, Virginia Johnson, Anne Fowlkes, Lucretia Scott, Jane Holt, Rosalyn Mincer, Claudette Crocker, and Mary Anderson.

To a wonderful job! - been and seeing some time Good luck thing in future

The Lowell band can look back on another successful year, being ever present to bring out the Lowell spirit at the rallies, football games, and basketball games. Graduating seniors in the band are Dick Leiber, Hubert Marcus, Ray Schmiedecke, Al Adolph, Milt Blaustein, and Richard Baker. For the first time, the band attended the North State Band and Orchestra Festival in Oakland, where they demonstrated their ability.

The orchestra also attended the Festival and presented their numbers with skill that was developed through long hours of work. Graduating seniors, Jean Fischer, Martin Sosnick, Ken Kennedy, Joan Sawyer, Howard Dudune, and Theone Georgas, worked hard with the orchestra and the unit got much enjoyment out of browsing among the classics, and experimenting with some very heavy music. An outstanding item was that the orchestra borrowed music from the San Francisco Main Public Library and proceeded to work on the same manuscripts that the top symphonies use.

Under the leadership of Dick Leiber, the dance band rehearsed after school time and produced some really good music for many of the school dances.

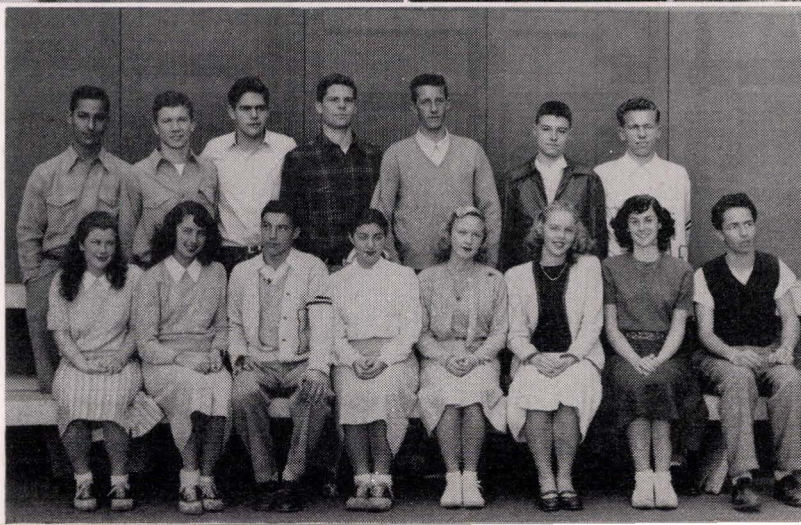

The officers of the girls' advanced glee were Jean Hime, president; Angie Vozikes, vice-president; and Maxine Shaff, secretary. Performing in the Spring Concert in June was Lillian Lawson, who soloed.

Varied Work in R. O. T. C.

The Lowell R.O.T.C. unit was ably led this year by the battalion commanders, Richard Clarke in the Fall term and Lynne Ulm in the Spring term.

During the Spring term the executive officer was Lt. Colonel Peter Loret. The company commanders were Lynne Ulm, Bob Miller, and Glenn Hopper. Activities included an overnight hike and other weekend activities.

The main work of the Spring term consisted of preparation for the Federal Inspection; at this event the battalion competes for the coveted honor-school rating. Last year Lowell was ranked first in San Francisco. The battalion commander and the executive officer, Barret Bruch, were assisted by the company commanders Tom Campanella, Bernard McGowan, and Sheldon Wright.

This year more time was spent on theoretical work than previously. Cadets studied such subjects as map reading, first aid, rifle marksmanship, and military tactics. Discussions were held on the military history of the United States and on the world military situation today.

As this is being written, preparations are being made to close this year with another overnight hike and the third annual Field Day in June.

Card Gridders of '47

Sparked by Phil Liberty, Jack Lynd, Herb Kessler, and Bill Morgan, the Lowell Indians ended the season with a record of four wins, four losses, and one tie.

Pulling one of the biggest upsets in prep history by beating Washington in the semi-finals, the Cards earned the right to meet Poly for the championship on Thanksgiving. But Poly had one of the best high school teams San Francisco has ever seen and severely trounced a fighting Lowell eleven to take a 17-16 game edge in the 34-year rivalry.

Opening the season with the Poly "Big Game," the Indians at least were able to score on a Poly team for the first time in four years, although losing, 29-13. Liberty scored on a pass from Lynd good for 79 yards, the fleet-footed halfback outracing the Poly secondary. Lynd scored late in the game on a quarterback sneak.

Lowell entered the win column with a smashing 31-0 win over Galileo, Dalpino smashing over for two touchdowns, Liberty for another, and passes from Lynd to Liberty and Scovil to Baker completing the scoring. A highly over-confident Lowell team was held to a scoreless tie by the Lincoln Mustangs, but from there went on to a 12-6 victory over Balboa.

Hampered by injuries, the Cards succumbed to title-bound Washington, 33-13. An 80-yard march climaxed by a Scovil-Baker pass for the touchdown and a Scovil-Fenster pass produced the two scores.

Led by Phil Liberty, who scored both touchdowns, Lowell came from behind to defeat St. Ignatius, 12-7. Lowell's inability to hold onto the ball gave Commerce an 18-0 win over the Injuns.

A crippled Lowell team was in the playoffs. "Washington is a four-touchdown choice. . . ." "The Eagles are expected to repeat their earlier victory." And it looked that way, as Washington scored three quick touchdowns to lead, 19-0. Late in the first half, Lowell started to move. From the Eagle 21, Lynd and Liberty worked the ball to the 2, where Lynd went over on a quarterback sneak. In the third quarter, a pass from Lynd to Liberty went for 65 yards, as Liberty outraced Washington's Olmstead to score. Kessler went over for the conversion, 19-13. From the Washington 34, the Indians went to the one-foot line, where Liberty took it over on third down. On the important extra point, Liberty took a lateral from Lynd and raced around left end, 20-19.

Thus the crippled Lowell Indian upset all prep "experts" by doing the impossible and beating a title-bound Washington team to reach the finals.

Goofs Cellar Champs

Although they lost six games out of six starts, the '47 goof football squad gained experience that will carry over into future varsity teams.

The results of the games were as follows: Lowell 0, Commerce 6; Lowell 7, Mission 19; Lowell 0, S.I. 6; Lowell 2, Lincoln 6; Lowell 0, Balboa 32; Lowell 7, Washington 39.

Cross Country Track Champions

Last fall Lowell produced another championship cross country team under Coach Elmer Harris. Lowell's boys easily walked away with the crown by placing five men in the first ten from the city, and following up with three of the next spots.

The first five boys from Lowell were Woody Frey, John Danford, Jim Kendall, Roy Smith, and the surprising Lynn Chapman. These fellows were followed closely by John Risbrough, Marvin Tarlow, and Craig Nielsen.

Most of these fellows will be back next fall making Lowell's chances for another championship team look excellent.

Varsity Finishes Second

Lowell's varsity basketball team finished their A.A.A. season in second place, behind Lincoln's Mustangs, who annexed their first title. The Cards won 7 and lost 2.

Standouts throughout the season were forwards, Rudy Suarez, Tom "Greek" Glafkides; center, Bill

Stevenson; guards, Ken Flower, Drew Turner, and Ignatius Nelson.

Coach Ben Neff's charges opened their season by whipping Commerce, 38-32, but in their next tilt they were beaten by Lincoln, 28-25, for the first time in seven years, due to the superior height of the Links.

THE GAZETTE

30's Cop 4th Straight Title

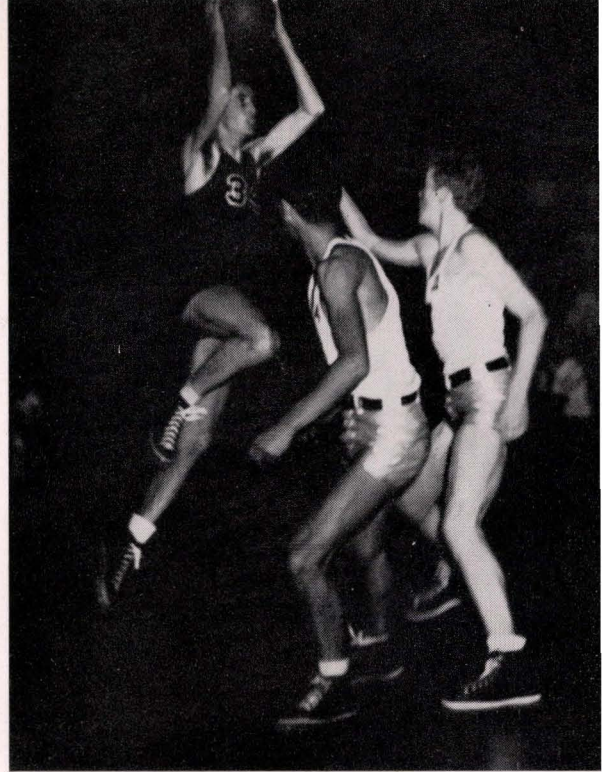

With a complete total of 22 wins out of 23 starts, practice games included, the Lowell 130's won nine straight to capture the Academic Athletic Association lightweight championship for the fourth straight year.

The team's first string consisted of forwards, Terry Jones and Dewey Barron; center, Ed Mayer; and holding down the guard slots were Tom Glikbarg and Lou Folden. Important substitutes were forwards, Bill Cohen, Don Praeger, and Warren Debenham; center, "Red" Cumberpatch; and guards, Dave Lew, Howard Akard, and Mel Mosk.

The lighties were the first undefeated team since Washington's '42 quintet and also the first of Coach Bill "Curly" Feiling.

The Papooses placed four players on the News' All-City team—forwards, Dewey Barron and Terry Jones; and guard, Tom Glikbarg. Ed Mayer, smooth center, received an honorable mention.

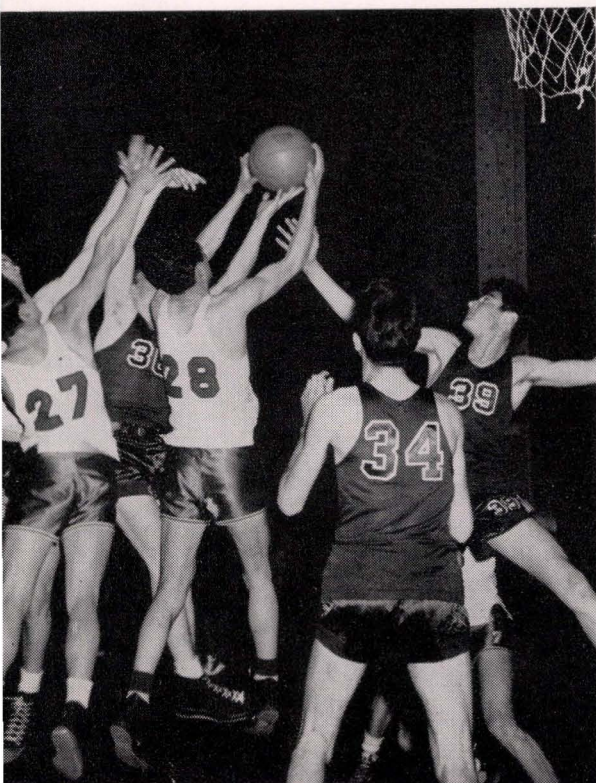

The championship did not come easily; it was due to hours of tedious practice every day, expert coaching from Bill Feiling, and the will to win by working together.

Four straight conquests followed, the Red machine bouncing St. Ignatius, 24-16, and Galileo, 33-31, in one of the greatest prep games ever seen on the Kezar hardwoods. Tom Glafkides' long shot after two overtime periods decided the encounter.

Indian power asserted itself in the next games and resulted in easy victories over Sacred Heart, 39-29 and Washington, 33-23. On February 13, they met defeat at the hands of traditional foe, Polytechnic, 35-33 in another overtime tussle, when Parrot Forward Wayne Barnes tanked a follow shot. The Injuns closed out their season by trouncing Balboa and Mission.

At the close of the season both Glafkides and Ken Flower were allotted places on the 2nd team of the 1948 All-City squad, while Rudy Suarez was placed on the 3rd team.

After the Galileo game, Glafkides was rewarded with a sketch of himself by Chronicle artist, Howard Brodie, as "Prep of the Week" and received further honor when he was voted Northern California's most popular prep cager and was given a trip to Denver, Colorado, to witness the annual A.A.A. cage championships by the San Francisco Examiner.

Future Stars Have Good Season

Through Benny Neff's excellent coaching, the light-weight basketball team has produced many 130's and varsity stars. This year the 110's had a well rounded club and wound up in third place, having won 6 and lost 3. Outstanding were sharp-shooting Gordon Reid and Yukio Isoye at forwards; high-scoring Dick Peterson at center; and dependable Joey Pattison, Harry Jacobs, Him Chin, and Don Green at guards, composing the first string.

The 120's had a fast, scrappy ball club, and finished with 5 wins and 4 losses. They were paced by sharp-shooting Dick Rhodes and speedy Dan Benatar at forwards; reliable Grant Settlemyer at center; high-scoring Bob Bondanza and smooth Hank Fung at guards.

For the third consecutive time the cindermen of Coach Elmer Harris annexed the A.A.A. crown by whipping Tamalpais, Galileo, Commerce, Poly, Mission, Lincoln, Washington, Saint Ignatius, and Balboa in rapid succession and then on Saturday, April 24, the Indians captured the Burlingame Relays over defending champions, San Jose's Lincoln High School.

Besides winning the meet, Lowell's relay team of Loren Baker, Jim Plessas, Beebo Hughes, and Marv Hoffman, broke the Burlingame Relays' 880-yard relay record of 1:33.3, by covering the distance in 1:32.2.

Leading men of the team were Frank Talbot, Marv Hoffman, and Beebo Hughes in the sprints; in the 440 were Jim Plessas, Rodger Brooks, and Don Carlson; the 880 was taken care of by Lynn Chapman and Craig Nielsen; and the milers, Bob Hoffman, Marv Tarlow, and John Reisbrough.

Hurdlers were Loren Baker, who broke the city record of 15.2 in the high hurdles on several occasions, "Bunkie" Colman, and Bob Smith, and the relay team consisted of Loren Baker, Beebo Hughes, Rodger Brooks, Frank Talbot, Jim Plessas, and Marv Hoffman.

In the field events were Dick Tophman and Greg Conlen in the high jump; Beebo Hughes, Frank Talbot, and Bob Smith in the broad jump; and pole vaulters, Tom Johnson and Greg Conlen. "Muscle Men" throwing the shot were Morris Feldman, Alan Gan, and Dave Dorward; and the discus was thrown by Dick Cook, Alan Gan, and Dick Engeseth.

The lightweight track teams under the guidance of Lowell's new Coach, Don Travers, had one of the most successful seasons in years with the 130's capturing the AAA title and the 120's also winding up among the top teams in the league.

The 130's were "the Team to Beat" all year with Gil Casarez, Bill Contos, Al Slenkin, and Bill Tend in the sprints; Jim Kendell, Walt Lester, Sterling Bunnell, Ron Vogel, Stan Walker, and Bob Foehr in the middle distances. The hurdles were well taken care of by Paul Nussbaum, George Murray, and Ian Jackson.

The thirty field event men, too, were of top caliber with Dave Lew in the high jump; Dick Russell, Bud Warren, and Yen Chin, broad jumping; and Fred Greene and Jerry Gould throwing the shot.

The relay team alternated between such top sprints as Gil Casarez, Bill Contos, Al Slenkin, Ron Vogel, George Murray, Paul Nussbaum, Stan Walker, and Bud Warren.

The 120's were lead by Dick Peterson, Takashi Shimazu, and Kevin Donlan on the hurdles; and Dan Benatar, Philip Fong, and Henry Fung, in the sprints.

Gene Chu and Irwin Blanz were the broad jumpers, and Roy Reid and Jim Chin were high jumping.

The relay team consisted of Dan Benatar, Irwin Blanz, Takashi Shimazu, and Gene Chu.

Varsity Baseballers

Hampered by early season rains, the 1948 Lowell baseball schedule was not completed as this journal went to press, therefore is not a complete article on their doings this past spring.

Coach Walt Drysdale's Cards opened their season by downing their traditional rivals, Polytechnic, 7-6, at Big Rec, on April 13. Following this they were defeated by Galileo, 13-5, and Sacred Heart, 4-3, and as we go to press 6 games remain on the slate for the Card national pastimers.

Made up of many veterans from last year's squad, the Cards were expected to give every team a hard fight but they were hindered at times by injuries and rain.

The infield shaped up with Cal Pool and Eddie Mayer performing at the initial sack; stocky Bill Marsico, completing his third year on the varsity, at second base; Junior George Voronin nailed down third base; while the shortstop position was filled by Barry Stone. Infield reserves were Larry Cahn, Lou Giesberger, George Callahan, and Dave Nichol.

Presenting a strong outfield, were Paul Morena in left field, Stan Speizer in center field, and Lennie Cahen in right field. All showed promise at the plate and in the outer pastures.

Only two fellows donned the so-called tools of ignorance (as hard-working catchers are referred to); they were Jim Konkell and Rod Shepardson. The latter started the league games.

Hurling the ball plateward was a capable mound corps consisting of George Callahan, Ed Mayer, Jim Mannheimer, and Paul Morena. Morena and Mayer will be returning for more baseball duty next year.

Other outstanding reserves were Milan Radovich, Charlie Overstreet, Lloyd Cunningham, Ted LeFrancois, and Ray Kistler.

VARSITY BASEBALL

Headed For Playoffs

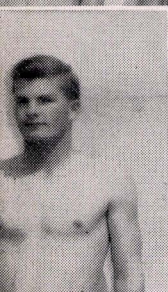

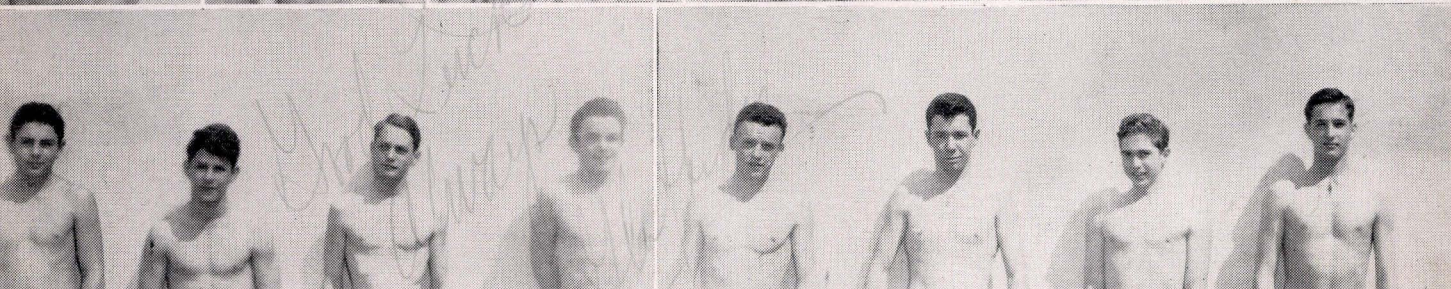

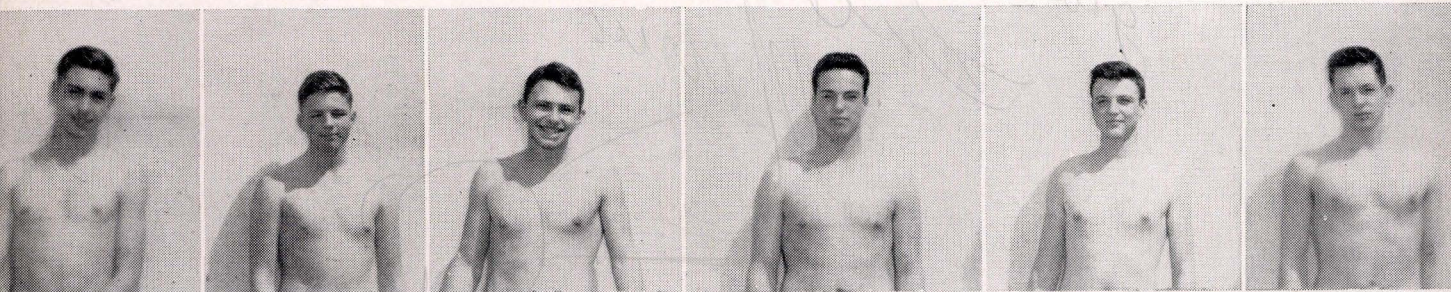

Lowell's junior varsity baseballers, with only two pitchers, G. Bloise and Spiece, won 3 of 5 openers. Behind the steady hitting of Jones (cf), M. Spellman (3b), and the outstanding fielding of R. Risler (ss) and J. Nissi (2b), the Pee Wees have done better than average. The infield is held down by K. Friedman (c), R. Behrendt (c), Stein (1b), J. Nissi (2b), M. Spellman (3b), and R. Kessler (ss), backed up by Arminino (2b) and D. Schoenthal (1b). The out-field greens are covered by De Luca (lf), L. Jones (cf), and Arminino, backed by good men in Gold, Beal, McFarland, Mores, and Alterman. The boys show real promise under the coaching of Bill Morgan.

J.V. BASEBALL

Mermen Led By Veterans

The Cardinal swimming team seemed destined to take its place among the other victorious Lowell teams of this banner year.

The varsity consisted of a few from last year's squad and although weakened by the loss of Bud Karby due to a football injury, was balanced by the addition of many from last year's championship lightweight team.

Outstanding on the varsity squad was McManus in the 50 free; Fisher in the 100 free; Lee and McGowan in the 220; Greninger in the 100 back; Rosekrans and Anderson in the 100 breast; and Diver Shapiro. The four-man relay team of Fisher, Lee, McGowan, and McManus, and medley team of Greninger, Rosekrans, and Mason were both strong contenders for the city crown.

The rest of the team consisted of Firestone, Locey, Holmes, Petros, and Nystrom.

The lightweights with veterans Matzgar and Kelly, were also a strong team.

Lightweight stars were Horne and Cole in the 50; Matzgar in the 100; Northrup and Kelly in the breast; Rosenthal and Drazel in the 100 free; Martinez, Settlemier, and Helman in the backstroke; and Diver Patison.

Others on the team were Hamilton, Kaufman, Grece Edelma and Abramovitz.

Lowell's Champion Netmen

All-city champs again for the Indian tennis team! Not even one match lost this season! Lowell's 40th championship in 50 years!

High school competition wasn't enough. San Mateo Junior College, Northern California J.C. champs, bowed to Lowell's racketeers March 4. Seeing our netmen perform, Jim Moffett, president of the State Tennis Association, said: "This year's Lowell team could defeat any high school tennis team in the United States hands down."

Coach Jim Livingstone's top four players are Stan Smith, Ernest duBray, Jack Hymes, and Malcolm Smith; backing up these boys are Jim Martin, Paul Wilson, Hellie Abel, "Scotty" Doggett, Fred Bluett, Tick Axtell, Monroe Kaplan, Dave Goodwin, and "Sandy" Berman.

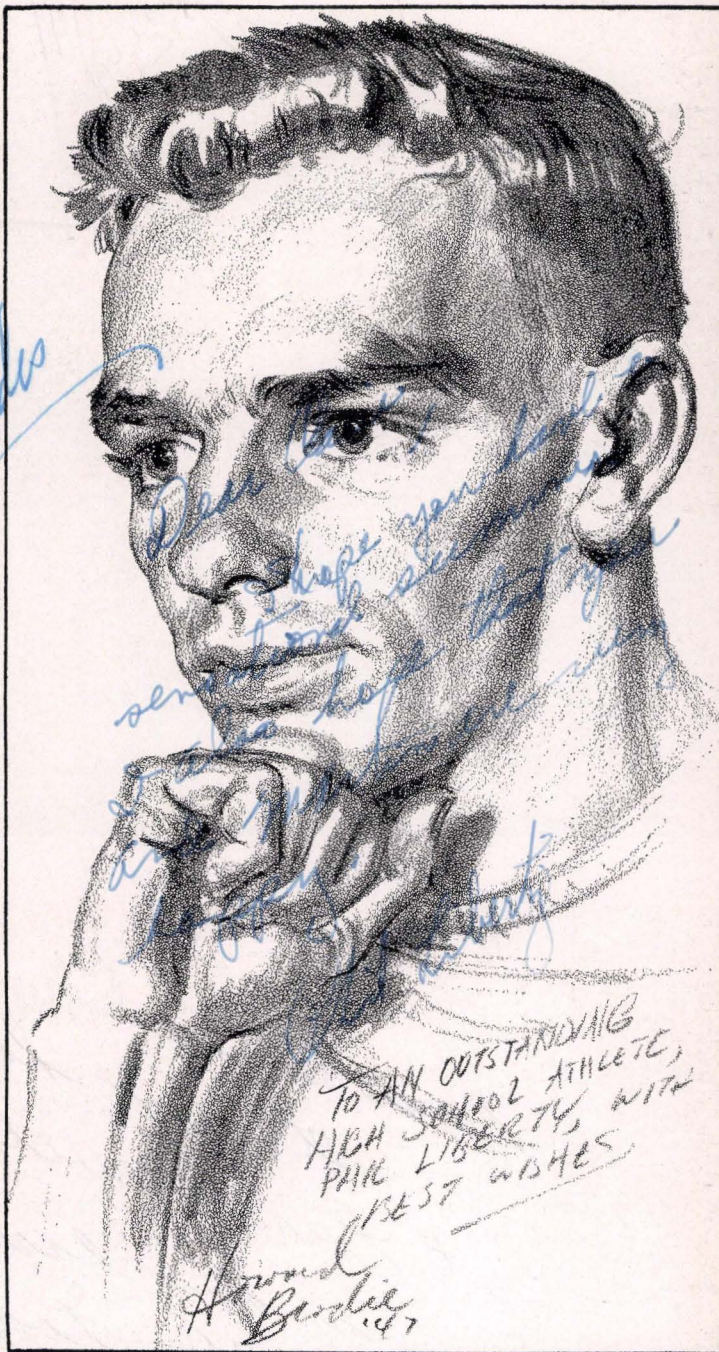

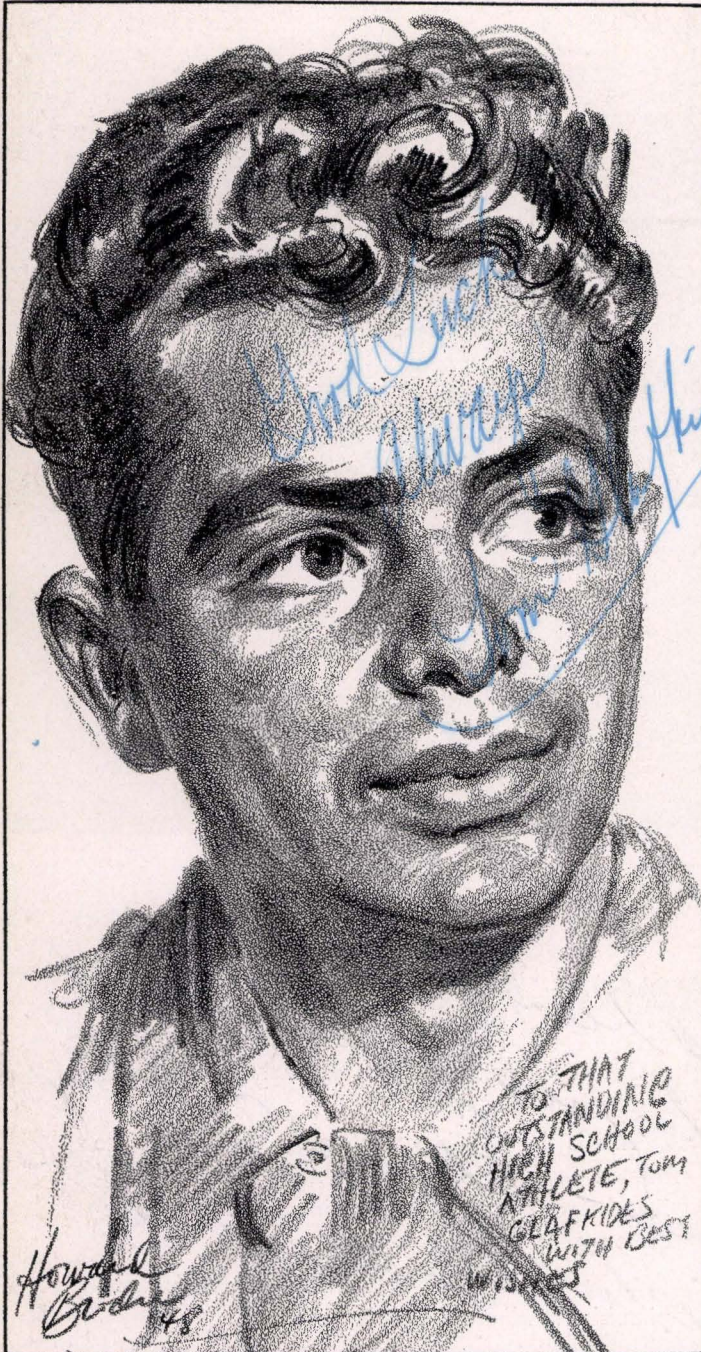

Coach Livingstone predicts that some of these boys will be future champions.

This is the fiftieth year of tennis at Lowell since its start way back in 1899, and when the records established since that time are examined, several facts become apparent:

1. Lowell has won four times as many tennis championships as all other schools combined.
2. Lowell has won thirteen (13) times as many tennis championships as any other school.
4. Lowell has never finished lower than third in the league standing. (Third only twice.)
4. Lowell has produced more All-American tennis players than any other high school in the United States.

Preps of The Week

Preps of the Week Tom Glafkides and Phil Liberty are two Indians Chronicle Artist Howard Brodie chose to sketch. Phil was outstanding for Lowell on the gridiron and accomplished all-city honors.

Tom got his all-city recognition on the hardwood courts of Kezar. It was he who broke up the Galileo game with a forty-foot bucket to push Lowell into second place.

An important part of any school is its yell leaders, and Lowell is no exception. The spirit of a team reflects the spirit of its rooting section, and it is the job of Lowell's yell leaders to organize and maintain the best rooting section in the city, for even in defeat, Lowell's rooters always come out on top. For the past year this has been capably handled by Al Matzger, Dave Geoffrion, Kevin Kelly, and Hal Messinger, with Carol Modlin and Joanne Jepson assisting at the rallies.

The Junior Prom

The night of December 13, 1947, marked the first semi-formal Junior Prom, held at the Century Club from nine to twelve, with dancing to the music of Leonard Auletti's orchestra. This was one of the first outside school supported dances other than the Senior Prom, and as it was such a success, the Junior Prom will now be held each term. Under the chairmanship of Janet Stone and the supervision of Miss Adams, the dance committee presented a Christmas theme, with a large decorated Christmas tree and other seasonal decorations. On April 30, 1948, the second Junior Prom was again held at the Century Club.

The Senior Prom

The high spot in the social life of the school year, and a fitting climax for the many glorious times spent at Lowell is the Senior Prom.

Dancing to the music of Maurice Anger, the class of Fall '47 presented its prom in the Terrace Room of the Fairmont Hotel on January 29, 1948.

The Gold Room of the Palace Hotel on the night of June 18, 1948, was the setting for the prom of the Spring class of '48, with music by Larry Cannon.

Dressed up in formals and tuxedos, couples danced late into the night, and after the prom many couples found their way back to Lowell to sing traditional songs on the front steps for the last time.

Party and Dance Time

School doesn't last forever, and when it is over, social life takes its place as an important part of the activities of Lowell students, with dances and parties holding the spotlight. During the past year several dances were sponsored by Lowell, both in school and outside of school, including the Junior and Senior Proms, the Cannibal Congo, and several others, with special parties and dances held by the various clubs

Dear Claire, seen
 lots of fun knowing you
 Best of luck always
 Paul Russell

Dear Claire,
 Here's wishing the best of luck to a small girl and friend. Have a wonderful summer and fun a college.
 Love from a fellow poposse.

Dear Claire,
 It has been wonderful knowing you these last terms. (corny isn't it?) I am so glad that we will be going to the same college, as I know we will be going together. I look forward to a lot of good times. I really have always had a little imagination as you can see very well. I really am earnest when I tell you that I wish you all the luck in the world, which you so aptly deserve.
 Love Pat

The Red and White Staff

The Red & White staff hopes that you, as well as our two little Indian friends Pow and Wow, have enjoyed your journey, "Round the Reservation."

Putting out a yearbook means ten months of hard work. Picking the theme; planning pages; taking pictures; writing copy; measuring cuts; doing art work; collecting money—all under the "deadlines" set by the engraver, the printer, and the bindery—is rough going.

Now all is calm in room 133. But we'll never forget the clatter of typewriters; the tiresome reading of proof; the figuring of headlines; the measuring of pictures with the engraver's circle; and the ever-present smell of rubber cement. It was a poor man's den of iniquity!

In addition to the graduating staff members pictured above, five others were responsible for your journal. They are Barbara Burstein, Ann Hundert, Joyce Nelson, Shirley Rhode, and Ruth Rosenwald.

We're proud of this year's annual. If YOU like it that's our reward.

Good luck to a sweet girl

Dear Claire
(cousin)
I know it has been wonderful knowing you. It doesn't seem as if three years have gone by so fast. Best of luck and success at college, for you deserve the best.
Annette

Dear Claire has been really Spanish fun in it over-
(now that's it!)
that is!!
Lots of luck,

The End of the Trail

We, the editors of this year's Red & White, "Round the Reservation," bring our year's work to a close with a page of thanks to the many people who helped us meet our deadline and get this journal to you.

Mr. Patterson, our faculty advisor, who was the real strength behind an ambitious staff.

Miss Harrison, for the use of her office facilities.

Mr. Robert Rosendahl and Raymond Peterson, of the Walter Mann Co., for their fine engravings, and Mr. Howard Watson of Lexicon Press, who printed our annual, and did a swell job of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Doherty, of Fisher Studios, whose many splendid group and individual pictures graced the Red & White's pages.

Mr. Tommy Tomaso, for his fine informal snapshots taken around the school.

Tony Van Vliet, who almost didn't get to college until his clever division designs and swell ideas were down on paper.

Bob Glenn, Duane Smith, and Larry Albedi, for their photographic work.

Phil Roldan, Forrest Bailey, Lloyd Cunningham, and Marilyn Hamlyn, for their original cartoons and art work.

Rod Shepardson, Stan Smith, George Murray, Bill Morgan, George Callahan, Dewey Barron, Craig Nielsen, Grant Settlemeier, and Adolph Rosekrans for their sports section articles.

Howard Brodie, S. F. Chronicle artist, for his fine sketches.

And to a swell staff who worked hard until the very end, we give our utmost thanks.
