Born during San Francisco's first blackout, was the idea of the Mission journal built around the theme of Civilian Defense. For as we, the editors, sat in the inky blackness of our darkened rooms, our few vague thoughts, as time progressed, materialized into definite plans.

So, within these pages of the Spring '42 journal we, the editors, are endeavoring to portray the various phases and divisions of Civilian Defense, and to show how the students of Mission are participating in this nationwide program.

THE EDITORS.

DEDICATION

C O M M U N I Q U E

"San Francisco Blacked Out!"

"Enemy Planes Cause San Francisco Alert!"

"San Francisco is the Danger Spot of the Pacific Coast!"

Warnings such as these have been the newspaper "screamer lines" since our country was swept into war.

even before the war started. A plea for volunteer workers brought immediate response.

Since these volunteers who so generously give of their time work unheralded and unsung, it is to them we dedicate this book as we fervently hope for our own sakes that their services will not be required.

MISSION'S

PRINCIPAL

WILLIAM J. DREW

Defense Program Is Led by Principal

In any undertaking, such as the Civilian Defense program, there must be leaders to whom the others can turn when the need for advice or consultation arises. Here in Mission, this person is Mr. William J. Drew, our beloved principal.

His great understanding and individual interest in every student who enters Mission is cause for ceaseless praise from both educators and parents.

With everlasting gratitude, the students of Mission thank Mr. Drew for his skill in designing much of our school building. Through his tireless efforts for its improvement, we can also point with the greatest pride to Drew Playfield, which was constructed for the benefit of both the boys and girls. His boundless pride for the school and the pupils is his main and most endearing characteristic.

Next to his great interest in architectural design, is his interest in music. Besides his ability to play the flute, he is also a master of the organ.

Mr. Drew is as fond of the recreational side of education as he is of the curricular side, and as Mission's most enthusiastic rooter, he can be seen at every athletic competition, cheering his boys on to victory.

He is doubly proud of the fact that many honors have come to the school in the past few years through our semi-annual journal, and the WEST WING, as well as honors in the music department, art department, and R.O.T.C. In fact all of the departments have contributed their share in establishing the excellent standing of our school.

In a previous message to the student body, Mr. Drew said, "A sound, enduring attitude and a will to participate in a respectable manner with consideration for the other person, for your neighbor, your friend, your parents, your family, are among the best guarantees for success and happiness for the individual, for the community, for the state."

JOSEPH B. NEWMAN

MR. NEWMAN

Eight a.m.

A line forms in front of Room 107, composed of boys frowning over weighty problems.

"Well, George, what's your problem?" he queries.

The line of waiting students dwindles away as each one has his problem settled quickly, courteously, and correctly.

So a three-word thumbnail sketch of our vice-principal is: ready, willing, and able.

Ready because his is willing and able.

Willing because he is ready and able.

And able because he is ready and willing.

DEAN OF BOYS

MISS MORRILL

As has been mentioned several times before in the theme of the journal, the Civilian Defense Program needs capable leaders to whom the others can turn when the need for advice and consultation arises. Of these, we find Miss Lena M. Morrill, beloved dean of girls, and vice-principal, always ready to lend assistance.

In the fall of 1940 Miss Morrill, then head of the social studies department was appointed acting dean of girls during the leave of absence of Miss Augusta Glynn Kelly, former dean. Since that time two years ago, she has become endeared to the heart of each and every student, through her ability to fully understand and take an individual interest in every girl with whom she comes in contact.

1. Bright and early, before school is in session, we find Mrs. Margaret L. Sanderson, Mrs. Lita B. Swanson and Mr. O. Galeno signing the faculty time book.

2. Going UP? Elevator boy waits for teachers to take them up to their registry classes.

3. 'Tween fourth and fifth periods when weariness begins to lower comes a pause in the teacher's occupation that is known as the luncheon hour. So our busy teachers pause to rest and partake of some needed nourishment.

• MR. TERRY. Lower left: Head of Science Department shows students exactly how chemistry is accomplished. "It may appear a little difficult at first," says Mr. Terry, "but don't give up and you'll come through with victory."

Executive Committee Plans Activities

With Civilian Defense the order of the day, we find that Mission's competent Executive Committee is doing an all-out for this program. No better preparation could be made to meet the obligations of life after graduation than to be chosen to lead one of the various organizations represented on this committee.

The committee, which is headed by genial prexy Walter Reed, consists of the various student body officers, class officers, and high representatives of other important committees. The purpose of this group is to study carefully the various problems of the Mission students and to build up school activities by planning social events and by distributing the student body funds evenly.

R.O.T.C. Drill Cadets For Country Needs

1. After the command "Officers, center, march," the battalion's commissioned officers prepare to approach within six paces of the Lt. Colonel and "Present Sabers," as shown below.
2. Shown at "Present Guidons," the battalion's guidon bearers, each representing one of the battalion's four companies, await the command from battalion commander to "Carry Sabers."
3. Pictorialized at the same position as the guidons above, the captains of the four companies also await the command which will take them to "Carry Sabers."
4. Battalion Commander Olson and his staff stand at attention as the battalion passes before them in the weekly review held on Mission High's Drew Field.

Officers, Rookies Build Strong Units

1. STANDING. Standing is the hardest of all positions to master in rifle marksmanship, because there is not the firm foundation from which to brace the rifle.

2. PRONE. The prone position is the first position taken up in rifle marksmanship. This is the easiest position to learn because your elbows are resting firmly on the ground.

3. SITTING. The sitting position is third in this course of marksmanship. Because this position is almost as easy as prone to acquire and approximately the same score is expected.

4. KNEELING. The kneeling position is a great deal harder to master because only one elbow is in contact with the knee.

PERSONNEL COMMUNIQUE

• SENIOR OFFICERS. Above: Pres. Larry Martin, Vice-President Millie Cochran, and Secretary Rose Rubino have done a fine job. They made the high senior students feel proud to be what they are. Senior skates, swims, assemblies, etc., were planned so as to make the affair follow through with success. We salute you, our fellow officers. It has been our pleasure to have been under such capable leadership.

Duty Calls Seniors As They Graduate

1. Mr. Joseph C. Oricello, high senior counselor, talks over serious problems regarding graduation with Jackie Sanguinetti and Don Amsbough.

2. "Glammer" girl Jackie gets ready to take her senior picture as she looks into the mirror and gives a final pat to her tresses and practices a smile for the photographer's birdie.

3. Confident but not quite sure they are going to graduate, Jackie and Don look for their names on the graduation list which is always posted during grad time in main hall.

4. Our proud graduates look each other over to be sure they are correct in every detail from the tassels of their berets to each little fold of their gowns.

Mission's Class Rooms Prepare For Duty

1. The army has asked Mission High, along with other high schools, to design model planes for observation corps in National Defense. Mr. Crocker points out the features of a medium bomber to Roland Arona and Bob Muller.
2. Putting the finishing touches on the body of a model plane.
3. The boys compare their planes and assemble the parts, wings, tail, etc., from the blueprints.
4. The finished product. This is a model of a German Stuka dive-bomber.

Dr. J. C. Geiger, Director of Public Health, making a tour through high schools, finds Mission's students in good health.

Scholars Zealous To Master Studies

1. Frank Corso stumbles into the nurse's office. "Oh, I've got a terrible headache—or something. Can I have a home pass?"

2. Miss Huston, school nurse, is skeptical, but she gets her trusty thermometer and tells him to sit still and to be quiet.

3. "Ah, hah! as I thought; no temperature. You're not sick!" Frank wonders if he can possibly get a home pass.

4. He argues in vain with her. But she sends him back to class. Argument is of no avail against Miss Huston's scientific tests.

Journal, West Wing Awarded Top Honors

WEST WING

For the eighth consecutive time, Mission's WEST WING, under the excellent supervision of Mr. Bernard G. Wiesinger, has been awarded the coveted International Honor Award from the Quill and Scroll. Under Helen Wallin, editor, the WEST WING expects to win the same honors, plus any additional awards, this term.

THE MISSION

THE MISSION, this term, carries the theme Civilian Defense, showing the various phases and divisions of the Defense Program. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Bernard G. Wiesinger, the co-editors Alma Giebler and Art Bauer, together with the associate editors, Finvola Foy and Dorothy Carey, this theme was colorfully described.

1. Jean Smythe, WEST WING associate editor, pauses to ponder for a colorful adjective as Jack Henderson, demon sports editor, pounds away on a story.

2. WEST WING reporters gather at the press room to watch the nimble fingers of the linotype operator set their masterpieces into type.

3. Marge Burkey putting the finishing touches on the paste-up of page one of the dummy, as Audrey Ellison and Aurelio Gonello look on while Ray Nelson writes headlines.

4. Reporters Helen Wallin and Harry Erlich and Lorraine Vaughn look pleased as adviser Mr. B. G. Wiesinger points out a praiseworthy caption in Mission's All-American paper.

Best Wishes to a real well gal, school, club, and all. Your tops. Sincerely Notated Rignato

Music Builds Morale As We Dance, Sing

1. Ray Monson, leader of band, working hard to find the correct key for the song which songstress Beverly Sass will sing at the rallies and coming dances.
2. Boys in Dance Band getting instruments ready to practice new songs for coming rally and dance.
3. Getting in the groove with Glenn Miller's arrangements. They don't mind the hard task of rehearsing.
4. What's this? Could it be a Sadie Hawkins Dance? You guessed it—even down to freckles and pig-tails. All that's missing is a good Virginia Reel.

COMBAT COMMUNIQUE

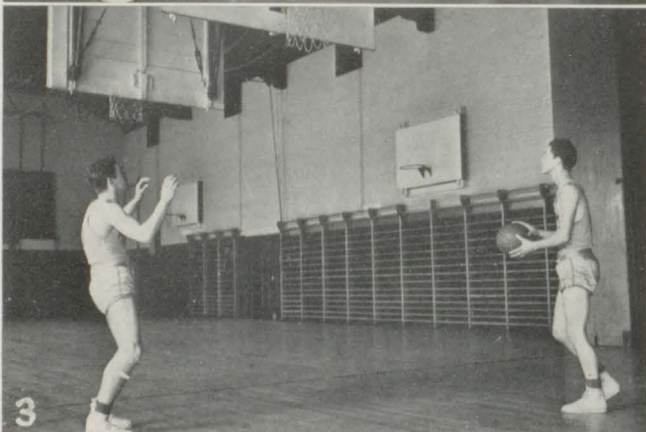

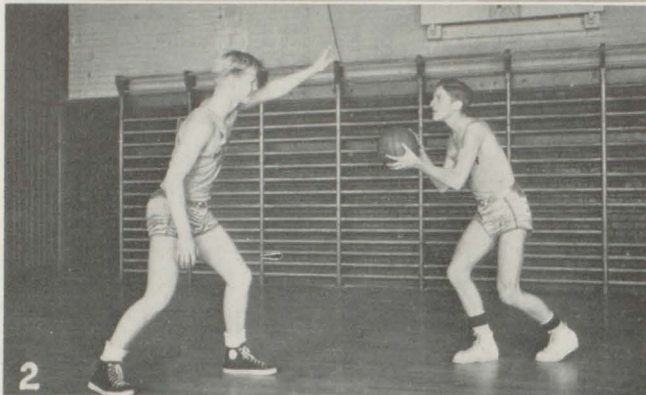

Close Games Feature Bear Court Season

Last season the Mission High varsity basketball team was very aggressive. Even though they didn't finish on top the Mission "hoopsters" were a dangerous threat at all times. The team was sparked by the accurate shooting of forward Al Prieto, who was the second highest point man in the league standings. Ed Simpson and John Howard each played a rugged floor game. At our guard positions we had those two very capable players John Domansky and George "Crusher" Quist.

Mission played its best game against the highly-rated Cal Frosh in which Mission downed the yearlings for their only loss of the season. They also beat their two rivals, Balboa and Commerce. After losing four games straight, the Bears came back to defeat Lincoln by a wide margin. Looking over the statistics, we find that Mission won the right to sixth place.

The Mission Cubs were a threat up to the final gun. They lost many games by the slimmest margins.

This team used a fast break which was very effective. Each boy was noted for a particular type of play. Capt. Bob Jones, aggressive; Mel Martin, good floor man; Mel Judnich, a good shot; Sid Oram, back-board player; Bob Shreve, "hustler"; Jack Henderson, cool.

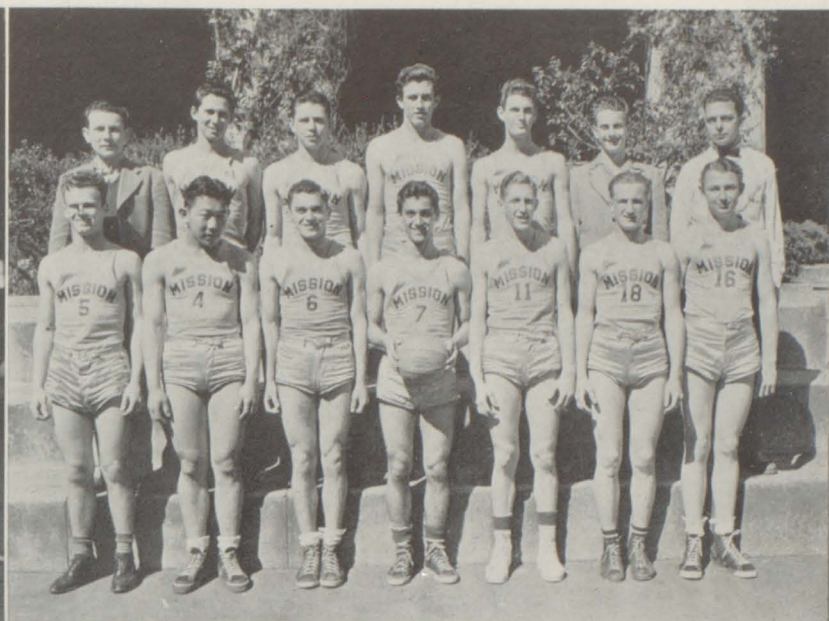

1. Coach Orran Qualls points out the weak spot of a fast-opening play to George Quist and Al Athanasopoulos.

2. George Quist is following his directions as Ed Simpson makes ready for the break.

3. Completing the break, the ball is fed to John Domansky who eyes up the basket as John Howard watches for a follow up.

Few Points Garnered By Bear Trackmen

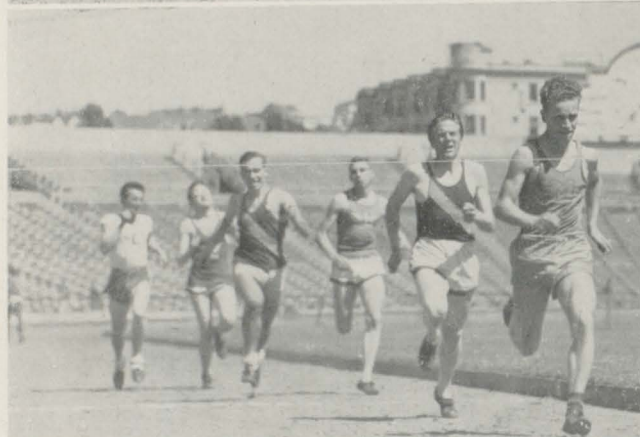

Lack of veterans brought about the poorest track season in Mission's history. The unlimited track team did not place a single man in the All-City meet. The lightweights, however, placed four men, Lyle Bibler, Reno Tonegato, Bill Wolf, and Jack Henderson.

Hats off to Lyle Bibler for his courage and endurance in winning first place in the 440 yard dash. Reno Tonegato won fourth place in the 130 pound low hurdles. Bill Wolf and Jack Henderson also won fourth place in the 220 yard dash and the high jump, respectively.

Coach Glenn Haas wishes to state that he would like to have more boys with ability out for track next season.

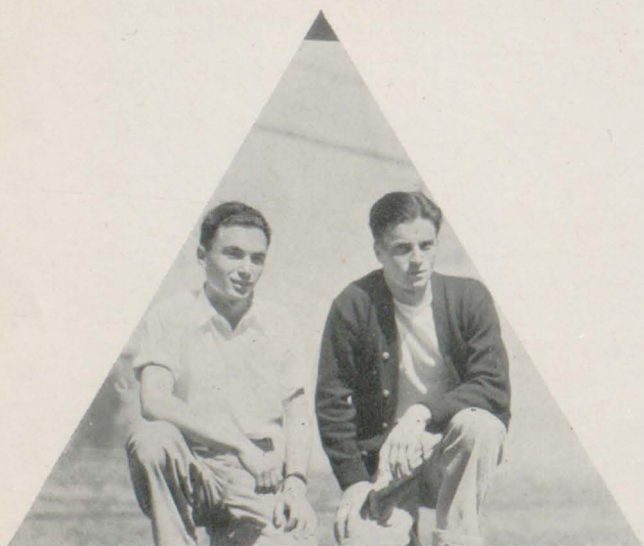

There is no doubt that much of the poor showing of Mission trackmen in the city meet is due to the poor condition of the practice track on the field. Lack of proper footing has made it practically impossible to practice on the soft track, the consistency of which is more like a broad-jump pit rather than a cinder path.

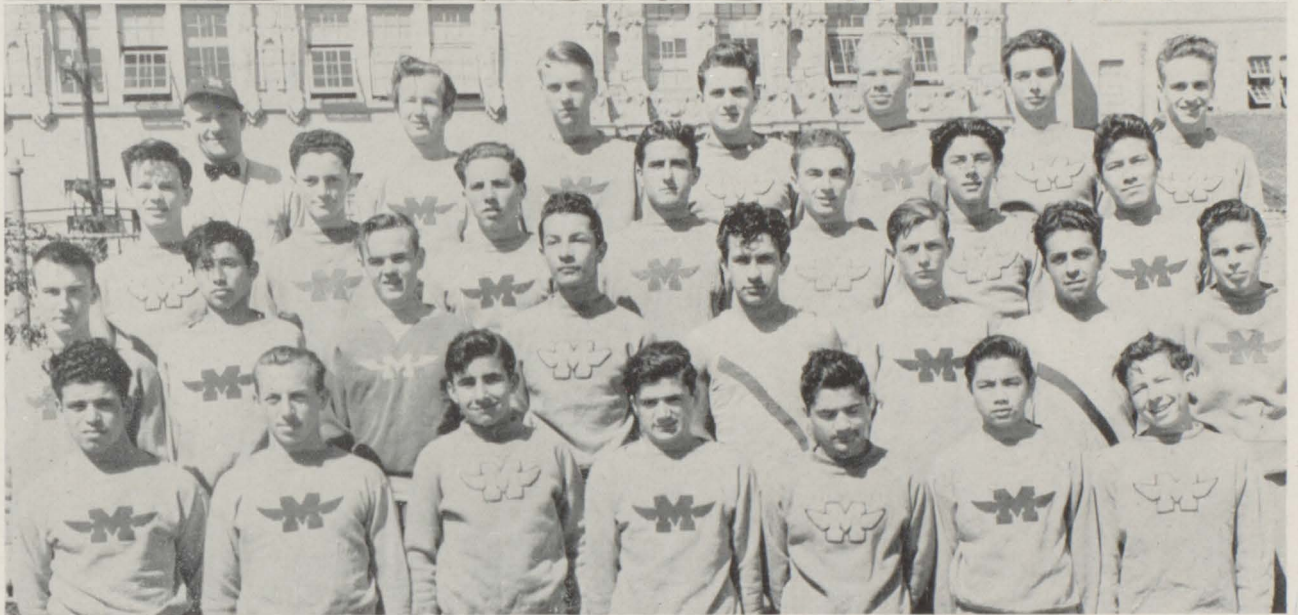

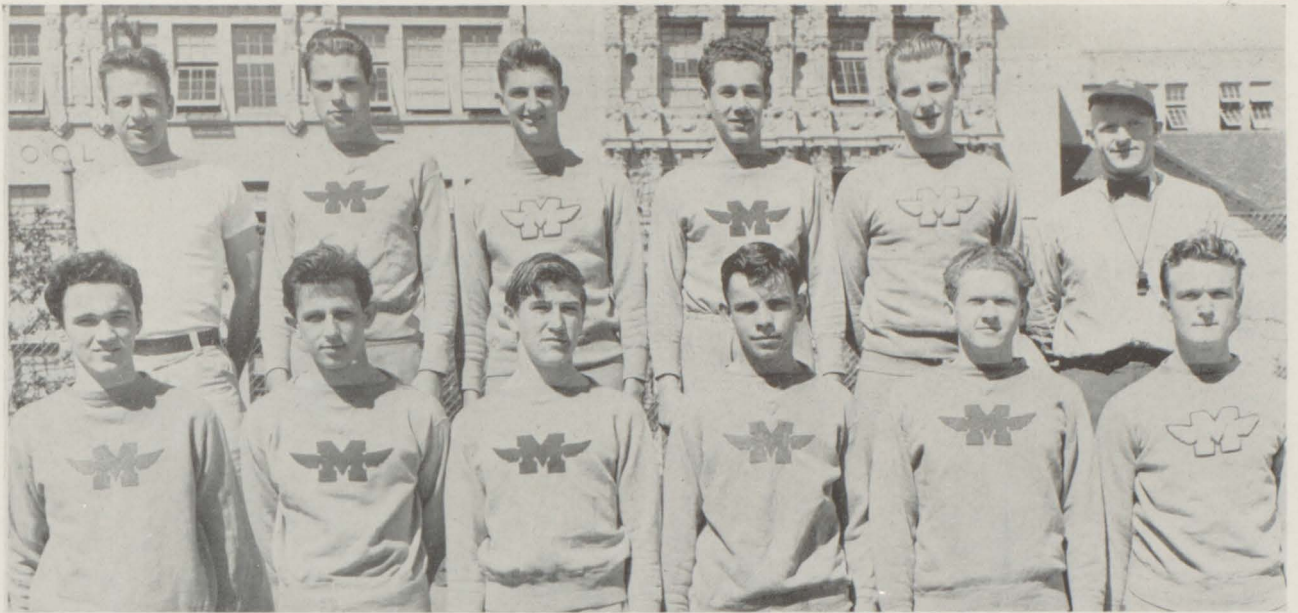

When this condition is remedied, Mission will be found among the leaders in track as she is in all other sports.

1. Lyle Bibler and Coach Glenn Haas consult prior to a training session as they consider means of improving Lyle's speed.
2. One point which they work on is a starting position which will enable Lyle to get away to a quick start for his favorite distance of 440 yards.
3. Practice brings results and Lyle crosses the finish line in first place. Sh-h-h! It was Mission's only first in the meet.

Bears Lose Wolfman; Playoffs Sink Hopes

The prep baseball season opened with a promising season ahead as schools were dismissed at noon so as to allow the students to attend the opening games at Seals Stadium.

A double header was the day's feature with Mission facing Poly and Balboa playing St. Ignatius. The Mission season was very successful. They went through the regular season winning all eight games.

However, they were defeated in the play-offs by St. Ignatius. The Wildcats, behind their star pitcher "Swede" Silvera, played inspired ball throughout the whole contest. The loss of this game did not mean that Mission was yet out of the play-offs.

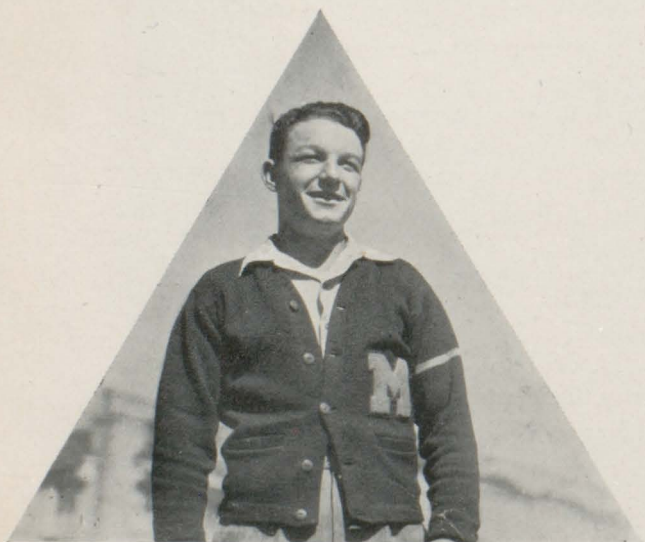

As the Bears met Galileo, defending champions of 1942, the 1942 championship hung in the balance and a crowd of 4000 was present to witness the close of the play-offs.

With Savarese pitching against some of the best hitters in the league, Mission fought gallantly but lost 4-1.

Thus Galileo again won the championship as Mission placed second.

On the All-City team Mission placed six players: Ted Savarese and Jim Lowman, pitchers; Al Prieto and Tony Velasquez, outfielders; Don Beck, catcher; and Captain Bob Shreve, utility infielder.

Mission had an additional loss. Popular Mr. George Wolfman joined the Navy. He was ably succeeded by Mr. Glen Dubose, a Mission graduate by way of San Jose State.

1. The parade of Mission rooters forms for the march to the ball park for the opening day of the prep baseball season as the girls plead, "Oh, boys, take us out to the ball game?"
2. Jack Dieker's jalopy seems to have good pick-up, and he joins the galaxy of cars decorated in brown and gold which, to the tune of "Fight For Mission Ever," treks to the stadium.
3. "Play ball!" and Al Prieto scores the first run of the season as Mission went on to ruffle the feathers of Poly's Parrots.

Athletic Leaders Help Bears to Win

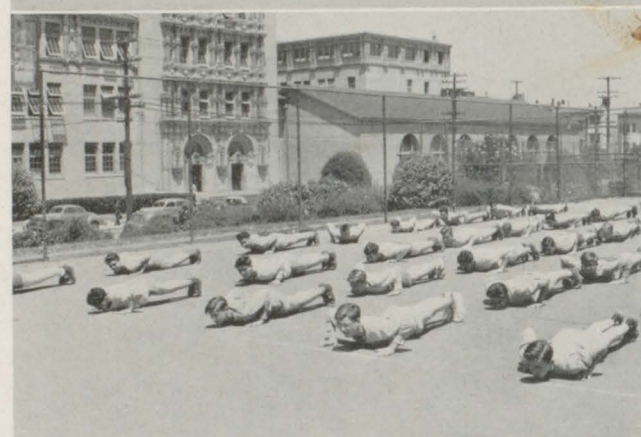

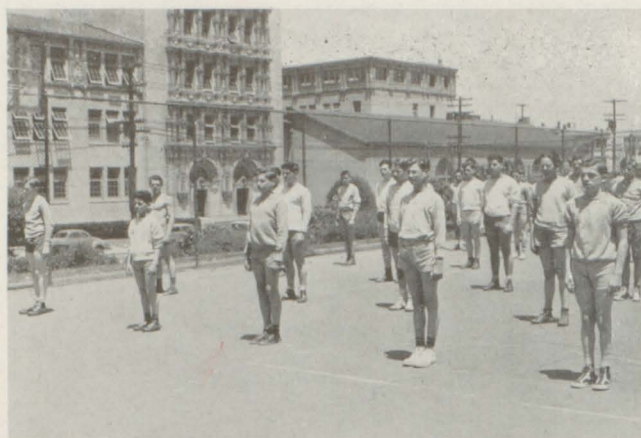

With the entrance of our country into the war which was thrust upon us after the bombing of Hawaii on December 7, the emphasis in sports has shifted somewhat. Instead of the out and out concentration upon team sports with the attendant attention as to games lost and won, there has been more concentration upon a program to include all students in a program for hardening of body and sharpening of spirit to make our youths ready for the rigors to come.

This is illustrated in the strip of pictures on this page as a boys' gym class goes through a vigorous physical drill which involves (1) standing at attention waiting for the next command; (2) squat; (3) the next position is prone; and then (4) push up!

Girls Stress Games In Health Program

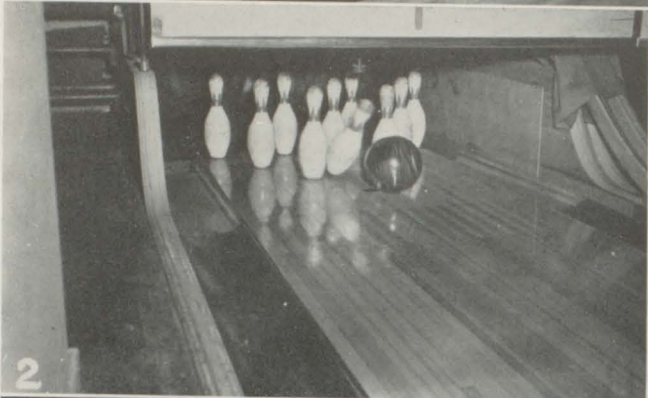

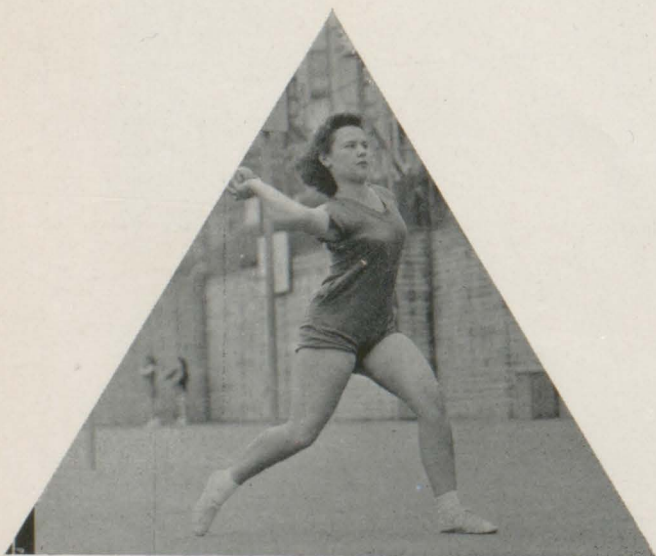

As a contribution to the Civilian Defense Program, the Physical Education Department of Mission is endeavoring to do everything possible to improve the health and ideals of every student. The sports activities, under the supervision of capable instructors, are an important part of the health program which is being carried on in every school. For the benefit of those students who are unable to participate in activity, corrective gym classes with either light recreation or rest periods are provided.

G. E. B.

Aiding to further this program is the Girls' Executive Board, the student governing body of the girls' physical education department, which is under the direction of Miss Lenora B. Davidson, department head. By receiving a Block "M" or by election, a girl may qualify for membership, but she must be equally outstanding in scholarship, as well as in sports. At a large rally at the end of the term, awards are presented to those girls who have earned them in their after-school activities. This semester, the G.E.B. is headed by Dolores Rincon.

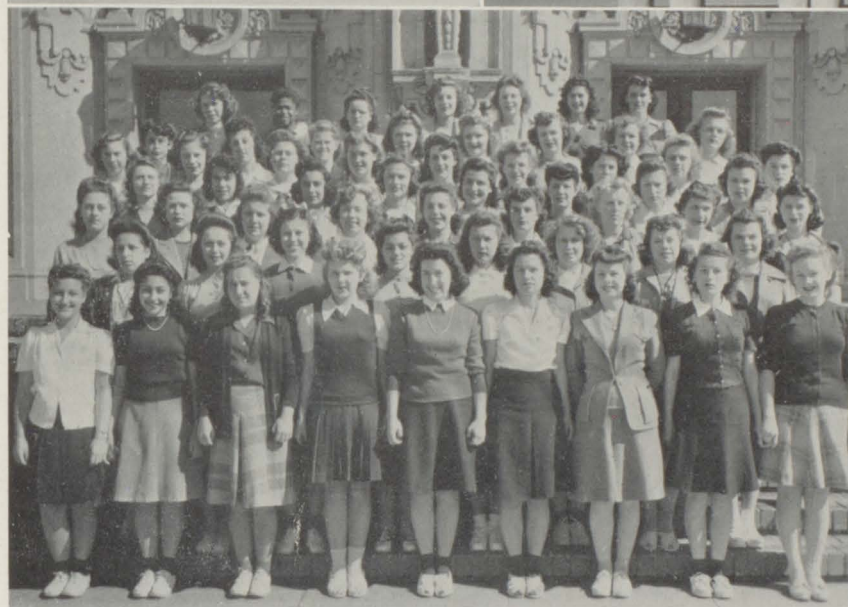

VOLLEYBALL

Of the various sports offered this term, volleyball is one of the most popular. It is played only until Easter vacation, when the interclass games take place, and each team competes for the championship title. This term the seniors were the victors by a narrow margin over the juniors. The teams were under the direction of Miss Davidson.

Sports Champs Win G.A.A. Membership

BASEBALL

RIDING

BOWLING

Bowling, although being the newest of the sports activities, is fast gaining popularity under the able leadership of Miss Helen F. Landon. The girls meet every Tuesday at Johnny Swanson's Mission Bowl where they are instructed in the finer points of the game.

ICE SKATING

Ice skating has always been a great favorite for many terms under the competent leadership of Miss Davidson. Once a week, the girls meet at Winterland Ice Rink to receive instruction in plain and figure skating.

VOLUNTEER OFFICE WORKERS

In these times, it is necessary that there be someone in the various offices and divisions of Civilian Defense who can contribute part of their spare time to aiding with the work that must be done. These individuals are unpaid for their labor and put in a certain amount of hours each week.

AIRPLANE SPOTTERS

All through the day and night, men and women are stationed on the tops of buildings throughout the various parts of the city, ready to phone in an alarm if any enemy planes are sighted.

Listening stations are scattered along the coast with highly trained men in the use of delicate instruments which can detect the sound of airplane motors thirty miles away. By this, an alert is sounded until the nationality of the planes is determined.

HOME GUARD

Defending from surprise attacks such as occurred at Pearl Harbor, the Home Guard remains to protect the docks, air-plane bases, and other military objectives that would offer good targets for our enemies, if given the opportunity. We depend on them for our safety, which in the future, will mean our freedom from the aggressors who would like nothing more than to make our democracy a dictatorship. So against them our Civilian Defense program stands guard.

STRETCHER BEARERS

A division of the Red Cross and Civilian Defense, the purpose of the Stretcher Bearer is to aid Red Cross workers in rescue work and to bring the injured and wounded to ambulance and to disaster relief centers where their injuries can be treated. Civilian Defense leaders have tried to provide for every possible contingency and our students have volunteered wholeheartedly for the training that has been provided. To the Stretcher Bearers, we say, "Carry on."

REMEMBRANCE

For remembrance through the years, there is no finer, more lasting, more desirable gift than jewelry.

At any of the three Granat stores, you will find the perfect gift to express your friendship and your sentiments. Or, if should be jewelry for yourself, Granat's welcome the opportunity to serve you.

AMBULANCE DRIVERS

These voluntary workers make up one of the most important parts of Civilian Defense. Privately owned station-wagons which have been turned over to the Government for the duration have been converted into fully equipped ambulances.

This mobile unit is a division of the American Women's Voluntary Service wherein each woman devotes a certain amount of her time each week. At present, they meet the evacuees from the incoming convoys and see that they arrive safely at their destinations.

VICTORY GARDENERS

Many Missionites today have found some means of growing the vegetables necessary to maintain a healthy, growing nation. In our apartments, special boxes have been erected outside the windows, in our homes a small section of the garden has been set aside, apart from the flowers, that these important vitamin containing vegetables may be grown without too much inconvenience. We have followed the President's advice in his talks to the Nation, in which he suggests that these gardens, however small, be planted wherever possible.

PERISCOPE PEEPERS

At strategic points along the coast, vigilant watchers are stationed with high powered telescopes and binoculars. These watchers of the sea are meticulous in every respect. They are suspicious of every unknown and unusual object that looks foreign or unusual in any way to their keen vision.

Even though submarine nets are placed in various coves and bays as a protection against the entrance of an enemy vessel, they cannot be located in open water, therefore it is necessary that these watchers maintain their careful surveillance.

AIR RAID WARDENS

When the sirens scream out their imperative warnings, when the street lights darken, when the people dim-out their homes, and hide themselves away in blackout rooms, then the air-raid warden patrols the streets so that no beam of light may guide an enemy bomber to some shipyard, some airplane factory, or some munitions plant.

Not only does the warden guard against escaping light, but he also is trained in disaster relief and in first aid.

BANDAGE ROLLERS

In every Red Cross Chapter today, a certain group of women is assigned to the job of rolling bandages. This is one occupation that is never finished, for the rolls of bandages are continually being sent to our boys who are fighting for the continued freedom of our nation.

Look!

So we've got a dime—a thin one!

Well—what's to do with it?

Buy candy and a pack of gum?

Now, Now!

We've got another idea—a better one!

Buy War Stamps! Our Uncle Samuel—and that means us—has a war on his hands that he didn't ask for but that he is going to finish—if!

If we give him all the dimes he needs to build the planes, tanks, and ships and guns that will win this war.

If we don't buy stamps we will be sorry!

If we do, they will get a whipping!

We dood it!
